

Salvation Army Praise

"I feel it my duty to testify to the benefit I have received from the use of Psychine. While travelling in New Ontario conducting special meetings I contracted a very bad cold, which gradually developed into Bronchitis of the worst form. I was advised to try Psychine, which I did, and after using but a few bottles I was completely restored to health. I recommend this wonderful remedy to sufferers from Bronchitis and other troubles."

Later: "I wish to add that my voice, since using Psychine, is stronger and has much more carrying power than it had before I had bronchitis, and the vocal chords do not tire with speaking."
P. TILLER, Capt. Salv'n. Army.
Ann St., Toronto, Aug. 13, 1907.

Throat, lung and stomach troubles cured by Psychine; also incipient consumption. All druggists, 50c and $1.00, or Dr. T. A. Stearns, Limited, Toronto.

Irish Phantom City.

A strange story of a mirage, which reminds one of "The Spectre Island" or "The Phantom City," comes from Ballyconneely, a town on the wild Connemara coast, some miles beyond Clifden.

A small town well studded with houses was observed one evening on the sea about six or seven miles westward. The beautiful spectre shined lovely and dim, being first seen by some young persons.

Soon hundreds gathered to witness the enchanting spectacle, which they state was composed of different sizes and varying styles of architecture. Here and there was a dismantled dwelling, as if even this strange land of sunshine had been visited by the crowbar brigade.

The phantom city was visible from 3 p. m. until 6 p. m., when it gradually vanished from view, leaving dismayed spectators, many of whom had begun to believe that it was a small town that had come to stay.

It disappeared slowly and mystically. The golden clouds curtailed the deep where it lay, and the phantom city was seen no more. The peasants wondered if their eyes had not betrayed them, but they had all seen the vision in broad daylight only a few miles from the shore, and they now regard the legend of O'Brazil as no longer an imaginative story from the region of fable.

Reflections of shipwrecks have hitherto been witnessed among the clouds in clear, warm weather, and no doubt this phenomenon is the reflection in this water of some city far away.

An Unexpected Gift.

As the brisk philanthropist thrust her fare into the cab drivers hand she saw that he was wet and apparently cold after the half-hour of pouring rain. "Do you ever take anything when you get soaked through?" she asked.

"Yes, ma'am," said the cabman, with humility; "I generally do."

"Wait here in the vestibule," commanded the philanthropist. She inserted her house key in the lock, opened the door and vanished, to reappear a moment later.

"Here," she said, putting a small envelop in the man's hand. These are two grain quinine pills; you take two of them now and two more in half an hour."—Youth's Companion.

About Famous People.

President Castro, of Venezuela, lives in what is probably the most remarkable dwelling place of any modern ruler. It stands within a kind of soft stone; so, to look at, there is nothing peculiar about the place, but it is said to be the strongest house in the world, and it will resist the heaviest gun fire. The idea of a steel "palace" occurred to the President after he had had experience of one or two earthquakes. One night he was awakened by an earth tremor, and in his fright he jumped out of a window and broke leg. After that he decided that bricks and mortar were not safe, hence the reason for his mental palace.

Valiant trenchermen indeed are the famous singers, Jean and Edouard de Reszke, if one is to believe a writer who recalls that at Trouville one evening, after a magnificent dinner, they ordered at the Casino, "to begin with," a dozen large beef sandwiches and four half-bottles of wine. This was followed by a second dozen of equally enormous beef sandwiches and a second quartet of rapidly-emptied wine bottles. It was actual hunger, and not the jaded palates of two gourmets which were being satisfied by this meal.

London's Strange Religions.

The new Mormon "temple" at South Tottenham, which has just been dedicated, is the latest addition to the abundant facilities which Greater London provides for the exercise of what perhaps we may call strange religions. In the East End there are at least two Chinese joss-houges, where the wearer of the pig tail can burn his incense-stick; the Malays can worship in their temple near St. George's Street East; the Parsees bow down to the sun in an upper room in Bloomsbury; and the Mohammedan has a choice of mosques in different parts of London. Among the 300 sects in London, all professing Christianity, are such little-known bodies as the Sandemanians, a sect sprung from the Glasites; the Cokelers, whose founder was a Walworth shoemaker; the Seventh Day Baptists, whose Sabbath is Saturday; the Peculiar People, who have a rooted objection to doctors; the followers of Joanna Southcott, domestic servant and prophetess; and the Shakers, whose numbers are now pathetically small.

Easy To Mix This.

