Dickinson-McFarland.

The residence of L. E. McFarland was the scene of a pretty wedding last Wednesday when their only daughter, Myrtle, was united in marriage with Mr. Hoeman Carey Dickinson of Victoria Corner. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. C. Jenkins assisted by Rev. J. B. Daggett, in the presence of about seventy guests. The bride was pleasingly arrayed in a dress of cream voile, with silk and lace trimmings, and was attended by her little cousins, Kathleen Gray of Bridgewater, as flower girl, and Laura Hunter of Florenceville, as ring-bearer. The ceremony partook of a dainty luncheon. Near five most of the party accompanied the bridal couple to the station, where, deluged with rice, they took the express for St. John, from whence they were to go to Boston by boat. They will live at Victoria Corner, where Mr. Dickinson has prospered as a farmer. The bride was a much esteemed young woman of Hartland, having hosts of friends to whom she will be "at home" after October 6th at Victoria.

At the wedding many presents were given, among them being many fine pieces of cut glass, silver and linen. From the bride's brother, Arnold McFarland of Edmonton, a substantial cheque was received.

St. John Liquor Dealers Summoned.

An innocent-looking visitor from Carleton county caused quite a stir in the city yesterday in wholesale liquor circles, and as a result of his visit a number of the local dealers will have to appear in court at Woodstock to answer the charge of shipping liquor to a Scott Act county.

Constable Wolverton bore the summonses and among those he visited was J. B. Jones, liquor license inspector, whom he served with a subpoena to appear in court on Thursday, the 24th, when the case will be taken up. The presence of Mr. Jones is wanted presumably to prove that the defendants are doing business in St. John.

Of the dealers, W. E. McIntyre, of McIntyre & Comeau, was served personally with four summonses and R. Sullivan was handed two documents. It is also understood that all the other prominent dealers were also served and it was stated that the dealers would unite their forces and fight a test case which is being brought against C. N. Beal. Inquiry from two prominent dealers last night, however, failed to confirm the statement that the dealers would act in unison.

The present charges made against the local dealers arose out of some shipments seized and destroyed by Inspector Colpitts and it is claimed by the liquor, or a greater part of it was shipped before the new amendment affecting the shipments to Scott act counties came in force.—St. John Telegraph, Sept. 18th.

The Choir Singer.

A splendid play handsomely staged and cleverly acted." It was in this way that one of the leading New York dramatic critics summed up a performance of "The Choir Singer" during the Metropolitan engagement of this latest of the season's successes.

That "The Choir Singer" which comes to Graham's Opera House for one night, Saturday, Sept. 26th, has leaped at a bound into the affections of the theatre-going public in the cities where it has been presented will seem but natural when it is known that besides containing a story of heart interest which in its strength has been compared with that in "Shore Acres" and "Way Down East". The comedy element has been so generously introduced by the author, Carroll Fleming, that scenes of laugh compelling natural humor follow each other in rapid succession and that in the efforts to give a full measure of good things, opportunity is given several of the characters to effectively introduce a number of songs carefully selected to suit all tastes and that last, but by no means least in point of value, the scenic equipment is most elaborate and artistic in every detail, and the large company even to the smallest character is in the hands of clever and conscientious players.

Death of Mrs. Jarvis Dickinson.

Mrs. Jarvis Dickinson, of Carlisle, who had been visiting her brother E. J. Clarke for a week past, and who was apparently in the best of health, died suddenly on Saturday morning about 9.50 o'clock, of heart trouble in the 76th year of her age.

Mrs. Dickinson had been sitting on the verandah Friday evening with a number of friends and neighbors and retired for the night feeling well. In the morning she arose and dressed herself. As she did not come down to breakfast at the usual hour Miss Clarke went up to see what was the matter and found her lying on the floor. She was still breathing but unconscious. Dr. Sprague was summoned but she was already past human aid.

Word was sent to her sons at Carlisle, and they came down. After a short service at the house by the Rev. Geo. D. Ireland, the remains were taken to Carlisle for burial.

Liberal Meeting at Hartland.

