Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

lation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's painful periods with women, same cause,
If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

Skirt Yokes are Popular.

The yoke skirt that was looked on a bit doubtfully when it first made its appearance a few months ago has met with the most unparelled success both here and abroad-French women particularly have caught it up with the greatest enthusiasm, and from all accounts of the French and English races one saw little else among smartly gowned women. A lovely dress in a very fine silkfinished batiste has the tucked and lacetrimmed skirt mounted on a deep yoke that reaches down well below the hips. The tucks-or rather plaits-start at the lower edge of the yoke, and are stitched down for six or sight inches. The stitching is placed fairly near the edge of the plaits so that it gives them a pretty tuck-like effect .- The Delineator for August.

Only a Goat.

(Springfield Republican.)

A physician who is somewhat skeptical as to the soundness of Chrstian Science doctrines, 'tells the story of an ardent Eddyite and her little boy. The mother was crossing the field with her small son when a goat appeared, and came towards them threateningly, the to dismay of the youngster, who shrank in terror behind his mother, skirts. Remembering her belief she tired to reassure him.

"Why, Georgie," she said soothingly, as the goat continued to advanced, "don't you know that you're a Christian Science little boy, that there's no such thing as pain, and that it would be useless for the goat to try to hurt you? Don't you know

"Yes," wailed the doubting believer between his sobs. "I know it, and you know but the goat don't know it.

Innocent Youth!

When the stringed band, hidden be hind the rose and carnation screen in Mrs Poole's dining room, began to play an air from one of Meyerbeer's operas, the daughter of the house turned hopefully to the young and apparently dumb stranger who had been told off to take her in.

Here was a promising opening for conversation.

"Do you like Meyerbeer?" she asked. "I never drank a glass of one of those lagers in my life," the young man replied

A Strong Resemblance.

In honor of his victory in the coaching Marathon at the London Horse Show, Alfred G. Vanderbilt was dined by a number of young Englishmen at the Dieudone, in Ryder-street.

Mr. Vanderbilt, replying to a toast, compared the horsemen of to-day with the horsemen of the past.

"Finally"-so his brief speech ended-" the modern horseman is more temperate. He would consider it the height of foolishness and the height of bad form to drink too much. And this temperance of his has exerted a good influence over all classes, both English and American.

A senator I know," said Mr. Vanderbilt, smiling, "entered a Washington barber shop the other day to have his hair cut. An aged colored man looked after him. This very old fellow, as he snipped at the senator's locks, said:

"Senatah, yo' sut'ny does 'mind me o' Daniel Webstah."

"The senator smiled at his reflection in the mirror—a gratified, indulgent smile. "Shape of my head, uncle, I suppose? ne said carlessly.

"No, sah: not yo' head, sah; yo' breff." For Thin Women.

Get as much sleep as possible.

Do not rush, or overdo your strength. Keep in the open air as much as possible. Take all the exercise your system can stand without feeling the least fatigue. Get into the habit of resting a little while in the middle of the day, even if you are not aware of being tired.

Laugh as much as possible. Read funny things, and cultivate that side of yourself. Suppress any tendency to take life too seriously.

Do not worry about your looks. It is much easier for a very thin woman to dress to conceal her defects than it is for a fat woman to do the same thing.

Do not rush too madly into the fashion for skimpy things.

something to cling to.

A thin woman can indulge in a modecate and perfectly harmless amount of padding, and in the hands of a good dressmaker she can hardly fail to look well.

She must choose clothes according to her type, however; and not indulge in the gowns built for her plumper sisters, no matter how charming they may be.

Shakespeare and the Modern Hat.

A writer in the Atlantic Monthly has a word to say about the modern hat. She calls it the club woman's burden. It is one that she wears very willingly. "I think," he writes, Shakespeare must have had a vision of the fashionable hat of today for Petruchio says to the haberdasher when Katherine's cap is presented to him for ap-

I'll have no bigger; this doth fit the time And gentlewomen wear such caps as these, Which bids one believe that a clamor for a revival of Elizabethan millinery would be generally responded tolby the gentlemen.

A Fine Bone.

Sir Charles Wyndham, at a dinner in New York, discussed the leanness of actuesses.

"ht is odd," said he, "but the thinner an actress is the greater she is apt to become. To be thin, somehow, is to be arristle. Look at Mand Adams, Ethel Bangmore, the divine Sara."

Sir Charles laughed.

"Once, at a reception that Mmme. Sara Bernhardt gave in Paris," he said, "she led us all up to samire a new portrait of herself. It was a beautiful work. Very thin-she hardly weighed five stone in those days-the actress in a gold-colored gown posed sinuously, a huge white dog beside her.

"A French critic startled us all, as we were grouped about the picture, by exclaim. ing with a loud, rude laugh:

"Aha! A dog and a bone!"

The Mind's Power.

From The Philadelphia Bulletin. "Zela," said a psychologist, "once wrote

n a lady's album that his favorite amusement was writing and his favorite wish a sudden death. Zola died suddenly,

"And it is a strange thing," said the psychologist, "that those who prefer a sudden death usually have their preference gratified. It is one of those things which go to show the mind's mysterious power. Who knows but it is this very desire for death, quick, painless, undeaded, which actually causes that happy kind of death? The mind, you know, has a power that we have only just begun to understand."

AN IDEAL A STANDARD .- "To prepare us for complete-living is the function which education has to discharge, and the only rational mode of judging of any educational course is to judge in what degree it discharges such a function. Herbert Spencer.

AN OPINION .- "What impressed the writer (in the Educational Review) was the admirable system that prevails in the management and in every department of work; that kindly personality and tact, the influence of which is so grateful to young people: the genial sympathy in the relations between teacher and pupil, and the interest which each one seemed to feel in the work of the day. AN EDUCA-TION UNDER SUCH CONDITIONS IS INDEED A GRAT ASSET."