What will appear very interesting to many people here is the article taken from a New York daily paper, giving a simple prescription, which is said to be a positive remedy for backache or kidney or bladder derangement, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

A well-known druggist here at home, when asked regarding this prescription, stated that the ingredients are all harmless, and can be obtained at a small cost from any good prescription pharmacy, or the mixture would be put up if asked to do so. He further stated that while this prescription is often prescribed in rheumatic affliction with splendid result he could see no reason why it would not be a splendid remedy for kidney and urinary troubles and backache, as it has a peculiar action upon the kidney structure, cleansing these most important organs and helping them to sift and filter from the blood the foul acids and waste matter which cause sickness and suffering. Those of our readers who suffer can make no mistake in giving it a trial.

Clover For Winter Feeding.

The question is asked if clover can be ensiled for feed next winter instead of corn silage. Clover may be ensiled and will make a good feed if it is correctly handled, but it requires more care in the handling than does corn. It should be cut when in full bloom. If allowed to get old and woody it is apt to overheat and mold or fire fang and have little feeding value. If ensiled with too much moisture on, as after a shower or heavy dew, it is apt to become more acid than is desirable. The material must be well distributed in the pit and should be thoroughly tramped and covered to exclude the air. Clover silage is apt to slime if not well packed when put into the silo.—L. W. Lighty.

Appropriate Mourning.

Irishman (to shopman)—I want somethin' for mournin' wear, but I don't know exactly what the costume is. What do they be wearin' now for mournin'?

Shopman—It depends a little on how near the relative is for whom you wish to show this mark of respect. For a very near relative you should have a black suit, a black band on your hat and black gloves. For some one not so near and dear you may have a broad band of black on your left arm or a somewhat narrower one for somebody more distant.

Irishman—Och, is that it? Well, thin, gimme a shoestring. It's me woife's mother.—Tit-Bits.

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Food For All.

After a certain jury had been out an inordinately long time on a very simple case they filed into the courtroom, and the foreman told the judge they were unable to agree upon a verdict. The latter rebuked them, saying the case was a very clear one, and remanded them back to the jury room for a second attempt, adding, "If you are there too long, I will have to send you in twelve suppers."

The foreman in a rather irritated tone spoke up and said, "May it please your honor, you might send in eleven suppers and one bundle of hay."—Everybody's Magazine.

The Only Way

Don't believe rheumatism can be cured by rubbing liniment or oil on the sore spot. The disease cannot be reached in that way. It must be driven out of the system. Only Celery King will do this quickly. 25 cents, at dealers or by mail. S. C. Wells & Co., Toronto

An Eye for the Future.

(Woman's Home Companion.)

Tommy's maiden aunt had called attention to some of his misdeeds, thereby causing him to be punished. Tommy pondered a while, then asked: "Papa, will sister Gladys be an aunt to my children when I am a man?"

"Yes, Tommy," answered his father, much interested. "Why do you ask?"

"Cause she might just as well get married and have a home of her own, for I don't intend to 'low any aunts to stay around my house making trouble for my children."

Sermon On Money.

(Atlanta Constitution.)

"Dey ain't no use," said Brother Williams, ter try to git money w'en you ain't at the gitten-place; an' de trouble is—de jingle er it is so confusin'! Hit's lak' de rattle er a rattle-snake—you dunno whar 'an' what time to jump! Hit's trouble ter git money, an' trouble ter keep it: Dey dispise you if you an't got it, an' if so be you has, dey'll dispise you if you don't give it away!"

"Sir," said the young man, respectfully, "I am a poor man and you are a millionaire. It seems presumptuous in me, no doubt, to aspire to the hand of your daughter. But love for her is so great that I can not be stopped by such consideration. Love scorns conventions and conveniences. Ah, sir, will you give her to me?"

The old magnate seemed interested. "But which of my four daughters do you want?" he asked, not unkindly.

Eagerly the suitor made answer: "Oh, I'll leave that to you, sir."

For Sale.

I have for sale a dark brown standard bred filly, 2 years old, also a black yearling gelding, both by Mars 2-133. Their dam is "Nelly Brown," 2-30, by "Edgardo" 2-133; 2nd dam by "Keensarge" 196, 3rd dam (dam of "King Charles 2-224") by "R. E. Morris." These colts are both trotters and fine prospects. Their dam was driven on the road by a doctor but never handled for speed until after she was 10 years old. With less than a month's work she was started in two races, taking her mark in the first and was separately timed in 2-24 in the second. Price of filly, $200.00; gelding $150.00.
