Catarrh

To prove unquestionably, and beyond any doubt, that Catarrh of the nose and throat can be cured, I am furnishing patients through druggists, small free Trial Boxes of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure. I do this because I am so certain, that Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure will bring actual substantial help. Nothing certainly, is so convincing as a physical test of any article of real, genuine merit. But that article must possess true merit, else the test will condemn, rather than advance it. Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure is a snow white, healing anti-pyptic balm, put up in beautiful nickel capped glass jars at 50c. Such soothing agents as Oil Eucalyptus, Thymol, Menthol, etc., are incorporated into a velvety cream like Petroleum, imported by Dr. Shoop from Europe. If Catarrh of the nose and throat has extended to the stomach, then by all means use internally, Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Stomach distress, a lack of general strength, bloating, belching, biliousness, bad taste, etc., surely call for Dr. Shoop's Restorative. For uncomplicated catarrh only of the nose and throat nothing else, however, need be used but Moribund Boston.

In ancient times, before the 1915 plan was so much as dreamed of, a man suffering from "New Yorkitis" was recommended to try Boston as a quiet resting place. Putting up at what was then the St. James Hotel, now the Franklin Square House, he asked for a rear room. Being troubled with insomnia, in the dead watches of the night he raised his blind, and was much depressed to find the outlook was on an old cemetery.

He left next morning, telling the cabman to take him to some nice family hotel. He was deposited at the Parker House on School street, where he asked this time for a front room, but was horrified to find his window commanding a view of King's Chapel graveyard. Making another attempt for more cheerful surroundings, he sent his baggage to the old Tremont House on Tremont street, that is now occupied by a business block. After spending the day down town he asked for a room that had no outside window. He could not be given exactly this but the puzzled clerk assigned him a quiet, side room, but which, alas, overlooked the old Grainery burying ground.

The New Yorker shook the dust of Boston off his feet, remarking he did not care to stay in a town so dead that they had a graveyard attached to every hotel.

The Right Way To Do It.

Justice of Peace Bassett was preparing to enjoy his dinner quietly recently at Newark, when a series of violent tugs at the bell sent him wrathfully to the door. He opened it with a sudden jerk. As it swung back he was crowded against the wall by a young couple who whispered in a chorus:

"Do you marry people?"
"Not unless they insist on it," was the reply.
"We insist!"
"Grab hands."
"We've grabbed!"
"Names please?"
"Lena Hart and George Keister."
"Do you, George. Do you, Lena, etc?"
"I do." "I do."
"You're one! I'm done!"
"Here's twenty!"
"That's plenty!"
"Good-by!"
"Good luck!"

The door swung open, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Keister jumped into an automobile and disappeared. Seven minutes before they were single.—Mexican Herald.

Harry Smith Page.

The sad death occurred on the 5th inst of Harry Smith Page, the only son of James and Mrs. Page, of Long Settlement.

The lad who was eleven and a half years old, had been operated on for tonsil trouble but had recovered. On July 1st he was taken with unusual pains and died of Acute Nephritis four days later.

He seemed to know that he was dying and spoke comfortingly to his parents and others.

The funeral took place on the 7th inst. Rev. Mr. Ayers conducted the service at the house and assisted at the church and grave. Rev. W. H. Johnson preached the sermon at Tracey Mills Church, where the deceased was buried.

Old Lady (to druggist): "I want a box of canine pills."
Druggist: "What's the matter with the dog?"

Old Lady (indignantly): "I want you to know, sir, that my husband is a gentleman." The druggist put up some opium pills in profound silence.—Young Pilgrim.

Work.

Let me do my work from day to day,
In field or forest, at the desk or loom,
In roaring market place or tranquil room;
Let me but find it in my heart to say,
When vagrant wishes beckon me astray,
"This is my work; my blessing, not my doom
This work can best be done in the right way."
Then shall I see it not too great nor small,
To suit my spirit, and to prove my powers;
Then shall I cheerful greet the laboring hours
And cheerful turn when the long shadows fall
At eventide, to play and love and rest,
Because I know for me my work is best.
—Henry Van Dyke.

