Gasoline, 70 Cents per Gallon.

A recent issue of the Houlton Pioneer tells a very bad one on our Sam Fong. On reading the article we should be constrained to believe that Bret Harte was right when he wrote "For ways that are dark and tricks that are low the Heathen Chinese is peculiar," except that we believe Sam must be greatly maligned by the Houlton paper. The article in question reads:

Two automobilists from Houlton met with an experience in Hartland, Saturday which was amusing to say the least. Their gasoline tank had run dry and they supposed it would be an easy matter to replenish it at Hartland. If any one in the town dealt in the oil they were certainly all out when the travelers struck there. They were finally directed to a Chinese laundry, where it was known the Mongolian in charge used gasoline for cleaning purposes. The Chinaman allowed he had a supply on hand. The automobilists ordered five gallons and on asking the price was promptly told it was $3.50. This seemed exorbitant, and, not being able to get it at a less figure, they changed their minds about the quantity, and thought they would take two gallons, which would carry them to Woodstock. They ordered two gallons, but the wise Chinaman kept on pushing the iron and said, "No, to busy to bother with so small amount." They took the five gallons and paid the three fifty.—Aroostook Pioneer.

Prof. Davis Great Attraction at Houlton Rollaway Rink.

March 1908.—The Houlton Rollaway Rink closed Tuesday night, when a large appreciative audience assembled to see one of the world's skating artists Prof. H. R. Davis. He is a past master of the little rollers, and performs wonderful feats and amazing and dangerous stunts. The Prof. entertained us for one hour and thirty minutes. Prof. Davis has been the best drawing card the rink ever had, as this is his third exhibition. It is safe to say Aroostook will never see his equal. Some of his tricks composed of skating on toe and heel rollers, skating backwards and forwards on one toe, skating on loose rollers balancing a rod while in action, tricks with a chair, skating on two twenty inch wheels clapped the climax until he sprang another sensation that of shooting the chute at an angle of 45 degrees. The most amazing and dangerous stunt was that of performing on a barrel on top of a rickety table, performing on the large globe rollers and stunts was marvelous. The great jump over eight chairs and a barrel shows the Prof's ability as an athlete. He was amply rewarded for his excellent exhibition by generous applause and a solid gold medal presented by the manager of the rink. The rink was crowded to see the Prof. and have their last skate, as the rink is to close its doors to the public for good. The writer wishes the Prof. the best of success on his trip through New Hampshire and Vermont. Prof. Davis will give an exhibition in Graham's Opera House on the evening of Sept. 9th. After the close of the entertainment a social dance will be given.
