To the Late Archdeacon Neales.

A beautiful memorial has been placed in the parish church. It is a brass reading desk manufactured by the Pritchard Co. of Ottawa, and is of chaste and ornamental design, adding greatly to the already beautiful interior of the church. The desk bears this inscription "To the glory of God and in memory of Venerable Archdeacon Thomas Neales for 36 years the loved and honoured rector of this parish." This memorial is erected by the congregation of Christ's church.

While it has never been the custom of the DISPATCH to offer clubbing rates with other papers, are at all times willing to accomodate subscribers at the same rates advertised by our contempories, such orders will have prompt attention. We do not expect THE DISPATCH to fill all the requirements that the ordinary family desires in a newspaper. This journal's mission is almost exclusively to serve up the local news, while the metropolitan papers in no sense cover the local ground. As a fit companion for THE DIS-PATCH we suggest the Montreal Daily or Weekly Witness, newspapers that, in a class by themselves, have no peer on the continent. The regular price of the Daily Witness is $300 per year. By special arrange. ment we can offer it and THE DISTATCH both

The Witness is known throughout Canada for its staunch adherence to high principles and ideals. It is conspicuously clear and lofty in spirit; it has no space for the cheap, vulgar sensationalism so apparent in journalism today. Yet its news service is complete coverering the ground thoroughly.

THE DISPATCH, in its field, is proud of the prestige it has won by its straightforwardness, by its cleanliness, and by the strength of its local news service. Its columns are kept free of the usually noxious anonymous correspondents and the worse than silly nonsense coming from inexperi enced and utterly irresponsible correspond ents in the surrounding districts. THE DIS-PATCH is glad, however, to print items of news from even the most remote sections, providing the matter is intelligible and unmistakeably reliable. This paper has always adhered to this policy, and has steadily gained in popularity in both town and county. As result it is rare indeed that THE DIS-PATCH is called upon to retract or apologize or matter sent in by its correspondents. At the same time it publishes more country news than any of its contempories.

It is opportune to state here that THE DISPATCH at all times holds itself responsible for everything that it prints, although the option of correspondents may not be concurred in by the editor. This paragraph is appended in view of recent statements in local newspapers which show that the pref vailing idea is that the correspondents themselves, not the editors, are the ones responsible for libellous articles.

Inherits a Large Fortune.

By the death of Edward Henry Bulkley, in Newport, R. I., recently, his infant son and namesake, born on December 28th last, becomes heir to the great fortune inherited from the New York banker. The income of this fortune is estimated at $50,000 a year.

"Ned" Eulkley was one of the most companionable of men, and his friends were many. In social life he was very popular: Formerly he spent the summer at Newport, and the winter in New York, but in recent years he has resided at Newport all the yeararound. A few weeks ago he leased a cottage in Red Cross avenue, and he and his wife

With Mr. Bulkley when he died were his wife, formerly Miss Margaret Stewart, youngest daughter of the late John Stewart, of Woodstock, and two of his sisters, Mrs. Roland Redmond and Mrs. Reginald Rives. His other sister, Mrs. Prescott Lawrence, is
