ELEGY IN A CITY CHURCHYARD.
 By Ellis O. Jones.

The stock exchange is closed for the day.
 The housewives all are tanking up on tea.
 The magnate homeward speeds his comfy way
 And leaves the world to electricity.
 Can what we earn with laminated trust
 Back to the magnate call the fleeting breath?
 Can honor's voice recoup the deadly bust,
 Or privilege soothe the dull, cold ear of death?
 The roost of the Herald, the times power,
 And all that Congress, all that judge, e'er gave,
 Await alike the inevitable hour.
 The paths of glory lead but to the knave.

Inflammation of the Kidneys

AND BRIGHT'S DISEASE ARE PRACTICALLY ONE, AND TO
 THESE ARE RELATED DR.
 CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

Dr. Bright discovered that the symptoms of Bright's disease were caused by inflammation of the kidneys. Thus it derives its name. As to the relationship of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to the above disease, the testimonials of thousands bear evidence.

Dating back to 1867, when Dr. Chase's practice spread to Canada, we have letters from persons who used the kidney-liver pill successfully. Mr. G. W. Parish of Sturgeon Bay, Ont., writes that he went to the doctor at that time for this medicine, which cured him completely.

Notwithstanding the remarkable cures of this dreadful disease, people still work on, complaining of terrible pains in the small of the back, exclaiming they feel "all in," being overcome with feelings of weariness and despondency. These true signs of diseased kidneys and the power of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills make known your duty.

Perhaps you haven't these particular symptoms, but have the ones which are most noticeable in the urine. Upon them the physician relies for a positive opinion. If the urine is of a deep color, has a strong odor and deposits a heavy sediment upon standing, then consider your case carefully. They are infallible signs, but not of an incurable disease; thanks to Dr. Chase.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cured Mr. S. E. Phelps, Bolton Centre, Que.; they can cure you. He says:—"My kidneys and back were so bad I was unable to work or sleep. My urine had sediment like brick dust. I was compelled to get up four or five times during the night. I saw Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills advertised and concluded to give them trial. One box has effected a complete cure. I can now saw wood or do any kind of work. My kidneys do not bother me. I can now enjoy a good sleep, and consider Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills a great boon. I was a great sufferer with kidney trouble for 18 years."

One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Elmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto, Ont. Write for Dr. Chase's 1906 Calendar Almanac.

The Fat of the Land.

Among the subjects popularly supposed to be of general interest as social topics, the weather takes precedence, by right of age, closely followed by the servant question. Observation, however, leads me to think that there is today a theme of even more universal appeal. I refer to Flesh. Have we not all noticed how the ice of even a Boston tea party melts if one lady declines sugar on the plea that it is fattening? Instantly tongues that were tied are loosed, for a touch of fatness makes the whole world kin. The magic phrase "too stout" acts as a general introduction, and each guest is so busy telling her experiences in various systems for lessening avoidpous that none has time to listen.

Why has this mania for emaciation struck the community? I am myself something of a fatalist on the subject of fat, and, having the figure of a wch-ball, I feel that my craving for a waist-line is simply the desire of the moth for the star, and I have learned to find compensations in the immediate sphere of my sorrow—that sphere being myself.

To my possibly prejudiced point of view, there seem to be certain very desirable moral attributes accompanying a generous adipose deposit. Stout people are generally good-natured, warm-hearted, lovable, and kind. Thin people are often suspicious, sensitive, acrid, censorious.

Stout people have perhaps the virtues of inertia; patience, restfulness, peaceableness, a certain sedentary sympathy—but why should they not accept this fat as a fact and make the best of it? The stout are almost always popular with other people, the thin with themselves.

Let us eat potatoes and drink water, for to-morrow we die, and we might just as well laugh and be fat to-day.

Man, being on a larger scale than woman, feels no more concern about his imaginary waist-line than that with which the earth regards the equator. He feels that all flesh is grass, and that it doesn't very much matter whether his individual crop is more abundant than his neighbor's. He submits to his natural tendency, enjoys life, and accepts good-naturedly the thousand natural shocks that his over-abundant flesh is heir to.

Let me assure my brothers and sisters in the bonds of flesh that they will be happier themselves and less wearisome to others if they will cease to think and talk of their size, and will instead cultivate the qualities that are theirs by right of their superior weight.

