Mourning Stamps.

London Express.

The Postmaster General (Sydney Buxton), in opening an exhibition of postage stamps at Caxton Hall, under the auspices of the Junior Philatelic Society, said that objection had been taken by some people to mourning envelopes. It had been suggested that he, as Postmaster General, should produce a stamp with a black border. He was rather inclined to make a small issue of such a stamp, and he hoped that philatelists would buy them up at high prices.

An expert put the total value of the stamps on exhibition at $80,000. "The fascination of stamp collecting," he says, "lies in the rare 'finds,' which are continually made and the curious 'points' which sometimes make a stamp of the face value of a few pence worth hundreds of pounds. For instance, the twopenny blue Mauritius stamp, which the Prince of Wales bought at a public auction recently for £1,450, was unique in one respect. The proper wording on it, 'Post Paid Mauritius.'"

Neuralgia In The Face.

Long Standing Cases Completely Cured By Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food.

Headache and Neuralgia. What hosts of people seek for cure of these ailments. And in vain.

Because they are misled by going after medicines which only relieve. Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food is not a mere relief for headaches and neuralgia; but is a thorough cure in the only way these troubles can ever be really cured—by restoring the nervous system.

Mrs. James Clancy, 715 Water St., Peterboro, Ont., states: "I was troubled more or less with severe headaches and neuralgia for nineteen years. Besides suffering I was useless as far as work was concerned. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food built up my system generally and made a thorough cure of my old trouble. It succeeded in my case after a great many treatments had failed."

Neuralgia and nervous headaches are always an indication of exhausted nerves. Make the cure thorough by using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c. at all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto, Ont. Portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., the famous Receipt Book author, on every box.

The New Styles for Women.

"If the new summer gowns have a conspicuous note at all this year it is in their trimmings, which seem to stand out in bold relief," says Grace Margaret Gould in Womans Home Companion for May. "Much soutache in all widths and heavy cotton braid are used, in white and dyed to match the fabric. In the skirt-and-coat suits the outline of the coat is shown by the line of braiding, and either braid or buttons infrequently trim the back.

Tassels are very much used wherever a place for them can be found. The heavy and the fine laces are fashionable in combination for trimming both gowns and separate blouses.

"Very narrow satin plaitings are much used as a trimming for silk voile and net gowns. They are often introduced in some brilliant shade, such as Empire green, on a gown of neutral tint. Plaitings of this style frequently simulate a bib effect on the bodice and outline a tunic effect in the skirt.

"Buttons are used not only where they are needed, but where they are not needed on the new gowns. For the tailored suits there are the fabric-covered buttons and the braid buttons.

"The white and colored cotton crochet button is extremely high style, and for lingerie waists there are the new pearl bead buttons."

Animal Vision.

Dr. Alexander Schaefer investigated the vision of many animal species and found that the size of the eyeball is the principal factor of acuteness of vision. The bovine species has the sharpest sight. The second place is occupied by man and the horse, which have nearly equal visual powers, the third by the sheep. Small and especially small eyed animal, whether mammals, birds, amphibia or reptiles, have very poor sight. Owls and buzzards are the only birds that possess great acuteness of vision. The low positions in the scale occupied by dogs, cats, bats and many fishes which feed upon living prey is contrary to all expectation. In the case of dogs and certain fishes lack of sharpness of vision is due to the great size of the retinal elements. It has long been known that dogs have such indistinct vision that, as a rule, a dog is not able to recognize his master by sight alone.

These results emphasize the distinction between visions of motionless objects and vision of moving objects. The latter faculty is necessarily keen in all animals of prey. A cat is little affected by the sight of motionless objects, but pounces on a fleeting mouse or a trailed string instantly and with unerring precision. A trout will rise to the most impossible artificial fly if its motion resembles that of a living fly.

The inclusion and position of man in the series are based upon the ocular measurements given by Helmholtz in his "Physiologische Optik."—Scientific American.

A Living From an Acre of Land.

The story of how a railroad engineer and his wife make a living from one acre of land is told in the March century. The "One Acre Ranch" is laid out as follows:—"The orchard occupies one-fourth of the acre. In it are one hundred and thirty trees, including eight varieties of peach, seven of cherry and four of apple; also plum, apricot, quince, English walnut, Spanish chestnut and almond. Between the trees and on the other fourth part of the acre are grown berries and vegetables, thirty varieties or more, including potatoes, peas, beans, cucumbers, tomatoes, beets, onions, squash, parsnips, asparagus, peppers, pickles, turnips, cabbage, strawberries, grapes, currants, gooseberries, raspberries and blackberries. The fence on three sides of the place serves as a grape arbor, and in season fairly groans with the weight of the fruit.

