Constipation

Baked sweet apples, with some people, bring prompt relief for Constipation. With others coarse all-wheat bread will have the same effect. Nature undoubtedly has a vegetable remedy to relieve every ailment known to man, if physicians can but find Nature's way to health. And this is strikingly true with regard to Constipation. The bark of a certain tree in California—Cascara Sagrada—offers a most excellent aid to this end. But, combined with Egyptian Senna, Slippery Elm Bark, Solid Extract of Prunes, etc., this same Cascara bark is given its greatest possible power to correct constipation. A toothsome Candy Tablet, called Lax-ets, is now made at the Dr. Shoop Laboratories, from this ingenious and most effective prescription. Its effect on Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Sallow Complexion, etc., is indeed prompt and satisfying. No griping, no unpleasant after effects are experienced, and Lax-ets are put up in beautiful lithographed metal boxes at 5 cents and 25 cents per box. A CHRISTMAS LULLABY.

Bethlehem town is fast asleep.
(One, two sheep, and a star and a hill.)
There where the shepherds watch their sheep,
Out in the night the shadows creep
Over the hill so high and steep.
(Three, four sheep, and a hill and a star.)
Over the plain come three wise kings.
(One, two camels, a star, and a hill.)
Out of the East, lo, each one brings
Beautiful gifts and precious things.
Loudly the chorus of angels sings.
(Three, four camels, a hill, and a star.)
Down in the town is a lowly shed.
(One, two cows, and a star and hill.)
There to the Christ-child's manger bed,
Shepherds and three wise kings are led.
Brightly the star shines overhead.
(Three, four cows, and a hill and a star.)
Over the hill go one, two sheep.
(One, two sheep, and a camel and cow.)
Over the hill more camels creep;
There goes a lamb with a joyous leap;
Here—but the baby is fast asleep!
(Three, four sheep, and a hill, and a star.)
—Blanche Elizabeth Wade in December Lippincott's.

The First Christmas Gift.

By A. Ashmead.
In the days gone by three wise men came across the desert's burning sands, Gold, frankincense, and myrrh they brought with free and willing hands.
But their gifts were not for the wealthy,
though their value sure was great,
But for a simple babe in a manger laid,
a child of low estate.
A Christmas gift to an infant mild,
brought with great toil and care;
What a shout went from the seraph host at a sacrifice so rare.
For the Christ of the little children was a babe himself that day,
When the star shone forth in the distant east
to point out where he lay.
And what could we do at Christmas that would cause Him more delight
Than to cheer the hearts of the little ones so precious in his sight?
For 'tis not to them alone you give, but to Christ who reigns above,
Who pleaded their cause when here on earth,
for the little ones he loved.
As the star showed the way on that natal
so The Star appeals to you now,
However so humble your offering may be,
though 'tis earned by the sweat of your brow,
'Twill be reckoned above as given to Him,
the little ones' Saviour and friend;
For are we not told in his very own words,
to the Lord 'tis your money you lend.

The remains were taken to Carleton county for burial. —Gleaner.

Imagination.

Usually little Mary was not at all afraid of the dark, but one night, after being put to bed, she called her mother and insisted there was some one in the closet.
"Nonsense, Mary," said her mother; "it's only imagination." The child was quiet for a little while, but presently called, in a frightened voice: "Mother, 'magination's in the closet again." —[Harper's.

Mary's Accomplishments.

(Tit-Bits.)
Mrs. B.—I suppose you find your daughter very much improved by her two years' stay at college?
Mrs. Proudmother—La! yes, Mary Elizabeth is a carnivorous reader now, and she frequently impoverishes music. But she ain't a bit stuck up—she's unanimous to everybody, an' she never keeps a caller waitin' for her to dress; she just runs in nom de plume, an' you know that makes one feel so comfortable.

"Full Many a Flow'r"

The men of a certain fire department had decided to give a fine presentation ax to their chief as a tribute to his long, faithful service. Elaborate plans were made for a program to be given on the occasion, and one of the men was selected to deliver the speech. The eloquent and flowery tribute he prepared cost him toil no one would have guessed—unless it was the chief, who had caught certain rumors and was himself secretly spending labored hours over another oratorical triumph.

The flag draped hall was crowded when the great day arrived. On the platform sat a semicircle of firemen in full red-shirted regalia. The program opened with the inevitable "piano selection," and solemnly proceeded until the fateful moment, when the chosen fireman stepped to the middle of the platform to address the chief.

The spokesman opened his mouth, but words came not. He looked at the chief, at the floor, at the ceiling, then made a wide gesture, gave a convulsive gulp, and said: "Here's your ax."
The chief who had risen, gave him one look of dumb consternation and said: "Hell! is that the ax?"—Sybil Stewart Sterling.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

How Lincoln Won His Case.

(Atlantic Monthly.)
The lawyer whose honesty is proved has the confidence of the judge and jury. A story of Abraham Lincoln is an illustration: he was appointed to defend one charged with murder. The crime was a brutal one; the evidence entirely circumstantial; the accused a stranger. Feeling was high and against the friendless defendant. On the trial Lincoln drew from the witnesses full statements of what they saw and knew. There was no effort to confuse, no attempt to place before the jury the facts other than they were. In the argument, after calling attention to the fact that there was no direct testimony, Lincoln reviewed the circumstances, and after conceding that this and that seemed to point to defendant's guilt, closed by saying that he had reflected much on the case, and while it seemed probable that defendant was guilty, he was not sure; and looking the jury straight in the face said, "Are you?" The defendant was acquitted, and afterwards the real criminal was detected and punished. How different would have been the conduct of many lawyers! Some would have striven to lead the judge into technical errors with a view to an appeal to a higher court. Others would have become hoarse in denunciation of witnesses, decrying the lack of positive testimony and the marvellous virtue of a reasonable doubt. The simple, straightforward way of Lincoln, backed by the confidence of the jury, won.
