Constipation

Baked sweet apples, with some people, bring prompt relief for Constipation. With others, coarse all-wheat bread will have the same effect. Nature undoubtedly has a vegetable remedy to relieve every ailment known to man, if physicians can but find Nature's way to health. And this is strikingly true with regard to Constipation.

The bark of a certain tree in California—Cascara Sagrada—offers a most excellent aid to this end. But, combined with Egyptian Senna, Slippery Elm Bark, Solid Extract of Fruits, etc., this same Cascara bark is given its greatest possible power to correct constipation. A toothsome Candy Tablet, called Lax-ets, is now made at the Dr. Shoop Laboratories, from this ingenious and most effective prescription. Its effect on Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Sallow Complexion, etc., is indeed prompt and satisfying.

No griping, no unpleasant after effects are experienced, and Lax-ets are put up in beautiful lithographed metal boxes at 5 cents and 25 cents per box.

An Awful Mistake.

(Glasgow Herald.)
A pathetic tale of Eskimo love is told by Lieutenant Shackleton, the leader of an Arctic expedition. A young Eskimo had loved an Eskimo lass, but as he had not the necessary number of sealskins to provide the marriage portion required by her father, he met with no encouragement from the stern parent. A yawning chasm separated the respective dwellings of the ardent lover and his beloved, which could be crossed only by a snow bridge. The youth conceived a plan. He would cross the snow bridge in the night, abduct the girl, and after recrossing destroy the bridge, and so prevent pursuit. He carried the plan into effect. One night he crossed the bridge, invaded the hut of his idol, seized a sleeping-bag, and departed, destroying the bridge after he had crossed. Then he opened the sleeping-bag, and discovered that he had abducted—not the girl, but the old man!

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The Right to Work.

We hear a great deal said these days about the right to quit work when the workman pleases. With a few necessary limitations for the protection of life and public interest, that is freely conceded; and a judge who undertook to deny it had to confess his error. But what about the right to work? Is not that as sacred as the right to quit?

Suppose an effort were made to prevent the employes of the railroads from leaving their places when they became dissatisfied—what a howl of indignant protest would be heard, and how the effort would be condemned as an attempt to reduce the workman to the grade of a slave! But what is the difference when a man wants to work, and another man, or combination of men, will not permit him to do so, but pounce upon him and beat him half to death, or possibly kill him, for venturing to exercise a right just as sacred as his right to quit work?

Bishop A. G. Haygood, commenting on this matter, says: "Society cannot exist if confederate men who will not work, prevent, by violence, men from working who wish to work. The continuance of such a state of things will bring anarchy complete and despotism absolute. The government that tolerates such a state of things is foolish; the government that condones it is blind; the government that winks at it is wicked; the government that cannot prevent or suppress it is weak and worthy of contempt."

That is a conclusion from which there is no escape. The government is bound to protect the right of the individual to make a free contract, and if labor organizations will persist in denying that right, they will have to be taught to respect it, or we may as well abandon all legal restraint and sink into anarchy at once.

Misunderstood.

A benevolent New York woman was visiting a lower East Side Sunday School. To test the aptness of a particularly indigent cluster of pupils she took the class in hand to question them. "Children, which is the greatest of all virtues?" Not one answered. "Think a little. What it is I am doing when I give up time and pleasure to come down among you for your moral good?" A grimy fist went up. "Well, what am I doing, little boy?" "Buttin' in!"—Short Stories.

Discipline And The Boy.

Between the ages of fifteen and twenty, as has already been pointed out, the boy needs the closest attention. While budding into a man he becomes abnormal in mind and body. Egotism becomes his dominating characteristic. He resents advice, and chafes under parental discipline. He is like a caged tiger, ever seeking to burst his bonds. He has no perspective of life, none of its bitter and wholesome educational experiences, and cannot believe them essential. It is a time when the wisest parents—in spite of their own experiences, which they generally seem to have forgotten—are perplexed. Noting that the boy is often more susceptible to outside influences than to those of the home, he is sent away to school, if such a thing is possible.

Sometimes this act of the parent is the result of mere laziness or a confession of weakness to cope with a difficult situation. The father, engrossed in business, is apt to be tyrannical in the discipline of his son, or else let him go his own way unmolested. The mother, whose affections are so curiously set on sons, is apt to interfere with the father's ideas. It may be that both have the same love for and the same pride in their son, the same desire to develop him into a good man, but they are apt to take radically different and independent measures. It is no uncommon thing even for a mother to side with the son against the father, simply because she thinks she understands the boy better. And often that is exactly the case. Her sympathies are broader and her resentment over foolish conduct much less. This psychological problem of adolescence is the most important in the history of any family. It is a subject to which Dr. G. Stanley Hall has devoted two large volumes which form one of the most valuable scientific works in recent years.

But the boy is often sent to school simply because, all other remedies having been exhausted with poor results, a career beyond the hearthstone seems on all grounds to be the last resort. This is apt to be the very best policy, no matter what the social or financial status of the parents. It is good for all concerned. The boy gets a new chance and the parents, experiencing a powerful sense of relief from the necessity of constant discipline, have time to expend their affections on the absent son without restraint.

A boy will generally take discipline more patiently from strangers than from his parents, since an assumption of inherited rights leads him to assume that he is master of the home, or at least free from its fretting discipline. He does not see the reasons for restrictions imposed upon him, and jumps to the conclusion that they are unjust and not based on real love for him. On the contrary, he more readily accepts discipline at school as just or merited, no matter how disagreeable it may be to him.

—Joseph M. Rogers in May Lippincott's.

It is because men are prone to be partial towards those they love, unjust towards those above them, arrogant towards those below them, and either harsh or over indulgent to those in poverty and distress, that it is so difficult to find anyone capable of exercising sound judgment with respect to the qualities of others. Therefore, it is the part of wisdom to withhold judgment and immerse ourselves in our own affairs in order that others may attend to theirs.—Confucius.

Didn't Agree with Me

Mr. Arthur Tannison, 88 London Street, Toronto, writes enthusiastically of the merits of Psychine for all stomach troubles.

"For seven years I have had indigestion and dyspepsia. I tried scores of remedies. My room resembled a drug store with nostrums which I had bought. Eventually I used Psychine, and every dose brought permanent relief."

All throat, lung and stomach troubles quickly cured by Psychine. It is the prescription of a great specialist. At all druggists, 50c and $1.00, or Dr. T. A. Slocom, Limited, Toronto.

Heading off a Risk

Gas is liable to puff out of the front door of any furnace unprovided for gas escape.

"Sunshine" Furnace has Automatic Gas Damper directly connected with smoke-pipe. Gas pressure sways damper sufficiently for it to escape up chimney (see illustration), but heat doesn't escape.

What does "Sunshine" Gas Damper mean to "Sunshine" Furnace? Means protection to the furnace parts against evil effects of gas.

What does "Sunshine" Gas Damper mean to "Sunshine" householder? Means furnace can be operated without fear as to "puffing" gas; furnace can be left without doubt as to whereabouts of gas.

What does "Sunshine" Gas Damper mean to "Sunshine" coal account? It means, instead of owner with "ordinary furnace" fear having to keep check-draft indefinitely closed to "let off" gas—when there's two-thirds parts of heat-energy to one part of gas passing up chimney—draft can with all safety be opened, and coal saved for another day's duty.
