

The Famous Pedestrian

Gentlemen:—
 "I was a martyr to catarrh of the head, throat and stomach. I was so bad the doctors feared consumption. I tried many physicians and medicines. A friend suggested Psychine. I tried it and it was the only thing ever did me any good. I am now perfectly well. It is the greatest remedy the world has ever known. I do not need it for my health now but I use it as a strengthener for my walking matches. I owe much of my physical endurance to Psychine."

JAMES REYNOLDS,
 Port Hope, Ont.

Psychine is the greatest cure for catarrh of the head, throat or stomach in the world. It is a wonderful tonic and strengthener of run down system, acting directly on all the vital organs, giving youthful vigor and strength to the system. At all druggists 50c. and $1, or Dr. T. A. Young Man, Stay In New Brunswick.
 (By a New Brunswicker Now Living in Illinois).

There seems to be a feeling on the part of the young man that he can do better elsewhere than he can at home in New Brunswick. This is particularly true of many young men who have been reared on the farm. They believe they have worked too hard for the returns received, and are willing to seek their fortunes in a new land or in a new section of the home land. The writer has met many such and at no time has he seen any one who better off than he might have been in New Brunswick had he applied the same industry and perseverance. True, they have earned more money, but the value of a dollar depends on its purchasing power. With increased wages, they have had to pay more for their necessities, consequently when the balance is struck they are no better off than they would have been at home with lower wages and less to pay for necessities.

The writer of this left New Brunswick 25 years ago, not because of any dissatisfaction with New Brunswick, but because his people were going and he was too young to "resist."

During that time he has had many educational advantages but none that he might not have received at home. He has studied the American nation from the foundation and is acquainted with all the prevarications and misrepresentations that have a place in the alleged history of the country. He is well aware of the sentiment regarding Canada, and knows of the story of the plot of Republican senators who hoped to appease the South and expedite reconstruction by sending 100,000 Federal veterans to invade Canada and wrest it from the hereditary enemy. Undoubtedly nothing but the assassination of Lincoln and the accession of that incompetent ruffian, Andrew Johnson, prevented the carrying out of this well laid plot.

At the same time, the writer has kept posted on events in his own country, and has studied her government and institutions until he has come to the conclusion that Canada is the only democracy on the continent.

While a resident (not a citizen) of the States for all these years, it has ever been his dream to return to his native province, but the thought has forced itself upon him that he was now a stranger in his own country. Nevertheless, he returned this summer and enjoyed to the full the pleasure of meeting old friends and making new ones. As soon as arrangements can be settled he will return to live in New Brunswick.

It is due to the memories awakened on this trip that he has been pondering over a message of encouragement to his fellow countrymen who contemplate leaving the home land. To all such he would say: "Don't."

New Brunswick has advantages not to be met with elsewhere. There does not prevail that rabid commercialism that is common in the States, and in our own west. Men are not driven like so many cattle or machines, and yet all have enough and to spare. The time is not so taken up in the mad rush for the almighty dollar that men have no time to be men. Work hard? Of course you work hard. Who desires a life of idleness? Work is one of God's choicest blessings.

Perhaps work has seemed hard because you have been working for some one else. If that is the case work for yourself, for that is more possible in New Brunswick than in any place I have seen. In nine cases out of ten it is possible for you to work for yourself in New Brunswick, while in the States in nine cases out of ten you will labour for some one else.

This is true, because New Brunswick is the best place in the world for the man of moderate means. In no other place that I have visited are there so many opportunities for operating profitably upon small capital some line that will pay well for the effort put forth. No chance to become millionaires, perhaps, but then many of you have as much of an opportunity as had Alexander Gibson.

In this connection know this: When you labour for another he expects to make money on your labour or he would not want you.

Did I hear you say that not every one could go into something for himself? Well, you are mistaken, for in New Brunswick there is an opportunity for every industrious and sober young man to work for himself. That place is on a good piece of New Brunswick land. Be a farmer, you say? Why not? Do you know any better man than a reliable New Brunswick farmer? God does not make any better.

Now listen to me. You leave home. Go among strangers in a strange land and work your utmost for some one who pays you wages. You most probably board and remain single or marry and live in a rented house which you eventually pay for for your landlord. What have you in ten years? Not much. I know a man who has worked fifteen years and his salary has averaged about $800, and today he would have a struggle to scrape up $600. Extravagant? No. He has never parted with a dollar without squeezing it till the eagle screamed and parted with a sheaf of tail feathers. On the other hand the man who has gone onto a piece of New Brunswick land will have a home of his own in ten years, and enough to make him comfortable besides saving more than the city man can save working for some one else.

Lonely on the farm? Well, then keep away from it and spend your life slaving for some one else. That is all you are good for. But for a sober, industrious man, well endowed with common sense, the farm is a golden opportunity.

A man who is not sober cannot do much anywhere. I could tell you of many poor fellows who came to the States to seek their fortunes and failed on account of drink, and last summer I saw their poor old fathers and mothers who had not even received a letter for years. The Prodigal Son was a gentleman of culture and refinement besides a man who would thus desert his people, for the Prodigal did reform and return.

