

Nursing baby?

It's a heavy strain on mother.

Her system is called upon to supply nourishment for two.

Some form of nourishment that will be easily taken up by mother's system is needed.

Scott's Emulsion contains the greatest possible amount of nourishment in easily digested form.

Mother and baby are wonderfully helped by its use.

Mrs. Campbell's Voice.

Among all of Mrs. Patrick Campbell's treasures, the one which is guarded with the greatest care and the one which she carries with her and keeps by her side on every journey she makes, is an American phonograph. For in the phonograph she carries the voice of her dead husband, whose body lies buried on a South African battle-field.

It is in reality, a voice from the grave. On the record are impressed words of hope and cheer and tenderness that the gallant sergeant spoke on the veldt of South Africa before the bullet of a Boer sharpshooter ended his life.

Is it to be wondered at that Mrs. Campbell values this instrument so highly?

For her marriage was the culmination of a rare romance and the love between her and her husband was almost ideal.

Mrs. Campbell was Beatrice Stella Tanner, the daughter of the manager of an oriental banking institution in London.

She was seventeen when she met handsome young "Pat" Campbell. He was nineteen.

It was a case of love at first sight. They were married, and in the course of time two children came to them.

One was a boy Allan, the image of his father. The other was a girl, Stella—her mother's prototype.

Business ventures called Patrick Campbell to South Africa. There he remained for several years. His wife stayed in London with the two children. She undertook the study of music and in time was graduated with honors at the Royal Academy.

After seven years in South Africa, ten thousand miles away from his girl wife and their children, Patrick Campbell returned to London and became a barrister.

When the outbreak of the Boer war spread its cloud over England, he enlisted in the volunteer infantry and became a sergeant. Then it was Sergeant Patrick Campbell, No. 4810, of Lord Methune's Brigade—Imperial Yeomanry. The regiment of which he was a member was made up of English gentlemen living in and about London. In the meantime Mrs. Campbell stormed the heights of endeavor and won success as an actress, that is now one of the traditions of the English stage. When the gallant husband set sail for South Africa she was nearly heart-broken. In the dark hour which brought the news of his death, she was playing to her own theatre, the Royalty, and London was at her feet. It was in the midst of the play in which she first won fame, "The second Mrs. Tanqueray." During the second act, near the denouement, a cablegram bearing news of her husband's death was handed to her. The play was stopped at once and the Royalty was closed for a week, while the body of the handsome, strapping Irish gentleman was buried in the veldt in South Africa with military honors.

Among the household treasures of the Patrick Campbell's was an American phonograph. Their favorite amusement was to listen to its records and to make new ones of the voices of themselves and their friends.

Just before Sergeant Campbell went to the war in South Africa he spoke some messages into the machine and left them as affectionate legacies to his wife and children.

After he had arrived at the seat of war with his regiment before the yeomanry went upon the battlefield to leave so many brave fellows there, Sergeant Campbell procured some records and imprinted upon them the sounds of his own voice, in words of love and cheer to his dear ones in England. These records are to Mrs. Campbell the priceless memories of a man truly beloved. She carries them with her wherever she goes. They are her companions of the morning her solace by night.

Little Stella, also has a phonograph and the dearest hours of her childhood were passed in listening to her father's words spoken to her over the ocean.

Gallant Allan Campbell, his very father over again, and middy in his Majesty's navy has a phonograph, too. He keeps it in his chest on board ship in Hong Kong harbour.

Warts.

That so many people go through life with these unsightly spots on face, neck and hand is surprising, when they can be so easily removed. Warts are simply an overgrowth of flesh covered with a hardened skin. For home treatment there is a safe remedy, a simple one within the reach of all. It is this: Several times a day moisten the spots with water and rub them with a piece of washing soda. This removes them and no scar remains. Frequently a little white spot appears after the wart is gone, but that will soon wear away.

The Sufferings of the Dyspeptic.

DUE TO NEGLECTING TO KEEP THE LIVER RIGHT, THE DIGESTION GOOD, THE BOWELS HEALTHY BY USING

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

You may shudder to think of yourself as a dyspeptic—as one who, through stomach troubles, has come to look on the dark side of things, and to be ill tempered and grouchy—but if you neglect treatment for repeated attacks of indigestion you will most assuredly become a chronic dyspeptic.

The great mistake is to put the blame on the stomach, and strive in vain for lasting benefit from tablets and so-called digestives. The real cause of trouble in nine cases out of ten is with the liver.

