Constipation

Baked sweet apples, with some people, bring prompt relief for Constipation. With others coarse all-wheat bread will have the same effect.

coarse all-wheat bread will have the same effect. Nature undoubtedly has a vegetable remedy to relieve every ailment known to man, if physicians can but find Nature's way to health. And this is trikingly true with regard to Constipation.

The bark of a certain tree in California—Cascara Sagrada—offers a most excellent aid to this end. But. combined with Egyptian Senna, Slippery Elm Bark, Solid Extract of Prunes, etc., this same Cascara bark is given its greatest possible power to correct constipation. A toothsome Candy Tablet, called Lax-ets, is now made at the Dr. Shoop Laboratories, from this ingenuous and most effective prescription. Its effect on Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Sallow Complexion, etc., is indeed prompt and satisfying.

The Early Bird.

A very steady and serious country gentleman had joined a newly established metropolitan club which offered the usual advantages of bedrooms for country members temporarily in town. When next the country gentleman came to town he put up for the night at the club, which had in the meantime become extremely fashionable and its hours correspondingly irregular. The visitor went to bed at an early hour when all was orderly and the other members decorous and quiet.

The next morning he came down for breakfast at his usual hour-eight o'clockbut was surprised to find the room in the middle of the dusting process and not a cloth on the tables. While he was gezing helplessly around, a sleepy-eyed waiter came up to him.

"I beg your pardon, sir," he said apologetically," but no suppers are served after half past seven."-Harpers Weekly.

The footprints of Dyspepsia have been directly traced to the Stomach nerves. When these "inside nerves" fail, indigestion and stomach distress must surely result. For this, druggists everywhere are supplying a prescription knows as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. First, these tiny inside Stomach, Heart, and Kidney nerves fail. Then gas belching, Heart palpitation, or failing Kidneys follow. Don't drug the Stomach, or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is wrong. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative. It is the nerves, not the organs that are calling for help. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment, you will realize the gain. A test will tell. Sold by All Dealers.

A New Brunswick Patent.

Victoria County News:-A new rail joint invented by D. D. Wright, of Arthurette, of which J. H. Weaver owns one-half interest, has been patented in the United States, and patents have been applied for for Canada, ity. Among them were the three already England, Germany and France. This joint in theory seems to be just what the railways have been looking for for years, and have been spending money without stint to procure. Beside seeming to be a rigid and firm joint, it will also do away with the continual clickety click as the cars go over the ends of the rails as at present, and lengthen the life of the rails, as that is where the rails wear most. In the new joint the wheels go on one rail for about a foot, then gently take the other in the middle of the overlap. Unless some unforeseen weakness develops in the wear and tear of constant use, this joint looks as if it will completely revolutionize the manufacture of steel rails, and make rail travel somewhat more comfortable.

A Pathetic Story.

(Philadelphia Post.).

Fiction sometimes works in a curious way its weeps to produce. Samuel Hopkins Adams once wrote a story for a New England magazine that was a genuine tear starter. The art editor sent it out to be illustrated. When the artist brought back the pictures she said to the editor: "This is a very sad story. It made me cry when I read it."

A week later Adams dropped into the office. The art editor said to him very seriously: "Adams, that is a very pathetic story of yours. Although it has not been published, it has made two people cry already -the artist who illustrated it, and yours truly when he got her bill."

Mr. Cad-"Can I see that burglar who was arrested for breaking into my house last night? Inspector, hesitatingly- "Well I don't know, What do you want to see him for?" Mr. Cadd- Oh, there's nothing private about it. I just wanted to find out how he managed to get into the house without waking my wife." -Illustrated Bits.

"Yes," remarked the race horse, "all my achievements have been due simply to putting my best foot forward." "Yes?" replied the mule. "Now I find that I accomplish most by putting my best foot backward."-Philadelpia Press.

THE CRICKET'S WARNING.

Outside my window there's a thicket Where hawthorn branches intertwine, And there, all night, a fretful cricket, By accident or by design.

Proclaims that summer's on the wane. Insists that autumn winds ere long Will blow across the hills again And leave the world bereft of song.