Saturday evening the biggest crowd ever in Hagerman & Baird's hall, greeted F. B. Carvell, M. P., the liberal candidate. Frank Hagerman was chairman and J. C. Everett was the first speaker. He was followed by W. B. Morgan, after which Mr. Carvell spoke for two hours, giving the audience a careful, cool discourse on the politics of today. It may be said he presented the government's claims without extravagance and was most courteous in referring to his opponents. There were no personalities; no abuse.

The audience gave very close attention and the meeting was well attended by conservatives. Never was a political meeting here so well conducted as this. The applause was ample, and the liberal party feels encouraged over the affair.

Mr. Jones, arriving late, spoke only in brief but delighted his hearers, especially when he said: "I do not find fault with Smith for resigning; the great wonder is that they do not all resign."—Com.

Armstrong-Currie.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Currie was the scene of a brilliant wedding on Sept. 15th, when their eldest daughter, Clara, was united in marriage to William Armstrong, deputy sheriff of Carleton County, in the presence of one hundred invited guests. The Rev. H. Harrison, of Debec, was the officiating clergyman. The wedding presents were numerous and costly, showing the esteem in which the bride is held. The gift of the groom was a necklace of pearls and amethysts. The wedding gown was the gift of the bride's sister, Miss Josephine M. Currie. Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong will reside at Lakeville.

HAS RETURNED.

Dr. Manzer, who has been taking a Post Graduate Course in Surgery and Dentistry, has returned. "A word to the wise is sufficient."

Mrs. James Graham.

Catherine McCrea Graham died at her home at River de Chute, Saturday morning, Sept. 12th, in her eighty fifth year. Though in failing health all summer, Mrs. Graham was only seriously ill about two weeks. She leaves to mourn their loss, an aged husband, two sons, and five daughters, beside thirty-one grandchildren, and twenty-three great-grandchildren. The children are James, of Presque Isle, Me.; John, of River de Chute; Mrs. John Carr, Richmond; Mrs. Jacob Ladner, Easton, Me.; Mrs. Oscar Dow, Santa Rosa, California; Mrs. Gilbert Cheneau, Lindsay, Car. Co.; and Mrs. John Sawyer, Perham, Minn.

The late Mrs. Graham was the daughter of Andrew and Margaret McCrea (the former of whom was an officer and fought in the battle of Waterloo). She was born at Andover, February 29th, 1824, and moved to Bairdsville when a little girl.

It falls to the lot of few women to live such a long and happy married life. She and Mr. Graham having been married at Andover sixty-five years ago.

The funeral was held at St. Georges church, Bairdsville, Sunday, 13th, and was the largest ever seen in the place. Rev. J. R. Hopkins, rector, preached a beautiful and impressive sermon, taking as his text the last word of the thirteenth verse, of the sixth chapter of St. Matthew, "forever."

The choir sang "My Head is Bowed With Grief" and "On that Reurrection Morning" during the service, and as the casket was carried from the church, sang that beautiful hymn "Home at Last."

The pall-bearers were grandsons of the deceased. Herbert, Gordon and Walter Graham, sons of John Graham, and Gilbert Graham, son of James Graham. The remains were interred in the Church of England burying ground.

The sympathy of the community goes out to the family, but especially to the aged and grief-stricken husband.

Free from earth's trials and sorrows,
She has peacefully fallen asleep;
While the flowers, love-tended, bend o'er her,
And the angels their watch o'er her keep.

For her who has passed to thy keeping,
And now lies serenely at rest,
We need offer no prayer, no petition,
We know she is happy and blest.

The Markets.

Last week there was a great movement in potatoes. There must have been nearly a hundred cars shipped from this county. Hartland shippers alone sent twenty-five cars. The weather was so good and the yield so much better than was anticipated, that the farmers find they must sell on account of lack of store room. Then, also, the price has been good. The tendency now is to lower prices, but it is hoped that after the rush of digging, while every one is trying to sell at one time, stocks will get low again and a higher price be offered.

Oats are plentiful enough for local demand but there is a little stock for shipment. The quality seems to be all right.

Prices this week range as follows:

Hay, loose,.....	$6.00 to $6.50
Potatoes,.....	.80 to .90
Oats,.....	.35 to .36
Butter,.....	.22 to .23
Eggs,.....	.20 to .22

ENTRIES will be received until 6 o'clock this evening for sports in the park, at J. C. Hartley's office.