Thousands of persons are being cured of complicated cases of indigestion by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, because of their direct action on the liver, thus ensuring a good flow of bile—good digestion and healthful action of the bowels.

Mr. C. D. Bennett, Maple Grove, Megantic Co., Que., writes: "I had dyspepsia very bad. The food would sour, my stomach would swell up, I suffered a great deal and could not sleep. As the result of using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills I am now entirely cured, and can eat any kind of food without feeling any bad effects. They have made a new man and a younger man of me, and I cannot say too much in their praise."

"Dr. Chase's Ointment cured a friend of mine of piles when he was so bad he could not work or even stand up."

Mr. Wm. G. Purdy, Bridgetown, N. S., writes: "When I wrote to you for Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills I was a sufferer from kidney disease, stomach troubles, and liver and bowel disorders. By using one pill at bedtime every night my health has gradually improved until I can say that I am in better health than I have been for twenty years. All other medicines failed, but Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have cured me."

This treatment is thorough, far-reaching and of lasting benefit, and cures the most severe cases of chronic and intestinal indigestion, as well as biliousness and constipation; 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Love is Cruel

Love comes unbidden and flees from those who pray at his shrine. He comes like all conquering kings—free-hearted generous, great; he goes like a thief in the night, carrying away all that has made life worth the living. He stabs us with the weapons we have given him, he drinks our tears and laughs at the tortures he inflicts, for love is cruel. . . And yet we are ever ready again and again to bare our hearts to the blows. Men feel love with more intensity than women; and they forget it more swiftly.—Leonard Marshall in "Madame."

The finest Coffee Substitute ever made, has recently been produced by Dr. Sloop of Racine Wis. You don't have to boil it twenty or thirty minutes. "Made in a minute" says the doctor. "Health Coffee" is really the closest Coffee Imitation ever yet produced. Not a grain of real Coffee in it either. Health Coffee Imitation is made from pure toasted cereals or grains, with malt, nuts, etc. Really it would fool and expert—were he to unknowingly drink it for Coffee.—Sold by all dealers.

Whiskers.

The season for whiskers has arrived. It came in with the general cold wave of November, and will be with us until the golf season opens. There are to be no radical changes in styles this fall. Fashion in whiskers like fashion in dress must needs revert to the old for its novelties. This season's display will be along safe and sane lines that will redound to the welfare of all the people in general, and the party wearing the whiskers in particular. For this and various other reasons the la Sherman cut bids fair to be a leader. There is an undefined something about them that might be designated as comfortable. Then there is the Dundreary and Lace Curtain styles, each having its good points. Some men believe in whiskers as a protection to the throat in cold weather, this is the viewpoint of some singers. Others grow them to hide something on their faces; it may be a mole or it may be a reflection of the soul within.

Striving and Falling.

Life is not designed to minister to a man's vanity. He goes upon his long business most of the time with a hanging head, and all the time like a blind child. Full of rewards and pleasures as it is—so that to see the day break, or the moon rise, or to meet a friend, or to hear the dinner call when he is hungry, fills him with surprising joys—this world is yet for him no abiding city. Friendships fall through, health fails, weariness assails him; year after year he must thumb the hardly varying record of his own weakness and folly. It is a friendly process of detachment. When the time comes that he should go, there need be few illusions left about himself. "Here lies one who meant well, tried a little, failed much"—surely that may be his epitaph, of which he need not be ashamed.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

No Honing—No Grinding

You know from daily experience, at home or in the barber shop, that the question is—"Why doesn't a razor hold its edge uniformly from heel to head without honing and grinding?" Whether it is a safety, with the certain tax of new blades, or the ordinary open-bladed razor does not alter the question. You want the comfort and satisfaction of a clean, smooth shave every morning with the confident knowledge that your razor will be ready for instant use the next time needed.

The Carbo Magnetic razor is the only razor unconditionally guaranteed to do this. Thirty years of study on the razor situation has perfected a new secret process of ELECTRIC TEMPERING that positively merges every particle of carbon (the life of steel) into the metal—giving a diamond-like hardness uniformly throughout the blade—something absolutely impossible with fire tempered steel—used in making all other razors.

But test this razor in your own home—or if you prefer, have your barber use it on you. Give us your name, or call and see the "Carbo Magnetic" razor, and we will state our proposition for testing these razors without obligation on your part to purchase, together with our free booklet "Hints on Shaving." This book illustrates the correct razor position for shaving every part of the face.
