Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help. If you would have strong Heart, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with Concerning Stable Ventilation.

It is doubtful if any question pertaining to barn construction or care of live-stock has been of greater interest to the better class of farmers during recent years than that of proper ventilation of stables. We are coming to realize more and more that the air we breathe has its effect on our health the same as the food we eat. This is especially true in later years when the ever-present question of tuberculosis is demanding the attention of individuals, and municipal and state governments.

A recent article in The Virginia Farmer while showing deep interest in the matter, reveals a lack of knowledge of first principles when it says that all the foul bad air is found close to the floor of the stable. Others have written and talked about the foul air that is always found at the ceiling, while the truth is, foul air is quite evenly distributed from ceiling to floor. To be sure warm air rises and, but there is no evidence that warm air is foul any more than cool air is pure. By the best methods of ventilation, the air is taken from near the floor, but it is because of the fact that drawing air from the ceiling removes the warm air, thus keeping the entire stable at too low a temperature. Whatever method of ventilation provides for the most thorough diffusion of pure air, while eliminating the foul and providing against drafts is the best method.

A Clubwoman's Troubles.

One of the annoyances of the clubwoman's life lies in the tickets that are pressed upon her and from which there seems to be no escape.

It is not unusual for the president of a prominent organization to find from fifty to eighty of these "invitations" in her daily mail, each enclosing from one to a dozen tickets, which she is expected to either purchase herself or dispose of among friends.

What is the victim to do? She cannot ignore the matter—there have been cases where the sender attempted to enforce payment for tickets not returned. "It is serious enough," says one of these grievously offended ones, "to be bombarded at receptions and teas, but when one has to sort over over dozens and dozens before getting to one's personal notes, it is too much."

Three Ends Of A Rope.

An Irishman who was out of work went on board a vessel that was in the harbor, and asked the captain if he could find him work on the ship.

"Well," said the captain, at the same time handing the Irishman a piece of rope, "if you can find three ends to that rope you shall have work."

The Irishman got hold of one end of the rope, and, showing it to the captain, said:

"That's one end, your honor." Then he took hold of the other end, and showing it to the captain as before, said: "And that's two ends, your honor."

Then taking hold of both ends of the rope, he threw it overboard, saying: "And faith, there's an end to the rope, your honor!"

He was engaged.

A clergyman writes: "Preventics, those little Candy Cold Cure Tablets are working wonders in my parish." Preventics surely will check a cold, or the Grippe, in a very few hours. And Preventics are so safe and harmless. No Quinine, nothing harsh nor sickening. Fine for feverish restless children. Box of 48 at 25c. Sold by all druggists.

An automobile party was touring through the mountainous district of western Pennsylvania, and had made a stop in one of the small towns to make some repairs to the machine. While they waited the attention of one of the party was called to an intelligent-looking lad of about fourteen who seemed to be very much interested in the work, and of whom the following question was asked:

"Say, son, what do you live on out here?"
"Nuthin'," replied the somewhat surprised youth. "Dad's a preacher."—Judge.

Frost--Anderson.

A representative gathering witnessed one of the prettiest weddings ever solemnized in Mars Hill when Aubrey Clair Frost was united in matrimony to Miss Stella Etoile Anderson, in the F. B. church, Saturday evening, October twenty-fourth.

The ring service was performed in an unusual impressive manner by Rev. Geo. M. Park, of Presque Isle, beneath an evergreen arch, banked with a profusion of potted plants in bloom. Prayer and the closing benediction was offered by the pastor, Rev. F. W. Sabeau. Mrs. Dr. Kincaid played the wedding march.

The bride entered the church with Mr. R. J. Colbath. She was attired in a white silk dress and carried a bride's bouquet. Miss Hortense York was flower girl, and Miss Virginia Colbath acted as ring bearer. Volney S. Frost, brother of the groom was best man, and Miss Gertrude Smith was bridesmaid. Miss Smith was dressed in light blue. The ushers were Olin B. Smart, of Houlton; Chas. Gallupe, Allie York and Fred Cliff of Mars Hill.

Immediately following the ceremony the invited guests went to the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Colbath, where the reception to the newly married couple was held.

The bride and groom are two of Mars Hill's best and most highly respected citizens, as was testified to by an unusually large list of expensive presents, which were displayed in the dining room. Mr. Frost is head electrician for the Easton Electric Company, and it is in the above town, Easton, that they will take up their abode.

Following is a list of those in attendance from away:

E. S. Everett and wife, Fort Fairfield; G. S. Everett and wife, Presque Isle; H. B. Everett, Maysville; W. B. Everett and wife, Woodstock; H. Towle and wife, Fort Fairfield; B. Bryant and wife, Fort Fairfield; Mrs. Cora Houghton, Fort Fairfield; Mrs. Carrie Tracey, Presque Isle; Dr. R. H. Perry and wife, Presque Isle; Mrs. Susie Nadeau, Presque Isle; G. M. Colbath and wife, Sprague Mills; E. D. Colbath and sisters, Easton; D. Lane and wife, Monticello; W. Bridges, Monticello; Andrew Estey, wife and daughter, Bridgewater.

Last of the "Irish Kings."

Michael Waters, the "king" of Innishmur-ray, a storm-beaten island about nine miles off the coast of Sligo, has died at his residence there, and his funeral was carried out with all the accompaniments of ancient Celtic ceremonial, the body receiving a final resting place in the ancient monastic establishment of St. Molaise and St. Colombkille.

This event recalls a quaint survival of the old Irish clan system. The late "king" was actually ruler of the island, his eighty subjects accepting his word as law. He always acted with impartiality and justice and his decisions were never questioned. He was "king" for more than thirty-five years, having succeeded his mother as ruler, and he in turn handed his authority over to his son Michael.

The Islanders, many of whom have never been to the mainland, make their living by fishing, and their life is arduous. There are no police on the island, all matters being settled by the "king"; there are no priests, and the people are never called upon to pay taxes.

The island is full of interest to the antiquary. The "castle" inhabited by the late "king" is situated near the landing stage and close to the ruins of an ancient town. The wall of the town varies in height from fourteen to eighteen feet, and it is broad enough to drive a cart around the top.

The interior of the enclosure presents a remarkable appearance, for there may be seen churches, cells, houses shaped like beehives, tombs, altars, a wishing stone and crosses. Within the old wall are three churches, and tradition has it that the monastery was the joint work of St. Molaise and St. Colombkille during the latter half of the sixth century.
