Bishop Kingdon Dead.

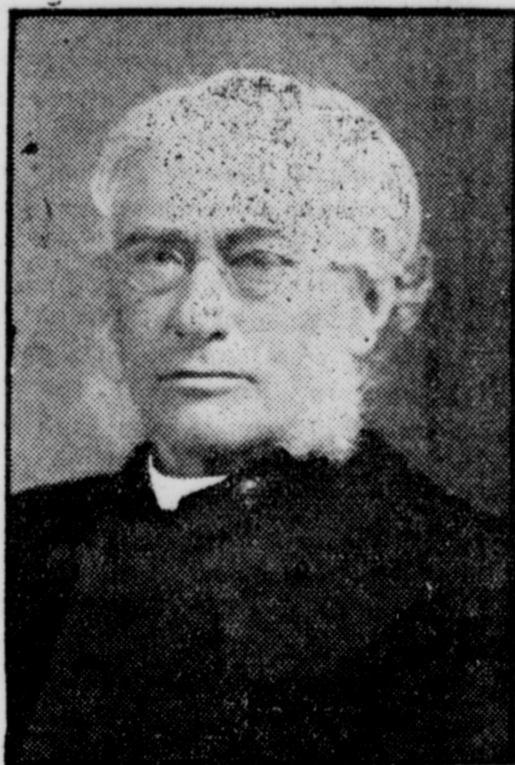

His Lordship Bishop Kingdon died at his residence, Fredericton, on Friday night, October 11th, at 11.45.

The end came in the presence of Mrs. Kingdon, his daughter, Miss Nancy Kingdon, Coadjutor Bishop Richardson and Dr. Crockett, the family physician.

His Lordship had been ill for a long time, his malady becoming so serious about a year ago that the appointment of a coadjutor bishop was made to relieve him of the active duties of his office.

Hollingsworth Tully Kingdon, D. D., D. C. L., was born in London, England, April 16, 1835. The family, of which he was a worthy representative, has been traced back to the year 1450 and an account of its origin, together with its coat of arms, may be found in books of heraldry.

The late Bishop Kingdon began his education in St. Paul's school, London, where he was captain of the school. In 1858 he graduated at Trinity College, Cambridge. He was granted a place in the honor list in mathematics; but as he fell sick and could not finish the examination, he was not classed. He was then for a year at Cuddesdon College, under Canon H. P. Liddon, where he was elected scholar. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Wilberforce, of Oxford, and priest by Bishop Hamilton of Salisbury. For about three years and a half he was curate of Sturminster Marshall, and he subsequently officiated in a like capacity for two years at Devizes. Then for a period of five years he was vice principal of Salisbury Theological College, after which for nine years he was curate of St. Andrew's Church, Wells street, London. Subsequently for some time he was vicar of Good Easter (a corruption of "God's Easter"), near Chelmsford.

While there he was elected Coadjutor Bishop of Fredericton and was consecrated on July 10, 1881. In the same year he received his degree of Doctor of Divinity at Cambridge, England, in 1892, that of Doctor of Divinity from King's College, Windsor, N. S., and later from Trinity College, Toronto.

A man of earnest purpose and scholarly attainments, Bishop Kingdon not only faithfully and efficiently performed the high duties of his sacred office, but has also contributed effectively by his pen and otherwise to advance the cause of religion and pure morality.

In 1873 he wrote a book entitled Fasting Communion.

He was also the author of a pamphlet on Divorce, the main tenets of which have since been crystallized into part of the Lower House of Convocation of York, England.

In 1890 Bishop Kingdon was appointed to deliver the Bishop Paddock lectures at the General Theological Seminary at New York, being the first alien to act in this capacity. In 1888 and 1897 he attended the conference of bishops at Lambeth, England. He was a deep student and lover of books and the possessor of a large and valuable library, containing some works so rare as to be almost priceless. Among them is a Latin manuscript dated 1268.

In 1860 Bishop Kingdon was married in the cathedral, Fredericton, to Anna Beverly daughter of Lieutenant Colonel Beverly Adino Robinson and widow of George Wm. Marsh. One child, a daughter, Anna Phillips-Randall, was born to the union. Mrs. Kingdon's first husband, by whom she had two daughters, was a descendant of Archbishop Marsh of Dublin.

For the last two or three years the late Bishop Kingdon has been in poor health. On the second day of October 1906, Rev. Canon Richardson, rector of Trinity, was made coadjutor bishop.

In St. Luke's church on Sunday evening the Rev. H. G. Alder referred to the loss of this church to this diocese had sustained in the death of Bishop Kingdon. His own personal acquaintance with him was of more recent date than many members of the congregation, but that his relations with the late bishop had been most friendly, and that he had received much kindness from him in the way of council and advice. His last public official act was on the 11th of March, 1906 at the ordination in Trinity church, St. John, of six young men, five to the priesthood, of whom he (the speaker) was one, on which occasion the spiritual counsel given to all the candidates will long be remembered.

Mr. Alder also referred to the early life of the bishop in this diocese, of which perhaps few knew anything.

It was a life of great activity and marked by large benevolence. It was not generally known that in the early days of his episcopate he relieved the Board of Missions considerably by spending all, or practically all, his salary upon poor parishes, and drawing upon his mother in England for his own needs. In these his last days bodily infirmity had prevented him from doing all that he knew was in the bishop's heart to do for the diocese.

