White Elephants.

In a town in Lebanon County, where everything is up to date and the ladies are always planning some new scheme, a strange thing happened. A "White Elephant" party was announced, and each guest was requested to bring something that she could not find any use for, and yet too good to throw away. The party would have been a great success but for an unlooked-for development, which broke it up. Eleven of the nineteen women brought their husbands.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Stomach Was Partially Paralyzed.

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD REBUILT THE SYSTEM AND RESTORED HEALTH.

Sufferers with nervous dyspepsia deserve sympathy. Bordering upon the verge of a nervous break-down, with the nerves of the stomach paralyzed, so that the work of digestion is impaired, remedial steps should be taken at once. When the stomach becomes irregular, the whole system responds. The tired feeling takes possession, ambition and energy are stolen, and one finds himself robbed and in despair. The rational treatment for this condition is to feed the blood and nerves with Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. Under such conditions, it nourishes the weakened nervous system back to health and strength and sends new vitality through the whole body. It contains the life-giving principles that entitle the blood to be called the "vital fluid." It is a condensed food, which, by nourishing the blood, builds up new, firm flesh and steady nerves. Mr. Ferdinand Buteau, Berthier, Que., offers his gratitude thusly: "I cannot keep silent regarding the great benefit I have obtained from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. For over a year I suffered from nervous dyspepsia and could not get relief, though I tried many remedies. My doctors told me that my stomach was partially paralyzed. I have used altogether fifteen boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and the benefit derived from it is something remarkable. Judging from the way it is building up the system, I believe the benefits will be lasting."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is also slightly laxative as well as tonic in influence, and while building up the system insures the regular and healthful action of the digestive, filtering and excretory systems. If you will enrich the blood, strengthen the nerves and replace weakness and disease with health and vigor use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food; 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmansson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., on every box. Write for Dr. Chase's 1908 Calendar Almanac.

Pitfalls of Youth.

It is not an infrequent thing to see in the daily papers an account of young men who fall into the grimy pit of crime as a consequence of living too fast a life.

Youths brought up in good homes with careful parental teaching, go out into the world, and before they taste of many of life's sweets they are swallowed in the maelstrom of vice. Theft, arson, misrepresentation and dishonor are laid at their door.

If these young persons be traced from the time they leave home it will invariably be found that fast living is responsible for their errors and shortcomings.

It is a hard lesson to learn, but it must be learned sometime by everyone that those who cannot swim should refrain from going beyond their depth.

Just this last week the papers told us of a promising young man who was gathered in by the law because he was spending his employer's money. The pace he was travelling took more gold than he could earn. He had to have more money or cease his mode of free and luxuriant living. He chose the dark path and he is now reflecting in a cell over his foolhardiness.

This is not said with any intention of in any way damaging the character of anyone awaiting trial. It is said to draw attention once again to the ruin which overtakes those who allow themselves to be lured away by the fascination of riotous living.

Young men should build up character, which would enable them to hold positions of trust. Everyone is privileged occasionally to be dishonest in a quiet way, but the old saying holds good now, as always: "Be sure your sins will find you out."

The Potato.

A very common practice in Ontario in planting the potato crop has always been to select the smallest potatoes for seed, leaving the larger ones for consumption. The smaller ones are often laid away during the winter, and as the larger are always selected from the bin for use, the seed is the smaller ones, which remain, and are then cut up into sections and planted. A more complete piece of folly could not well be imagined. Recent experiments in pure bred and selected seed have shown the possibilities in this line to be as great as in the selection of choice animals for the breeding of live stock. In the case of the potato, there is a constant "running out" process, and people who use the smaller potatoes are constantly finding it necessary to change the seed. The result of this work has been that the better, as well as the best, varieties, which were once famous for their good qualities, have to a large extent lost them, and are known now as only inferior kinds of potatoes. Now is the time of year to lay the groundwork for a better crop of better potatoes for next year by setting aside enough seed potatoes, by carefully selecting from among the whole crop the very best specimens which are to be found. Five or six bags are about all that the average farmer uses for seed, and from among an average crop this number of perfect specimens could easily be selected.

Idleness.

Some one said, years ago, and cursed the world when he said it, "There is only a dollar's difference between the man who works and the man who plays, and the man who plays gets that." There is an old superstition that whoever found the philosopher's stone would be chiefest among ten thousand, and we have the same superstition yet, only young men believe in luck instead of looking for the stone. "By the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread" has in it more sweet bread than all your luck. On this ancient law the greatest successes of the world have been based. On this, Abraham Lincoln stood splitting rails, and wedged himself to the highest office in the gift of the republic; on this, Shakespeare stood weaving wool, and wove for himself a frame immortal; on this, James A. Garfield tramped a tow-path with no company but an honest mule, but that tow-path led on to the White House in Washington. Do not be lazy. I saw a man once who really looked so lazy it seemed to rest me to look at him. The man or woman who lives in this age of the world and lives in idleness should have been born in some other age. When ox-teams crept across the plains and stage coaches went five miles an hour, idleness may have been in some kind of harmony with the age; but now, when a man takes breakfast one day in New York, dinner next day in Chicago, and supper the next day out on the plains, when telephone and telegraph send news faster than light flies, when cotton picked from the stalk one day is made into a suit of clothes the next, the idler is out of place. He is born too late, and, as Dr. Talmage says, "he will die too late." Carlyle says: "The race of life has become intense; the runners are treading on each other's heels. Woe be to the man who stops to tie his shoe-strings."

Florenceville.

The Fredericton Business College basketball team played a game of basket-ball with the Florenceville Consolidated, on April 2nd in the school gymnasium.

At the close of game the score stood 18 to 14 in favor of the Consolidated. The line up was as follows.

Florenceville Consolidated.	Fredericton Business College.
Forwards,	Cook, Evans.
Principal Squires, Shaw,	Centre, Brown.
Clark,	Defence, Kennedy, Ross.
	Sanson, Holland.

The game was well played, fast and decidedly lacking in roughness. The School team soon secured a lead and maintained it throughout. The visiting team was keen, aggressive and shot with good success, while the school played an even, fast game and practically showed no weakness in their line-up.

Poor George.

They sat clasped in each other's arms. A fire of oak logs blazed in the grate, and looking into the pink and gold heart of the flame, the girl murmured;

"How divine, my dearest Hilary—" but the young man frowned and started.

"Hilary?" he said. "You mean George, dont you, pet?"

The girl flushed and bit her lip. "Oh, dear," she said: "how silly of me! I thought this was Saturday night."

The Kaiser is reported to be a decided success as a musical conductor. At the last society evening of the Royal Opera in Berlin "The Huguenots" was received with uncommon enthusiasm, but none of the audience dreamed that the singers had been drilled two or three hours a day for five days previous by the Emperor. But the singers themselves are reported to have less enjoyed the royal conductor's "energy."

Jack—"That's a fine dog you have, Jim. Do you want to sell him?"

Jim—"I'll sell him for fifty dollars."

Jack—"Is he intelligent?"

Jim (with emphasis)—"Intelligent? Why that dog knows as much as I do."

Jack—"You don't say so? Well, I'll give you fifty cents for him, Jim."

"Tell me, brother, is it possible to let Robert know that I am an heiress?"

"Has he proposed to you?"

"Yes."

"Well, you may be sure he knows it already."

"At last," said the ambitious young novelist. "I have written something that I think will be accepted by the first magazine it is sent to."

"What is it?" his friend asked.

"A check for a year's subscription."

"Is this the best hotel in town?" asked a stranger.

"Well," replied the native, "I dunno as I'd put it as strong as that, but I guess it's safe to say it ain't as bad as the rest of 'em."