It is theirs to sit while others stand, to eat while others bant, to rest while others roll, to sleep while others fret. I suppose it is a pleasant sensation to be slender of build, light of foot, and quick of motion, but, on the whole, I am inclined to regard a thin person as one does not regard the unduly celebrated Purple Cow—I'd rather be than see one. Give me corpulent companions. Let the tightly compressed dwellers in my heart's heart be stout women,—and as regards the opposite sex—why, I can only devoutly echo the commentary of Cæsar, "Let me have men about me that are fat!"—W. P.

World-Wide Money Piethra.

(London Statist.)

With trade contracting and with the prices of commodities falling, much less money will be required for circulation all over the world and there is unlikely to be that great absorption of the new supplies of gold we have witnessed in recent years. Indeed, matters may go beyond this. Not only may the new gold accumulate in the international markets, but a portion of the great amounts of new gold that have been absorbed into circulation in recent years may return to the banks.

The influences of the new conditions upon London will be somewhat complex. It is evident that confidence has been rather severely shaken in the United States and in Germany and that there will be very little disposition to find money for new enterprises and for new loans in those countries. In England, however, there has been no shock to confidence; and we are as willing as ever to embark capital in any part of the world in which it may be required. Hence money may presently become more usable in London than in other international markets, and foreign bankers may send a relatively large amount of their balances to London for employment at the rates which will be current here.

At any rate, the general feeling is that we are in for a period of easy money, and in spite of the scarcity of floating balances, bills are taken freely a 3 per cent, for three months, 2½ per cent for four and 2¼ per cent. for six months' drafts. The accumulation of money in the Bank of England in consequence of the revenue payments keeps the market at the Bank of England, and inasmuch as no great disbursement of government money can be looked for until the close of March, the market will probably remain indebted to the bank until the new quarter. However, in April the supply of money will apparently be very abundant, and a further reduction in the bank rate at that time is very probable.

The Best He Knew.

Gladstone, a Jamaican negro, was assistant to a district physician in the Canal Zone, and, being rather poor in his Latin, the bottles had been numbered for his benefit. One day a Spanish laborer came in for medicine, and the Doctor told his worthy assistant to give him two pills out of number six. After he had gone the doctor asked:

"Gladstone, did you give the man a dose of number six?"

"Oh, no, sah, Doctor; numbah six war finished, so I just give him one pill out of numbah foah and one out of numbah two."

Didn't Agree with Me

Mr. Arthur Tension, 88 London Street, Toronto, writes enthusiastically of the merits of Psychine for all stomach troubles.

"For seven years I have had indigestion and dyspepsia. I tried scores of remedies. My room resembled a drug store with nostrums which I had bought. Eventually I used Psychine, and every dose brought permanent relief."

All throat, lung and stomach troubles quickly cured by Psychine. It is the prescription of a great specialist. At all druggists, 50c and $1.00, or Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited, Toronto.

Willf mstown.

We have had most all kinds of weather this week, frost, snow and rain, some are travelling with runners and others with wheels.

Mr. Thos. Pryor and son have been sawing wood for Mr. Wm. Page this week.

Gillis Bros. have been finishing their own threshing the last few days.

Mr. Howells Corbett has hauled his wood to the Carvell house at Lakeville, which he has bought and intends to occupy soon.

Mr. Charles Armstrong, Fort Fairfield, was the guest of his brother William the latter part of this week.

Miss Bessie Armstrong has returned from St. John, where she has been attending the millinery openings for several weeks.

There is quite a lot of sickness here at present. Mr. Jameson's family are most all having a severe attack of la grippe.

Mrs. Handford Lindsay entertained friends at a quilting one day last week.

Miss Fern Page is visiting at her grandmothers, Tracey's Mills.

Miss Bessie Carvell, Lakeville, has returned to take charge of her school at Fort Fairfield after a vacation of two weeks.

Mr. John A. Porter was the guest of Mr. Andrew Jameson one evening this week. Mr. Wm. McWaid was also a caller.

Mrs. Wm. McWaid and Mrs. Wm. Page have called on the sick at A. Jameson's, also Mrs. John A. Porter this week.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

MARCH.

By Margaret Prescott Montague.

Ah, March, for all your chill forbidding dole,

The baby April in your arms you bring!
 So may the weary March days of my soul
 Awake in me God's April, and his spring!

Circumstantial Evidence.

"You say you met the defendant on a street-car, and that he had been drinking and gambling," said the attorney for the defence during the cross examination.

"Yes," replied the witness.

"Did you see him take a drink?"

"No."

"Did you see him gambling?"

"No."

"Then how do you know," demanded the attorney, "that the defendant had been drinking and gambling?"

"Well," explained the witness, "he gave the conductor a blue chip for his car-fare, and told him to keep the change."