The prayers of the congregation were asked on behalf of the sorrowing family.

Where the Business is Done.

The following round figures gives the approximate number of waybills, representing the number of way freight shipments from the different stations so far this year:—

Woodstock	6500
Hartland	2200
Florenceville	1300
Bristol	600
Bath	1100
Perth	1900

From these figures may be judged the relative amount of business at the different points. The number of carload shipments which would be even more interesting is not included in the above.

Henry B. Taylor.

After only a few days illness from diabetes, Henry B. Taylor died at his home at East Florenceville on Wednesday morning. The son of the late Alonzo Boyer, he was born 69 years ago at the homestead where he lived and died. His wife, a daughter of the late James Phillips of Bristol, and three sons survive. The sons are Arthur B., of Bath, Charles Humphrey of Hartland, and Alonzo, who resides on the homestead. The only daughter, wife of Wilmot Hunter, East Florenceville died four years ago.

Mr. Taylor was a man of influence in the community and bore the highest respect of his neighbours. For many years he was a prominent member of the Methodist church, always taking a deep interest in the work of the congregational body of which he was a member. The Conservative party loses a staunch supporter in his taking away, and the Court of Foresters a valued member.

The funeral, held on Friday afternoon is said to have been the most largely attended of any at East Florenceville in recent years. The Foresters conducted the ceremonies at the house and at the grave, while at the church a large congregation listened to an able sermon by the pastor, the Rev. Joseph Pierce.

John Shannon.

On Thursday death came suddenly to John Shannon of Greenfield while he was at work in the grain-field. He was pitching on the load and while reaching forward for a forkful of oats fell on his face and expired. It is supposed that heart failure was the cause of death. Mr. Shannon was one of three brothers, John, Jonathan and Robert, all well to do farmers who lived alone, unmarried. Deceased was 55 years of age. Rev. J. H. A. Anderson (Presbyterian) conducted the funeral services.

New Engineering Firm.

"Myers & Bedell, Civil and Consulting Engineers" is the title of a new engineering firm just organized, with offices on the third floor of the Kelly Trust company's building. Mr. Myers of the new firm, is a member of the American Waterworks Association and assistant engineer in charge of the new sewer work being done by the board of improvements. Mr. Bedell is chief draftsman for the board of improvement, and these gentlemen are competent engineers in every respect. They will engage in municipal and railway engineering, and land surveying. Cement testing and drafting will be a specialty.—Fort Smith Times, Arkansas.

Mr. Bedell, of the above firm, is a son of J. J. Bedell, of Lower Woodstock, and a graduate of the University of New Brunswick.

The 50 pairs of Saxony wool blankets, shown in the corner window of Jas. S. McManus' new store, marked $2.85 the pair, should go very quickly as they are splendid values at the low price quoted.

Mrs. John Harper.

Jane Harper wife of Mr. John Harper, died at her home in Jacksonville at 9 o'clock Monday morning, at the age of 78 years, after a long illness. She was a Miss Harrison and was born at Upper Woodstock, where 53 years ago she was united in marriage to Mr. Harper. She leaves beside her husband two sons, Fred who is in the western states and Stanley at home and two daughters Mrs. Benjamin Kilburn of Kilburn and Miss Bessie at home. The Rev. George Harrison of Sawyerville, Quebec, is a brother as was also the late Rev. Frederick Harrison. The funeral will be held at 2.30 this afternoon from her late residence.

Mrs. Harper was a woman of a particularly charming character who endeared to her all who had the pleasure of knowing her well.

Funeral of the Late John McKenzie.

The funeral of the late John McKenzie took place on Thursday afternoon at 2 p. m., from his late residence, Maple street, to the Episcopal church, where a short service was read by the Rector the Rev. H. G. Alder, thence to the Methodist cemetery where the beautiful ritual of the masonic order was read by W. M., D. W. Kyle. The following were the floral offerings: pillow, wife and daughter; square and compass, Masonic Lodge; wreath, H. W. and J. E. Gallagher; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. T. Monahan, Fredericton; wreath, Conservative friends; flat bouquet, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Manzer; flat bouquet, Mrs. J. McCrae; flat bouquet, Miss K. McCann; cut flowers, Miss Jessie McCrae; ferns, Mrs. M. Glidden.

Burglary at Boundary Line.

On Sunday evening the store at Boundary Line kept by Holman McMullin was entered and a quantity of goods taken. This is the second similar burglary within a week, on the other occasion the entry having been effected from the Canadian side. Mr. McMullin has pretty certain evidence that a man who had been employed about the premises is the culprit. As this fellow is now at his home on the American side and Mr. McMullin not caring to tread on Uncle Sam's territory because of some little trouble he had with the State authorities over the liquor question, the chances are that there will be no prosecution.

BABY'S HEALTH.

Baby's health and happiness depends upon its little stomach and bowels performing their work regularly. If these are out of order Baby's own Tablets will cure the trouble quicker than any other medicine, and the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that this medicine is perfectly safe. Mrs. Frank Neil, Marysville, Ont., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for stomach and bowel troubles, breaking up colds and destroying worms, and always with the best success." Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brookville, Ont.
