NEWS FROM THE COUNTY.

Hawkshaw.

The weather is beautiful, making our roads as near perfect as possible, which is a great boon to us here who have no other means of travel or transportation, but we are still hoping for better days in the near future.

Mr. Lounsbury, our jovial merchant, accompanied by Mr. Graham, his book-keeper, left on Monday for a few days at the St. John Exhibition.

A suspicious quartette drove through here en route to Fredericton today. We would not be surprised if the boys of Meductic and Temple had the excuse to celebrate in the form of a charivari. By the way, we seem to hear wedding bells not very distant.

We hope to be eating moose steak ere this goes to press, as our local sportsmen E. Thornton and R. O'Donnell are among the many who have procured licenses and are after the big fellows. Our friend, Charles Pickard does not intend to get more than one as he had only one shell, but that is enough if Charlie gets his eye on him.

Our new bridge is getting to be quite a trotting park with no reserved seats. Where the St. John river used to be would be a great place for a river if we had a little water.

"THE CHOIR SINGER."

An especially pleasing scenic offering in "The Choir Singer" is that representing in every detail the roof garden of one of the big Broadway Theatres. The scene is introduced at the end of the third act for the purpose of furnishing an appropriate setting for the Metropolitan debut of the heroine, "Alice Leighton," who has come from her Virginia home to win fame and fortune with her voice. Those who are familiar with the Roof Garden which has been so cleverly duplicated by the scenic artist, agree that the copy is even more artistically attractive than the original. The scene representing the exterior of the Little Ivy Covered Church in rural Virginia is also described as a marvel of scenic beauty. By the ingenious arrangement of lights, the stone side wall of the church is at an appropriate moment made seemingly to disappear, thus disclosing the picturesque interior with the congregation seated, the young parson in his proper place at the Chancel and "Alice Leighton" standing in the choir loft when she sings to the accompaniment of the organ, a song of sacred character appropriate to this, her last visit to the old church before going away to seek her fortune out in the world. Centreville.

A special School Meeting was held in this village last Saturday by order of the Chief Supt. of Education to authorize the trustees to purchase a new site for the building soon to be erected. The old site is considered entirely too small, not containing much more than a quarter of an acre. The sun faces very uneven and in spring-time large quantities of water passing between the highway and the school lot making it at times quite difficult for the pupils to get to school with dry feet. The trustees have made arrangements for a lot containing an acre and a half in a splendid location not affected by water at any season of the year. Rev. Mr. Dunham occupied the chair and performed his duties as such impartially and well. Some of the rate payers objected to the change, but the resolution was carried by a good majority and the Trustees were given the power to purchase the new and larger lot at about the selling price of the old lot and building.