I wake at midnight from my dreaming And restlessly toss to and fro What time the cricket keeps on screaming:

"The autumn winds ere long will blow! The peaceful, restful summer days With summer's joys will soon be past; The sumac soon will be ablaze, The nights are growing longer fast,"

Out on you and your sad complaining, Oh, foolish little pessimist! know the summer time is waning, Therefore you may as well desist;

Prate not to me of autumn's ills, Nor scold because the nights grow long, For when the haze is on the hills My dreaming quickens into song.

Bad Man Meets His Match.

According to the Emporia "Gazette," a bad man of Wichita went to Iola to clean up the town. Upon arriving there he took his station on the principal street and loudly announced that he was the fonr-pronged roaring rhinoceros from Bitter Creek, and could whip a wagon load of wild cats. He extended a cordial invitation to the town to produce a man he couldn't peel and eat in three seconds. Just then the village blacksmith came along. The smith, a mighty man was he, with large and sinewy hands; and the muscles of his brawny arms were strong as iron bands. And he pasted the bad man from Wichita on the chin, and rolled him together as a scroll, and wound him around a lamp post, and then gave him to the children to play with. Wichita is naturally humiliated, for she has always taken a warm pride in the invincible bad man. - [Kansas City Star.

Queer Titles.

Among the whimsical titles which appear on the pages of national history, few are more apparently frivolous than the Duke of Marmalade, the Count of Lemonade and the Earl of Brandy. They are or were, however, real titles, bestowed by a genuine monarch on three of his favorites, and that, too, during the last century.

In 1811 a revolution occurred in Hayti, and Christophe, a negro, declared himself en peror. Through conspiracy and plot, his life very often attempted, he retained power till 1820, preserving to the last pageautry of a royal court and creating a numerous nobilmentioned, and the oddity of the titles has suggested to many writers the frivolousness of the African character.

In fact, however all three names were those of places, the first two being originally plantations, but latterly towns of some importance. This not being generally known a misapprehenion has arisen with regard to the titles themselves, which, however absurd, were scarcely more so than some which were bestowed in France and Germany during the Middle Ages -Tit Bits.

Meat for Hot Weather.

(From the Des Moines Register.)

"Esting this hot weather should be made a careful consideration by everybody," said a well-known physician. "It is not a known fact, but fat meat, especially salt pork, is one of the best things to eat during hot weather. The stomach will digest bacon when it will not digest anything else. Negro mammies were wise in their generation when they gave their babies salt pork to eat or suck during the hot days. When one is crossing the ocean the ship doctor invariably prescribes bacon for the seasick patrons. One is urged to eat all the fat meat he can before he goes on board."

Convalescing victim of auto accident-"I woke up and found the hot Welsh rabbit. I recognized it as my wife's cooking, but it was better seasoned than the average." Nurse-"Merciful saints! we couldn't imagine what had become of that other mustard plaster."-[Judge.

"What's the old lady doing now?" asked the old stocking in the work basket. "She's getting out her needle and yarn," replied the scissors." "Well, Well," exclaimed the stocking, "I'll be darned."-[Philadelphia

Mr. Arthur Tennison, 88 London Street, Teronto, writes enthusiastically of the merits of Psychine for all stomach troubles.

"For seven years I have had indigestion and dyspepsia. I tried scores of remedies. My room resembled a drug store with nostrums which I had bought.

Eventually I used Psychine, and every dose brought permanent relief."

All throat, lung and stomach troubles quickly oured by Psychine. It is the prescription of a great specialist. At all draggists, 50c and $1.00, es Dr. T.

A Disappointment.

The old truth that things are not always what they seem was established onew recently. In this case the discrepancy between fiction and fact was so great as to be amusing Says a writer in the Philadelphia Ledger.

It was noon when he entered the crowded restaurant. He stood fully six feet three inches in height, was built in proportion and must have weighed at least two hundred and fifty pounds. As he strode down between the rows of tables he looked as if he could eat up the house.

He took a seat beside a diminutive, fussy little man with a bald head and crop of whiskers, who was successfully polishing off a sirloin steak with onions. The little fellow with his napkin tightly wedged under his chin and his mouth full of dinner, looked up in wonder at the gigantic side partner and then down at the frail cane-bottomed chair, which creaked and groaned piteously under its immense weight. But the big fellow took no notice of the little one. When the waitress approached him he gave his order.

"Bring me," he said, in a falsetto voice, 'a cup of weak tea and a doughnut."