Any young man who leaves New Brunswick with an appetite for strong drink goes forth hugging to his bosom a serpent that will surely destroy him unless it is put to death when young.

Horace Greely thought he was wise when he said: "Young man go west and grow up with the country." I think he was otherwise. I would say to you: Young man stay at home and develop New Brunswick. Your work is cut out for you—get busy. If I should say that there were millions of dollars right at home awaiting you, you would doubt my sanity; but let me show you.

In 1906, in New Brunswick, there were grown from 20,824 acres 406,853 bushels of wheat, making an average of about twenty bushels to the acre. If by careful preparation of the soil, seed selection and proper crop rotation, that could have been increased to twenty-eight bushels, the gain to the farmers, at seventy-five cents a bushel, would be $124,944.

This is not an impossible thing to do, because the census of Canada for 1901 showed the New Brunswick average to be about 12 bushels to the acre. Therefore it ought to be possible to still further raise the average.

For the same year (1900) on 194,647 acres were raised 5,595,580 bushels of oats, averaging about thirty bushels to the acre. If, as above stated, this could be increased to an average of forty bushels to the acre, the extra ten bushels at fifty cents a bushel, or five dollars an acre would mean a gain to the farmers of $973,235. The Canada census (1901) gave the New Brunswick oat average as about twenty bushels to the acre. You see another gain of ten bushels to the acre is entirely possible.

The potato crop in 1906 was 5,352,922 bushels, grown on 39,613 acres, making an average of about 135 bushels to the acre. The average for Carleton County was about 170 bushels to the acre. If this average for Carleton County could be made the average for the province, the gain would be thirty-five bushels per acre, which we will call ten barrels. These sold at one dollar a barrel would mean a gain of $396,130 for potato growers. This ought to be possible as the average was only 115 bushels according to the census of 1901.

Let us look at the live stock proposition. Referring to the census of Canada, 1901, the only figures at my command, I find these facts:

The 35,051 persons who occupy land in New Brunswick have 1,405,615 acres of improved land which means an average of forty-one acres each. The average number of acres of unimproved land is about eighty-six and one half acres.

According to the census above referred to there were 111,084 milch cows, 180,616 sheep and 50,243 swine in the province in 1901. Let us see what that means. It would be one hog for each twenty-eight acres of improved land; one sheep to almost eight acres and one cow to twelve and one half acres.

Are New Brunswick farmers living up to their privileges? It would hardly seem so. Imagine one lone hog roaming about in a twenty-eight acre field! Let us give him company and decide to have one hog for every seven acres. Granting that these three additional hogs mature and are slaughtered and average ten dollars each, the total value to 35,051 owners would be $1,052,530. Three additional sheep at $4 each would mean a gain of $420,612. Three additional cows, worth $20 per head (the average for the province) would mean a gain of $6,665,040.

This is not at all improbable. It can be done in New Brunswick. It will be done in New Brunswick. The resources of the province from an agricultural standpoint have been merely dipped into; therefore, young man, stay at home and develop them. If you do no more than what has been suggested here the gain to the province would be as follows:

Increased values from
 Wheat.....$ 124,944
 Oats..... 973,235
 Potatoes..... 396,130
 Swine..... 1,051,536
 Sheep..... 420,612
 Cows..... 6,665,040

Total.....$9,631,491

Almost ten millions in the pockets of New Brunswick farmers gained by more thorough cultivation, keeping more and better stock and a careful selection of seed is entirely within the possibilities. At that rate the farmers alone could retire the provincial debt.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Assets.

(Harper's Weekly.)

There is a young fellow in Pittsburg who will undoubtedly "get along," although, as yet, he has not succeeded in amassing vast wealth. In fact, he receives a weekly wage of $15.

He is, however, an extremely good looking and entertaining young man, and not long ago succeeded in making such an impression upon the daughter of a well-to-do manufacturer that it was decided between them that he "should ask papa." This he proceeded to do, and, to his surprise, was received not unkindly.

"Well, let's see, my boy," the old man remarked, pushing up his glasses. "What is your annual income?"

"Well, sir, I should estimate it at $2,000," the young man replied.

"Well—not so bad, not so bad," the old man said. "That added to her interest at four per. cent on the $50,000 I have always said I would settle upon Mary at her marriage would give you $4,000. You should be able to get along."

"Well, sir, to tell the truth," the young man interrupted, "I took the liberty of figuring that interest into my estimate."

A little milk added to the water in which silver is washed will help to keep it bright.

A few drops of lemon-juice added to scrambled eggs while cooking will improve them.

Spent Eighteen Dollars

"Gentlemen,—I have pleasure in stating that I have used $18.00 worth of Psychine, and as a result was cured of very serious throat and lung trouble.

My case was a most difficult one, and the doctors had practically said that I could not get well. I tried Psychine, and it did me so much good that I continued its use until I had taken $18.00 worth, with the result that I am now a new man physically. I have gained thirty-five pounds.

"It is with the greatest confidence that I recommend Psychine to all who are afflicted with throat or lung trouble.
