Constipation

Baked sweet apples, with some people, bring prompt relief for Constipation. With others, coarse all-wheat bread will have the same effect. Nature undoubtedly has a vegetable remedy to relieve every ailment known to man, if physicians can but find Nature's way to health. And this is strikingly true with regard to Constipation. The bark of a certain tree in California—Cascara Sagrada—offers a most excellent aid to this end. But, combined with Egyptian Senna, Slippery Elm Bark, Solid Extract of Prunes, etc., this same Cascara bark is given its greatest possible power to correct constipation. A toothsome Candy Tablet, called Lax-ets, is now made at the Dr. Shoop Laboratories, from this ingenious and most effective prescription. Its effect on Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Sallow Complexion, etc., is indeed prompt and satisfying. No griping, no unpleasant after-effects are experienced, and Lax-ets are put up in beautiful lithographed metal boxes at 5 cents and 25 cents per box. For something new, nice, economical and effective, try a box of

Write With Both Hands.

Sir Edwin Arnold once stated that one of the many evidences of Japanese common-sense is the custom of teaching children to write with either or both hands. Charles Reade, through arguments in his writings, converted many persons to become ambidextrous, and it is a gift of an acquisition greatly to be desired by those who wield a pen. To be able to change the pen from one hand to the other at the first premonition as weariness would relieve many a weary hour, and perhaps prevent writer's cramp. Thomas Jefferson, while American minister to France, broke his right wrist, but with little trouble learned to write with his left hand. That was before the days of the typewriter, and without the use of both hands it would have been impossible later for Jefferson to carry on his voluminous correspondence. Instead of wasting time and patience trying to break a naturally left handed child from using the pen in that hand, would it not be better to teach him to use both hands equally well? An adult whose muscles are no longer supple, can learn to write with the left hand in one week, and in one year the handwriting of one hand will be as good as that of the other.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause rather than the effect, would come into practice. A tiny, inside, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by all dealers.

Happy Ignorance.

(New York Tribune.)
Francis Wilson, the comedian, apropos of certain curios, whereon he believed he had been swindled, said with a laugh:
"The one drawback to knowledge is that it reveals so many dupes and swindles to us. One summer, for instance, I was 'doing' Switzerland. In the neighborhood of Geneva where the Swiss talk French, I climbed a little peak one fine morning, and on my arrival at the chalet at the top I heard the pretty handmaiden call into the kitchen in excellent French:
"Quick mother, quick! Here's a tourist. Put some milk on the fire. You know they always like it warm from the cow."

To quickly check a cold, druggists are dispensing everywhere, a clever Candy Cold Cure Tablet called Preventics. Preventics are also fine for feverish children. Take Preventics at the sneeze stage, to head off all colds. Box of 48—25c. Sold by all dealers.

When Sorrow Comes A-knocking.

When Sorrow comes a-knocking at your door, Don't be in too big a hurry. Mister Man; From behind the curtains take a peep before You let her in to plague you, as she can; Keep rememberin' that if you turn the key To let her in she'll hang around and sigh, Like a woman; Sorrow rather likes to see How long she still can linger after she Has shaken hands with you and said good-by.
When Sorrow comes a-knocking don't you run To let her in because it's cold or wet; Make her knock until she weary; when she's done She may leave, to "drop in later"—and forget.
Just remember this: If Sorrow calls to-day, It is well to keep her waitin', while you can; Put her off until to-morrow, when she may Have urgent calls to turn some other way And forget you altogether, Mister Man.
—S. E. Kiser in New York Sun.

Squared His Obligation.

The wonderful advance in the price of town lots and farms in the new state of Oklahoma recalls the fact that when Oklahoma was first organized as a territory the boomers arranged a special train and invited a number of congressmen to make a trip down there. Some of the development companies made it a point to sell town lots at nominal rates to the visiting statesmen. Among those who became purchasers some fifteen years ago was the famous "Private" John Allen of Mississippi. Allen was never credited with being anything of a business man in those days. He has a millionaire brother in St.

Louis nicknamed "Ugly Jim." The latter used to try hard to make a financier out of John and offered him at one time a tempting salary to quit congress at attend to his law business. But about then "Private" Allen was not fond of work. His funny speeches kept him in congress for sixteen years, and he used to say that he could worry through the year on a congressman's salary because it was so "powerful regular!" Every now and then "Private" John would need extra money, and he would borrow from "Ugly Jim." The millionaire advanced more than he thought John should owe him or any other man, so he pressed the witty congressman for a settlement. He told him that, while he could afford to wipe the account off the slate, he did not propose to do so and John must pay. It was for his own interest. He would never become a man unless he met his obligations more promptly.

John thought of a scheme by which he would prove to "Ugly Jim" that he was more of a business man than he imagined. He wrote to numerous people to make him fancy offers for his town lots in Oklahoma. Then he had folks down in the territory advise him that he should not think of selling for any such ridiculously low figures. "Hold for six months longer," they said, "and you will get 50 per cent more." All this information John sent to "Ugly Jim." He frankly informed him that the best he could do was to take him in with him on the Oklahoma deals. "Ugly Jim" was convinced and funny John unloaded on the millionaire and squared his account with him, and "Ugly Jim" had to reluctantly admit that "Private" Allen wasn't the "fool he looked."

Keep Stock Separate.

There used to be a theory that everything could run together in the barn-yard—the colts, the calves, the cows, pigs and chickens should all have access to the same yard. After the farmers began to keep better stock they saw the advisability of giving each class a yard for itself. It is hardly right to keep the cows and the calves in the same lot for evident reasons. The colts and the cows will not harmonize because the exuberance of the orner tends to irritate the latter and lessens the milk flow. The chickens and the pigs should not be kept together because there is a chance that the hogs may get to eating hens. Every farmer has had experience with all of these things. The only peaceable plan is to have a yard for each kind of stock. If you want to run the pigs in the barnyard, do so for a time each day, but not when the calves and hens are there. It is just as advisable to keep stock upon the farm separate as it is to use separate fields for the crops.

Some Dairy Pointers.

Cow comfort usually brings the owner satisfaction.
Do not think that two drinks of milk a day are all the calf needs. He should have clean, fresh water all the time. The milk is a food and cannot wholly replace the demand for water.
Good care and keep are as essential as proper selection and breeding.
In all deep setting souring the cream becomes necessary to develop flavor, as the oxidation is only partial.
The more succulent foods make the more watery milk and oily cream, which churns more easily.
Strain the milk as soon as drawn from the cow, so as to keep the amount of dissolved filth at the minimum.
When cows drink heartily and largely the milk is charged with albumen, and this causes a cream to rise that is a better and easier churned.

Didn't Agree with Me

Mr. Arthur Tonnison, 88 London Street, Toronto, writes enthusiastically of the merits of Psychine for all stomach troubles.
"For seven years I have had indigestion and dyspepsia. I tried scores of remedies. My room resembled a drug store with nostrums which I had bought. Eventually I used Psychine, and every dose brought permanent relief."
All throat, lung and stomach troubles quickly cured by Psychine. It is the prescription of a great specialist. At all druggists, 50c and $1.00, or Dr. T. M. Sloan, Limited, Toronto.
