Cold Settles on Kidneys.

Cure is obtained promptly by using Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Medical authorities place colds as the most frequent cause of kidney diseases.

It is customary to consider the lungs alone in danger from colds.

This is a mistake. The kidneys are quite as susceptible and the effect is to congest and clog these filtering organs until the whole system is poisoned and there comes backaches, lumbago, aching head, painful limbs and urinary derangements.

In a wonderfully short time Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills afford relief and cure.

By reason of their direct and combined action of kidneys, liver and bowels they cleanse the system, purify the blood and carry away the poisons generated by reason of the cold.

The great secret of health lies in keeping these filtering and excretory organs regular and active and this can best be done by using Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto, Ont.

On the extraordinary success of this medicine as well as on the reliability of his great Receipt Book rests the fame of A. W. Chase, M. D.

We Are to Die of Thirst.

Few persons know the suffering involved in a thirst for which there is no help at hand. The consuming thirst more than the pain of any wound makes the battlefield a hell. Yet death by thirst is the doom forecast for the race by grim scientists. Geologists find that the fresh water supply of the globe is failing. They have data which point to the gradual withdrawal of the streams and other bodies of water from the surface. Both in Africa and central Asia and, indeed, in all the great levels the water beds are drying up. A great number of lakes well known in the historical age have entirely disappeared. For example, Lake Chirous, in Africa, has vanished within recent years, as has also Lake Ngami, discovered by Livingstone. Lake Tchad is more than half dried up. For centuries bodies of water in central Asia have been evaporating and the deserts extending. Where 2,000 years ago great cities stood in east Turkestan there are found only vast and depressing stretches of sand. The river Tarim, once a principal Asiatic route, is almost gone, and Lob-Nor, formerly four times the area of Lake Geneva, is now but a shallow marsh. The same sad conditions are noted in European Russia. Novgorod, the most pushing city in the czar's distracted realm, was surrounded by water in the middle ages. While we may be sure that the fate which the geologists suggest for humanity is very far away, the facts recited to show the drying up process are convincing proofs of the need of preserving our forests with more care.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

The St. John Exhibition.

We have just received a copy of the St. John Exhibition Prize List. Its general make-up speaks well for Mr. R. H. Arnold, the energetic manager of the Exhibition Association. The Exhibition will open on September 12th and close on September 19th. Competition is open to the world. Fifteen thousand dollars are offered in premiums which are divided among the following sections:—Horses, Cattle, Sheep, Swine, Poultry, Butter and Cheese, Agricultural Products, Horticulture, Honey and Dairy Supplies, Natural History and Fine Arts. The prizes offered are well worth going after by anyone who has "the goods."

While we have no doubt that side shows will be in evidence, we are glad to note that Manager Arnold, who is a practical farmer himself does not attempt to hoodwink the farmers of the Province by giving these side shows so much prominence in his advertising as has been customary heretofore. Mr. Arnold has a different view of an industry and agricultural fair. He believes farmers now-a-days are too intelligent to spend their time and money on that which is not bread. The bread they come to seek at an agricultural exhibition is sound agricultural knowledge. Good judgment is shown in not landing the side shows. The people who are light-headed enough to seek such quarters will find their medium. Mr. Arnold's aim is to have a strong agricultural exhibition and we trust he will meet with the encouragement that his zeal merits.

The Horse's Power Of Smell.

(Horse and Stable.)

The horse will leave musty hay untouched in his bin, however hungry. He will not drink of water objectionable to his questioning sniff, or from a bucket which some odor makes offensive, however thirsty. His intelligent nostril will widen, quiver and query over the faintest bit offered by the fairest of hands, with coaxings that would make a mortal shut his eyes and swallow a nauseous mouthful at a gulp. A mare is never satisfied by either sight or whinny that her colt is really her own until she has a certified nasal certificate to the fact. A blind horse, now living, will not allow the approach of any stranger without showing signs of anger not safely to be disregarded. The distinction is evidently made by his sense of smell and at a considerable distance. Blind horses, as a rule, will gallop wildly about a pasture without striking the surrounding fence. The sense of smell informs them of the proximity. Others will, when loosened from the stable, go directly to the gate or bars opened to their accustomed feeding grounds, and when desiring to return, after hours of careless wandering, will distinguish one outlet and patiently await its opening. The odor of that particular part of the fence is their pilot to it. The horse, in browsing or while gathering herbage with its lips, is guided in its choice of proper food entirely by its nostrils. Blind horses do not make mistakes in their diet.

What He Enjoyed.

(From the Chicago Tribune.)

Mr. Makinbrakes was trying to say something complimentary to the distinguished actor to whom he had just been introduced. "What I particularly enjoy about your acting, Mr. Strutters," he said, is your perfect naturalness. You can take an old man's part, you know, without the slightest necessity for making up—that is, I mean you don't have to change your face, you know, or—why, take it in that play I saw you in the other night, when you appeared as an old man. All you had to do was to be just your natural—er—self, though, of course, there were plenty of wigs and wrinkles you could have put on if you had—er—needed them—which isn't quite what I was trying to get at either—for any one could see how admirably you fitted the—the part, you know, with out any—and all that sort of—what do you think of the new theory, Mr. Strutters, that a man can live on peanuts?"

Crops Grow Without Rain.

(Chicago Tribune.)

In Syria and Palestine from the beginning of April until October there is practically no rain, yet in July the fields teem with a vigorous growth of watermelons, tomatoes, cucumbers, etc., all flourishing without artificial watering, although at that time no rain has fallen for many weeks.

In fact the Syrian peasant, from the moment his seed has been sown, prays that no rain may fall. During the period of growth of a crop the surface of the soil to a depth of six or eight inches is perfectly dry and loose. Below this surface layer will be found moist soil, in which the roots extend and grow vigorously. In this moist subsoil plants continue to grow until late autumn. When the crop is removed in the autumn the rains commence and the land is ploughed after each heavy rain as soon as the soil begins to dry.

Two primary objects are kept in view in ploughing—to furnish a favorable surface for taking up all the water and to prevent its upward evaporation from the subsoil. The great point is to keep the upper six inches of soil perfectly loose and friable, so that the moisture from below is not drawn upward and lost in evaporation, but does not ascend higher than the compact subsoil that is not broken up by the plough. For this reason the ploughing is shallow, averaging from four to six inches in depth.

When the time for sowing the seed arrives the land is ploughed to a depth of about six inches and the seed is sown from an arrangement attached to the plough, falls on the damp subsoil and is covered by the soil closing over the ploughshare. From this time the upper stratum of loose soil prevents the escape of moisture upward beyond the wet subsoil on which the seeds rest and into which their roots, after the process of germination spread.

When It Was Dark.

It was midnight, and the front door bell rang furiously. A head adorned with shaggy and unmanageable whiskers was thrust out of the bedroom window, and a voice that fitted the beard enquired: "What is it?"

"O, is this Mr. Higgins?" came a shrill voice from the shade of the doorway below.

"Yes."

"Please come to No. 41 High street just as quick as you can and bring your instruments."

"I ain't a doctor—I'm a carpenter. Dr. Higgins lives two doors below," and the window was coming down with a slam.

"Please, sir," said the little voice, "it's you you want. Pa and ma are shut up in the folding bed and we can't get 'em out."