"The yearly income from these products would easily support the proprietors of the One-acre Ranch, but the poultry yard not to be outdone by the vegetable kingdom, works prodigiously to outstrip its rival in swelling the bank account. The one hundred and seventy odd thoroughbred chickens last year laid over five thousand eggs, which sold at prices ranging from twenty to forty-five cents per dozen. Two hundred and fifty settings were sold for hatching purposes netting approximately one dollar a setting.

"While the husband experimented with every variety of fruit and vegetable and found which were the best growers and sellers, the wife experimented with her preserves until they became as famous as her husband's crops.

"I rode down to see the owner the other day and found him industriously ploughing the orchard with his hand plough.

"I am my own horse and plough and farm hand, and even my own rainmaker. I tell you," he said earnestly, "with irrigation and careful supervision there's nothing in the way of a profit producer that can beat the small farm."

Good Temperance Drinks.

A common complaint teetotal drinks is that they are all so flat and insipid, yet there is not much truth in the statement. As a fact, such drinks may in many cases be made more palatable and more helpful in digestion than any intoxicating beverages. We may well ask, "Is it wise to drink cold beer with food during the winter, or even during the summer months? It may, of course, be warmed, but then it becomes most nauseous. Now, if we take lemons or oranges, for example, we may easily make drinks which are far superior to any alcoholic stimulants. A glass lemon-squeezer is all that is needed, and this may be got anywhere for a few cents.

Take half a lemon, squeeze out all the juice into a tumbler, add to it a small quantity of caster sugar, and half fill the glass with hot water. We may use a whole orange in similar fashion. This may be slowly taken during dinner, and the warmth of the liquid will facilitate digestion. The lemon may be still further improved by adding to the liquid a small quantity of carbonate of soda. Effervescence will take place, and will continue for some time if stirring is carried on. This is, practically, one of the best old-fashioned "effervescing mixtures" which older doctors were so much in the habit of giving with much benefit to their patients during feverish conditions. In most kinds of bladder troubles it proves distinctly curative. Then we may make barley water, and add to it a little lemon peel or lemon juice.

His Retort.

A Kentucky colonel was telling a Northern friend about a man who had called him a liar.

"And what did you do?" inquired the friend mildly.

"What did I do, sah? I went to the funeral, sah!"

Poultry Hints.

A charcoal box containing broken coal about the size of grains of wheat, kept in the chicken coop within easy reach of the fowls, but up a little from the ground, will be found to be a great appetizer and health promoter. Try it.

Look after the water for your fowls. Let it be fresh. The cesspool is not a health producer.

Kill the hen that lays one day and rests three days during the egg-producing season. Her room is worth more than her product.

It is a very good plan to keep a record of what your hens are doing. Number of eggs laid, the value of them as sold or consumed in the family, cost of food, etc. You are then in a position to determine what the profit or loss is, and be benefited thereby.

Simple Cheese Fondue.

One cup of soft white bread crumbs, one cup of grated cheese, two eggs beaten together, a cup of milk, a tablespoonful of butter, a pinch of salt, a pinch of cayenne, a pinch of soda. Melt the butter, add the milk, soda, bread crumbs and last the cheese. Season and cook five minutes, or until smooth; then put in the eggs, stir three minutes and serve on buttered toast.

Druggists every sell them as Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets, but they stop other pains as easily as headache. Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets simply coax blood pressure away from pain centers—that is all. Pain comes from blood pressure—congestion. Stop that pressure with Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets and pain is instantly gone. 20 Tablet 25c. Sold by All Dealers.

A Scotchman who is a prominent member of a church in Glasgow one Sunday recently put by mistake into the collection plate a piece of silver instead of a penny. On returning home he discovered the serious blunder. He spent the afternoon in considering the matter and in talking it over with his wife.

"Ye see," he said to her in explanation of his loss. "I might stay awa' for twenty-nine Sawbaths to mak' it up, but then I would be payin' seat rent an' gettin' nawthin' for't. I'm thinkin', lassie, this maun be what the meenister ca's a reelegious deeficulty."

"Life in Every Dose"

"I cannot speak too highly of Psychine, for it is the greatest medicine I ever used. I was just about 'all in' when I began the treatment, and in 3 months I was as well as ever. It is a great tonic for weak and run down people. There is new life in every dose."
