Globe Sights.

A great trick of a pretty woman is not to be very fond of anyone.

The remedies most people recommend they do not use themselves.

Everyone feels like laughing when he sees an old lady reading a love story.

Generally, when the household goods are all removed from a burning house, the building is saved.

Every wife believes down in the bottom of her heart that it is only her patience that keeps the roof from flying off the house.

Every woman has a way of looking at her husband as much as to say that she understands him thoroughly, but it is Too Late.

The worst thing that can happen to a poor man is to get in the way of associating with men who have a good deal of money.

We never hear of the mother of a good boy that we don't feel like taking off our hat. A mother has so much to do with the making of her children.

When troubles come to a man in his office, he lacks the great comfort afforded to his wife under similar conditions, that of weeping on the kitchen towel.

The old-fashioned woman who thinks it is a sin to read in the daytime lives in Atchison and will not allow a book to be opened in her house until after candlelight.—[Atchison Globe.]

Vitality at Low Ebb.

The Usual Spring Condition until Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food is used.

Vigor comes from good, red blood.

Almost everybody's blood is thin and watery in the spring.

Hence the tired, languid feelings, the loss of energy and ambition, and the general weakness of the bodily organs.

The appetite fails, digestion is imperfect, the filtering and excretory organs are irregular, and, in short, life is a burden instead of being the joy it should be.

You can feel yourself getting strength and vigor when Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food is used. The blood is made rich and pure, the appetite is sharpened, digestion improves and every organ in the body feels the benefit of the rich, red, life sustaining blood.

Stimulants give temporary relief. What is absolutely necessary is rich, red blood such as is formed by the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food.

You can avoid all the discouragement and suffering, the pains and aches, the depressing effects of spring by the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cts. at all dealers or Edmundson, Bates & Co., Toronto, Ont. Portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., the famous Receipt Book author, on every box.

Prejudice-Its Cause.

(London Daily News.)

Prejudice is the child of ignorance. Especially is this the case in relation to national prejudices. To untravelled persons the belief that the citizens of another country are "in a loop" bad, or at last inferior to themselves, is both fatally easy and gratifying to natural vanity. Do not most English people imagine that in France "home life" is unknown? Is not the intelligent voter of the United States firmly convinced that the superior cheapness of our manufactures is due to the employment of "pauper labor"? Unless a man has become accustomed to foreign travel in his childhood the first visit to another country is quite startling, for then he makes the discovery that its inhabitants are, after all, human beings of the same flesh and blood as himself. But the future of society depends on the realization at first hand of this simple fact by the democracies of the various nations. For only in this manner can that horrible anchoring of the modern world, war and the apprehension of war come to an end.

Real Enjoyment.

Robert Louis Stephenson.

There is more adventure in the life of the workingman who descends as a common soldier into the battle of life than in that of the millionaire who sits apart in an office, like Von Moltke, and only directs the manoeuvres by telegraph. Give me to hear about the career of him who is in the thick of the business; to whom one change of market means an empty belly, and another a copious and savory meal. This is not the philosophical, but the human side of economics; it interests like a story.

The Tip Habit.

American travellers in Europe find a great deal of trouble with the omnipresent need of "tipping" those from whom they expect any service, however slight. They are very apt to carry it too far, or else attempt to resist it altogether. There is a story told of a wealthy but ostentatious American in a Parisian restaurant.

As the waiter placed his order before him he said in a loud voice, "Waiter, what is the largest tip that you ever received?"

"One thousand francs, monsieur."

"Eh bien! But I will give you $2,000," answered the upholder of American honor, and then in a moment added:

"May I ask who gave you the 1,000 francs?"

"It was yourself, monsieur," said the obsequious waiter.

Of quite an opposite mode of thought was another American, visiting London for the first time. Goaded to desperation by the incessant necessity for tips, he finally entered the washroom of his hotel only to be faced with a large sign, which read:

"Please tip the basin after using."

"No," said the Yankee, turning on his heel; "I will go dirty first!"—Youth's Companion.

Tuberculosis in Herds.

Two men neglected to heed the fact that they had lost animals in their herds from some slowly wasting disease. They had spent much time and money in building up their herds; one for a city milk supply, the other for a cheese factory, but they had ignored the fact that this dreaded scourge may lurk in apparently healthy bodies. Their herds looked well, although now and then they had lost an animal without any apparent cause. An application of the tuberculin test showed the true state of affairs, but this revelation was not made until 57 animals out of 72 in the other had contracted the contagion.

In estimating the loss in these two instances, one must figure, not merely the actual value of the animals sacrificed, but the time and energy expended in building up a selected herd on a diseased foundation.

If these men had used the tuberculin test years ago to ascertain for certain whether this insidious plague was present in their herds or not, thousands of dollars would have been saved.

In this connection the record is also given of a farmer who took "time by the forelock" and demonstrated to his own satisfaction the actual condition of his own stock. His best cow was the only one found affected—an animal which he had bought a few months ago because she was the best example of the type he wanted. His herd was saved in the nick of time.

Any man engaged in the business of cattle breeding or raising who does not apply the tuberculin test as a safeguard against disease is running a chance of reaping trouble and disaster. Do you insure your farm buildings against fire? Why not use the tuberculin test as a cheap and effectual method of insurance against this wide-spread disease? So long as farmers are content to let their herds go without finding out for certain whether this insidious disease is present or not, so long will the disease continue to thrive unrecognized. It will never be stamped out completely, unless stockmen are willing to investigate their own herds. If each one would do that, the numerous centres of infection that now lurk unrecognized would be revealed.

The Rothschild Way.

A New Orleans man said the other day of the great house of the Rothschilds:

"The Rothschilds push their strictness to the point of eccentricity. They once had for agent in New Orleans a fine fellow. They telegraphed to this agent at a certain season to sell their cotton holdings, but he knew the price would go higher, and, therefore, he didn't sell till four days later. In consequence he netted an extra profit of $40,000 to his firm."

"When he sent to Rothschilds the money and told them joyously what he had done they returned the whole amount, with a cold note, that said:

"The $40,000 you made by disobeying our instructions is not ours, but yours. Take it. Mr. Blank, your successor, sails for New Orleans today."—St. Louis Republic.

If I Were God

The eternal world contains Gethsemane.—Royce.

"If I were God," said one whom Nature mocked—

"The World anew would I in love create: Benignest aspect sea and sky should wear, The bounteous earth the fruits of gladness bear,— If I were God!"

"If I were God," said one whom Hope forsok—

"The World anew would I in love create: No more should sons of men tempt high emprise, Nor blindly stretch vain hands unto the skies,— If I were God!"

"If I were God," said one whom Trial wracked—

"The World anew would I in love create: From human brows should fall no bitter sweat Nor hearts heroic taste the Long Regret,— If I were God!"

To them the Man of Sorrows: "Peace, O Son Begrimed not thus thy speech with earth's foul dust:

Each day I drink thy Cup of Agony; Each night I pray in thy Gethsemane— And I, O son, am God!" —J. D. Logan in "Preludes."

Her Changing Mind.

One afternoon not long ago a young woman stepped up to the telegraph counter in a local department store, and in a trembling voice asked for a supply of blanks.

She wrote a message on one blank, which she immediately tore in halves; then a second message was written out that was treated in the same way; finally a third was accomplished, and this she handed to the operator with a feverish request that it be "rushed."

When the message had gone on the wire and the sender had departed, the operator read the other two for her own amusement.

The first ran: "All at an end. Have no wish to see you again."

"Do not write or try to see me any more," was the tenor of the second message.

The third was to this effect: "Come at once. Take next train if possible. Answer."—[Philadelphia Public Ledger.]