London Fog.

A London fog brings out hundreds of thieves, but it also brings out men who are wanted by the police. A detective told a representative of the press about two curious instances of thieves being caught in this way:

We had been on the lookout for weeks for a swindler who had stolen bonds in his possession. The inspector who had the warrant declared the man must have got out of the country. But one densely foggy night the inspector happened to be in a quiet street not far from Bedford square, when a stranger against whom he nearly ran, said:

"Can you tell me precisely where I am? I've got mixed up somehow."

"Follow me and I'll show you," said the officer. And he did show him—to the police station, for the man was the very one he had been looking for.

In another case, a sergeant, in one of the thickest fogs ever known, politely helped a lady in distress near the Kensington road. The lady couldn't even recognize her own house among several all alike, and the sergeant, on her behalf, knocked at a door and was answered by a man.

The lady did not live there, but an hour or two afterward I arrested the man who had come to the door. He was a German baker, the head of a large inn, and we had been seeking him for months.

Walking as an Exercise.

When the average man reaches the age of 50 he just about becomes an expert in the line of polishing chair seats, and very few look upon the task of Edward Payson Weston, the aged pedestrian, except to remark that the old man is a crank and probably does not realize what he is doing.

But Weston is now 70 years of age, and he has crossed the continent in his walking tour, none the worse for the exercise, but on the other hand his health is much improved. He is hale and hearty, while other men much younger than he have become invalids on account of a lack of exercise. Physicians say that walking is one of the best exercises, if not the best that can be obtained. Almost every muscle in the body is put into play by a good brisk walk.

Taken in moderation any form of exercise is beneficial, but there is nothing better than walking in the fresh air. Every man who thinks he has not time to take a walk is mistaken and in the long run he will find that the exercise prolonged his life to a certain extent. No exercise causes the muscles to become flabby. On the other hand a long walk each Thursday, say, does no good. One must take the walk each morning being very beneficial. Once in the habit of walking in creased good health will soon be discovered and the pedestrian can hardly be induced to give up his recreation.

Tongue Twisting.

A London paper recently offered a series of prizes for the best "tongue twisting" sentences. The prize winning contributions are:

The bleak breeze blighted the bright broom blossoms.

Two toads totally tired tried to trot to Tedbury.

Strick, strong Stephen Stringer snared slyly six sickly silky snakes.

Susan shineth shoes and socks; socks and soles shines Susan. She ceaseth shining shoes and socks, for shoes and socks shock Susan.

A haddock, a haddock, a black spotted haddock; a black spot on the black back of a black spotted haddock.

Oliver Oglethrop ogled an owl and an oyster. Did Oliver Oglethrop ogle an owl and an oyster, where are the owl and the oyster Oliver Oglethrop ogled?

Senator Reed Smoot once spoke before a large crowd of Swedes. There was but little applause. He was followed by a man who spoke to them in their native tongue. The applause was deafening, and Smoot cheered as loudly as the best of them. Then, still clapping his hands. What did he say?" he asked.

"He was interpreting your speech to them," replied the chairman gravely.

"Hey, there!" yelled the conductor. "Why are you taking that ax and saw out of the case?"

"I want to open a window," replied the passenger.—Louisville Courier Journal.

Another "Sunshine" Feature

This is an entirely new idea, and will especially interest people who reside in natural gas districts. The gas ring takes the place of the lower Sunshine fire-pot, thus making it possible to burn gas in your furnace without inconvenience. Such is not possible in a furnace where the ordinary gas log is inserted; for, should the gas give out, a coal or wood fire could not be started until the gas pipes were disconnected.

The Gas Ring

To provide against sweating in the summer time, Sunshine Furnace is equipped with a nickelled steel radiator and dome. All bolts and rivets are nickelled, all rods copper-plated. This special treatment, besides meaning quicker and greater radiation from the radiator and dome than cold chill iron could possibly give, acts as protection for the bolts, rivets and rods from inroads of gas. When cast iron comes in contact with our nickelled steel it is coated with our special Anti-Rust treatment, which prevents the slightest possibility of rust commencing anywhere in Sunshine Furnace.
