

HELPLESS 3 WEEKS

HANDS COVERED WITH ECZEMA AMPUTATION FEARED BUT ZAM-BUK SAVED.

"For three long months I was not able to attend to my own needs; and for three weeks the eczema on my hands was so bad that I was unable to feed myself. I had to be fed as one feeds a baby, because I could not hold knife, fork, spoon or cup." So says Miss Violet McSorley, of 75, Gore Street, Sault Ste. Marie, in telling how Zam-Buk cured her of eczema. She adds: "Hands, wrists and arms up to the elbows were covered with eczema. The itching and the soreness were nigh unbearable. As the disease developed, the skin actually peeled off leaving raw sores. The palms, fingers, backs of my hands and wrists were all in this shocking state, and I was forced to sit in agony all the while."

"The raw sores were soon in a foul condition, and my finger nails, all except two, fell off. During the different stages of my trouble, I sought the advice of three different doctors and received treatment, but although getting slight relief at first there was no cure. Amputation was at one time thought necessary but the timely introduction of Zam-Buk prevented this fearful ending."

"Zam-buk was recommended by a friend and we bought a supply. The first few applications gave me a little ease, but it was not until I had continued with it for some time that I felt a decided improvement. After that my cure went on quickly. Zam-Buk did what everything else had failed to do. Now my hands and arms are quite freed from the terrible eczema."

Are you suffering from skin disease? If so, take Miss McSorley's advice and try Zam-Buk.

Zam-Buk cures eczema, ulcers, piles, bad leg, ringworm, festering sores, cuts, bruises, burns, stiffness, poisoned wounds of all kinds, pimples, face and lip sores, bed sores, diseased ankles, and all itching, irritation, and inflammation. Of all druggists and stores, 50 cents a box, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for same price. Refuse all cheap and worthless substitutes of the "just as good" type.

More Attention to Health Needed in the Camps.

The recent outbreak of typhoid fever in the construction camps of the G. T. P. illustrates forcibly the difficulties which have to be met with in maintaining good health in camps of all kinds. Lumber camps, fortunately, are not so seriously handicapped in this regard as construction camps, in which the foreign population predominates. But even in a lumber camp, sickness will crop up and sometimes become a great source of danger and loss. An article appearing on another page of this issue gives a good idea of the cause of this difficulty. It shows that in the Ottawa valley manufacturers have a large problem to face in spite of all the efforts which have been made during the past. A healthy man always objects to being taxed on a per capita basis for the sake of his fellows who are not blessed with the same good health as he. Living in the open air among the rigors of winter he becomes inured to many hardships which would bring sickness and death to an average man. He feels himself immune from sickness and will not be content to be taxed for something of which he does not see the immediate benefit.

The situation to-day is rendered still more difficult by the dulness which has reduced the amount of wages received by the men in the camps. They will have much smaller sums of money to bring out after the camps are over and will feel, therefore, much less inclined than in former years to pay a per capita tax for medical attendance. The healthy man's side of the question is to some extent a reasonable one, yet one never knows where sickness will occur next. Healthy men have in reality so little to pay for medicines and treatment during their ordinary lives that they might be expected to take a more charitable view of the situation. But shanty men are no more altruistic than the city men. They want pay for their work, and as much of it as they can obtain. The situation apparently is one which can only be dealt with arbitrarily. Government regulations are the most important means of insuring proper medical attendance in the camps. They have already been tried and have worked well, but have not been carried so far as those who are responsible for the health of the camps would desire.—Canada Lumberman.

Mrs. John Hamilton.

Mrs. John Hamilton, of Florenceville, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Edwin Phillips, on Monday, after an illness of two months. She is survived by three sons—John, who is in the west; Dr. D. W. Hamilton, of the Normal School; Samuel D., who is in business in Houlton (Me.); and two daughters—Mrs. Caspar Caldwell and Mrs. M. S. Carle, of Florenceville. The funeral took place from her late residence, Florenceville, on Wednesday.

Mrs. Judson Manzer.

Andover, N. B., Nov. 23.—The death of Mrs. Judson Manzer took place at her home here last evening at 11 p. m. A few days ago she had a relapse from typhoid and for several days she was in a most critical condition but hopes were still entertained of her recovery, and her death comes as a great shock to the community. She was a most amiable woman, very popular in the community, and had a large circle of friends. In social and church circles she will be very much missed. She was a Miss Barton, and for years was connected with the teaching staff of St. John. A sister, teaching at Moncton, and another resident in St. John, were with her at the time of her death. Much sympathy is felt in the community for Mr. Manzer in his great bereavement.

The Long, Cold, Dark Evenings,

Are coming upon us when the wise father and mother will look about for some means to keep the young people at home.

Nothing will do this more effectually than a musical instrument, a Violin, an Organ, or a Piano. I heartily recommend to your notice the renowned Gourlay Piano. Won't you come and have a talk with me about the matter.

Bones May Tell How Long You Will Live.

Taking advantage of the possibility of determining indirectly the mineral content of bones in human beings by means of their opacity to Roentgen rays, Professor Charles Henry has been examining the hands of many people of different ages in order to verify the law of Flourens, says the Chicago Inter Ocean.

According to the law of Flourens, the duration of the period of growth bears a definite relation to longevity; and, in particular, the time occupied by any animal in attaining its maximum stature is a definite fraction, constant for all the individuals of the species of the duration of the animal's life.

The maximum stature is attained simultaneously with the maximum development of the skeleton, and as the weight of the skeleton is a proportion of the amount of mineral salts which it contains, the law may be expressed in a more mathematical form by saying that the percentage of mineral salts in the bones of all animals of the same species may be represented by similar curves of growth and decline which will differ solely in the values of individual units.

The degrees of opacity in the bones indicates thus the degree of maturity of the individual. From his examination of subjects at different ages Professor Henry with his Roentgen ray apparatus, modified by photographic plates, has deduced a maximum opacity at from thirty to thirty-two years (the age at which the height and weight normally reach their greatest limits), and a maximum opacity of forty-five years. Analysis of the ashes of bones of deceased persons of various ages and both sexes confirm the results arrived at by Professor Henry.

It will in time, it is predicted, be possible to calculate the expectation of life of any individual by these tests of bone opacity and even to establish life insurance premiums upon a more equitable basis than mortality statistics afford.

Permanent Results

"I had been suffering for over two months with an obstinate cough, as had also my little girl. We tried several remedies common to any drug store without obtaining any apparent relief, in fact we were growing worse. I got a bottle of Coltsfoote Expecto-rant from my druggist and inside of two days the cough was stopped, and the results so permanent and rapid that we decided to keep it in our home continually.
