PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause also usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—concozes blood pressure away from pain centers.
Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.
If it's painful periods with women, same cause.
If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Brise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

Bill's In Trouble.

I've got a letter, parson, from my son, away out West.

An' my ol' heart is heavy as an anvil in my breast,

To think the boy whose fatur' I had once so proudly planned

Should wander from the path o' right an' come to sich an end.

I told him when he started out toward the settin' sun

He'd find the row he had to hoe a mighty rocky one,

He'd miss his father's counsel an' his mother's prayers too.

But he said the farm was hateful an' he guessed he'd have to go.

I know there's big temptation for a youngster in the West,

But I believed our Billy had the courage to resist,

An' when he left I told him of the ever waitin' snares

That lie like hidden serpents in life's pathway everywhere.

But Bill he promised faithful to be keeful an' allowed

He'd build a reputation that'd make us very proud,

But it seems as how my counsel sort 'o faded from his mind,

And now the boy's in trouble of the very wastest kind.

His letters come so seldom that we somehow sort o' knowed.

That Billy was a trampin' in a mighty rocky road.

But never once imagiued he would bow my head in shame,

An' in the dust 'd waller his ol' daddy's honored name,

He writes from out in Denver, an' the letter's mighty short—

I just can't tell his mothee. It will break her poor ol' heart.

An' so I reckon, parson, you might break the news to her—

Bill's in the Legislatur,' but he doesn't say what fur.

Rheumatism promptly driven from the blood with Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy. A test will surely tell. In tablet or liquid form. Sold by All Dealers.

The School Lunch.

The daily problem of filling the lunch basket for the growing boys and girls, is one that many mothers find troublesome to solve, while others pitch in a mess of sticky food, wrapped in a newspaper, absorbing the ink, and then wonder why John and Mollie look so peaked and make such poor progress in their studies.

Cheese cloth can be purchased at 2½ cents per yard, market baskets for 5 cents apiece, and where lunches are put up warm, the open baskets are more wholesome than the closed lunch buckets or baskets.

A supply of tissue paper and a few small trays such as the groecymen use, cost but a few cents, and will be greatly appreciated to hold the lunch in position.

And now for the contents. Wholesome foods is essential and can be furnished cheaper than the many sweets so often found in the lunch basket. Beans boiled or baked, may be readily carried in pint fruit jars.
Potatoes, made into salad, may be carried on the trays, and this, with corn meal muffins, fruit, individual tarts or pies, a jelly sandwich and fruit, will make a very appetizing lunch.

Care of the Eyes.

Lavender and rosemary are excellent for the eyes. Nothing will restore the lustre, the brightness, to tired eyes so quickly. In fact, all good, pure ocoluge waters are helpful to them. Every woman has observed that a headache which she has "doctored" with wet cloths wrung out in cologne water usually leaves her eyes brilliant.

If the eyes smart and burn, a wash of a weak solution of boracic acid is helpful; also witch hazel water, of weak proportions is oftentimes soothing. There are those who soorn all other aids to eye brightening save salt water. Certainly it possesses the virtue of absolute harmlessness and simplicity.

The wise woman will rest here eyes whenever it is possible to do so. She will employ few cosmetics, as even the best salves, lotions and decoctions are liable to inflame certain eyes. Given plenty of rest, says the New York Tribune, frequent cold and hot applications and protections from glaring light, the average eyes will not demand other care.

A great deal depends upon the background —the dress—in bringing out the beauty of the eyes. All blue eyes respond to costumes of blue; dark blues deepen the color of light blue eyes. Browns are effective if the hair holds in its high lights gold or red. The lashes usually reflect these gold shadows.
Hazel eyes are helped by the same shade, and black eyes grow tender and soft when they glow above pale blue and white. The French declare that a woman should wear the color of her eyes in the evening.

Read the pain formula on a box of Pink Pain Tablets. Then ask your Doctor if there is a better one. Pain means congestion—blood pressure somewhere. Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets check head pains, womanly pains, pain anywhere. Try one, and see! 20 for 25c. Sold by All Dealers.

True Eloquence.

(Green Bag.)

The lawyer for the plaintiff had finished his argument, and the counsel for the defence stepped forward to speak. The judge, new to the bench and young for his position, interrupted him. His eyes were wide open and filled with wonder and admiration for the eloquent plea of the plaintiff.

"Defendant need not speak," he said;
"plaintiff wins."

"But, you honor," said the attorney for the defendant, "at least let me present my case."

"Well, go ahead," said the judge, wearily.
The lawyer went ahead. When he had finished, the judge gasped in even greater astonishment.

"Don't it beat all!" he exclaimed. "Now defendant wins."

Pay of Ministers.

(From the Philadelphia Press.)

Two New England ministers of the gospel have resigned pastorates recently to engage in manufacturing business. One had seen 38 years in the pulpit and the other 25. The necessity of devoting their few remaining years of activity to making provision for their comfort in old age and prevent their becoming charges upon their relations or the public compel this step.

There is a lesson full of pathos and impeachment in these cases. These two ministers are but representatives of a large class of good men who devote their lives to the highest calling that can engage human thought and effort and who receive in return scarcely enough to keep decent clothes on their backs and to provide nourishing food for themselves and their families. Their sacrifice and devotion are pathetic.

It is true that most churches have a fund for the maintenance of disabled and superannuated ministers, but that is a sort of charity and only a miserable expedient at best. In these days of prosperity let the fortunate business man, the steadily employed workmen and the well paid captains of industry give some thought to him whom they regard as their spiritual director.

Let him have a taste of the prosperity and an opportunity to place a few dollars, not exactly needed for domestic expenses, where they may earn something for a "rainy day." Raise the pastor's salary; he is earning infinitely more than the few paltry dollars he receives at present.

Feminine Resource.

(The Era.)

Mr. D— went to the club, leaving Mrs.
D— with a lady friend whose abilities as a scandal-monger and mischief-maker were pre-eminent. When he returned, he just poked his head into the drawing-room and said with a sigh of relief: "That old cat's gone, I suppose?"

For an instant there was a profound silence for as he uttered the last word he encountered the stony stare of the lady who had been in his mind. Then his wife came to the rescue.

"Oh, yes, dear," she said, "I sent it to the cats' home in a basket this morning."
