

SIGN OF THE SEVEN DEVILS.

A distinguished doctor some time ago wrote to a professional friend saying: "I would rather see a patient with almost any other disease enter my consulting room, than one afflicted with the seven devils of Indigestion and Dyspepsia." That doctor knew exactly that indigestion is difficult to cure—that it poisons the blood, starves and weakens the body and nerves. But he didn't seem to know that Mother Seigel's Syrup has cured tens of thousands of cases of Indigestion. Simon Briand, Cape Augnet P.O., Richmond Co., N.S., wrote us on January 27th last, saying: "For over 3 years I suffered from Stomach troubles. The little food I ate gave no nourishment to my body. Three months ago, I tried Mother Seigel's Syrup and two bottles of it completely cured me." He adds that it also cured a number of his friends.—Price 60 cts. per bottle. A. J. White & Co., Ltd., Montreal.

When Some Genius Buds.

"That boy," said the second hand book dealer, nodding toward a freckled faced lad swishing a feather duster around promiscuously, "is a wonder in his way."
"Well, I don't care what he is in his way," responded a testy customer who frequented the shop, "according to the Chicago Inter Ocean, 'so long as he doesn't get in mine, which he does every time he can.'"
"I know, I know," sighed the dealer, but what am I to do? He is my only stepson and he's got to have a job. Yesterday I gave him a copy of 'Dr. Syntax' to put it where it belonged and did he do it? Oh, yes, he did it—nit. I found it today among the books marked "Medical."
The testy customer grunted with a sort of satisfaction.
"But that is nothing to what he did a month ago," the dealer went on. "One day he came to me with a copy of 'The Reign of Law' and asked me where he should put it. 'Don't you know where it should go?' said I, provoked that a boy of his size didn't know a novel by the feel of it. 'I wasn't sure,' said he, 'whether it ought to go under "Meteorological" or "Legal".' Now, what do you think of that! He ought to know enough to go in out of the rain, oughtn't he?"
The testy customer grunted again and chuckled.
"Let him alone," he said. "He'll be a fine lawyer one of these days."

Surgeon's Opinion OF KNIFE FOR PILES

Operating often a fad—The modern way of curing piles is with DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

Sir Henry C. Burdett, K. C. B., of London, Eng., in a recent address said: "What we want are surgeons, who with wisdom to be conservative have courage to protest against the growing tendency to put a knife into everybody on the smallest possible pretext."
Too many doctors have a desire to use the knife at every opportunity. The rewards to them are rich, but think of the suffering of body and mind, the enormous expense and the risk of life itself. An operation should be the last resort for in spite of glowing promises the results are often very disappointing.

Many a sufferer from piles has been cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, after operations have failed. Hundreds of thousands have escaped operations by using this treatment first and thereby obtaining cure.
Mr. Arthur Lepine, school teacher. Granite Hill, Muskoka, Ont., writes:—
"For two years I suffered from bleeding piles, and lost every day about half a cup of blood. I went to the Ottawa General Hospital to be operated on, and was under the influence of chloroform for one hour. For about two months I was better, but my old trouble returned, and again I lost much blood. One of my doctors told me I would have to undergo another operation, but I would not consent.
"My father, proprietor of the Richelieu Hotel, Ottawa, advised me to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and two boxes cured me. I did not lose any blood after beginning this treatment, and believe the cure is a permanent one. I gratefully recommended Dr. Chase's Ointment as the best treatment in the world for bleeding piles." 60 cts. a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The Vogue of Foulard.

Foulard is one of the regulation fabrics for summer wear, but it has not figured so prominently on the list for a couple of seasons as it does at present. The effectiveness of the new designs has brought about this revival of interest in foulard which lends itself with equal adaptability to the fashioning of a simple morning frock or an elaborate gown for the afternoon. The spots, squares diamonds of past days are again in evidence, but in a guise more attractive than ever before, the color combinations and patterns being really artistic. There are several grades of foulard and the supple, shimmery, soft fabric that represents the finest work of the manufacturer of to-day has little in common with the material known as foulard a few years ago. The vogue for chiffon finish shows the effect of its influence here as in other goods, and the 1909 weave merits the attention that it bestowed upon it. A touch of novelty is introduced by the deep border which is manipulated in such a way that it imparts the artistic note to the costume. A rose-colored foulard gown for the house is made up in a modified form of the "Movenage." The upper portion is in princess effect to about half way between the waist and the knees, where the lower part of the skirt, which is laid in plaits all the way round, is joined on. A front panel goes from the bust to the hem. A note of black is introduced in velvet piping on bodices and sleeves. Another effective little foulard frock, in cream color with ring of black, has the raised waist line, with plenty of fulness in the skirt, and the bodice is finished with "Dutch" or collarless neck.

Ozoning a City's Water Supply.

(The Scientific American.)
The water supplied to Nice (185,000 inhabitants) and several smaller French cities is now purified by ozone, in addition to filtration. The following method has been adopted by the city of Chartres (24,000 inhabitants.) The water is pumped from the river Eure into sedimentation basins which are contained in a building of ferro-concrete, with a double roof which keeps the water fairly cool in summer and prevents it from freezing in winter. The building has windows of yellow glass, yellow light being unfavorable to the development of bacteria. In these basins about 1,600,000 gallons of water are clarified in 24 hours. The water flows thence through coarse coke filters and fine sand filters to the ozonizing apparatus. The coke filter beds are cleaned, when they become choked, by exposing them to the air and washing away the oxidized impurities with a current of water. The sand filters are cleaned by powerful jets of compressed air and water, directed upward.

The ozonizing plant is constructed in duplicate so that one section is always ready for use. The water trickles down through four beds of pebbles which have an aggregate thickness of 14 feet and are supported by perforated floors in a tower, at the bottom of which ozonized air enters under pressure. The ozone generator is a cell of glass 6 feet long, 3 feet wide and 6 feet high. It contains five elements each composed of three cast iron plates. The middle plate is connected with a transformer which furnishes an alternating current of 20,000 volts; the outside plates are connected to earth. Between the iron plates are glass plates covered with tinfoil. Ozone is produced by the alternating electric discharges between the plates. The outer iron plates are perforated to allow the ozone to escape, and the middle plate is cooled by a current of water from a tank insulated by triple bells of porcelain. Air is forced into the generator under a pressure sufficient to carry it, laden with ozone, through the water tower. One grain of ozone is used for 8½ gallons of water. The primary circuit of the transformer is connected with an alternator which produces a monophasic current of 250 volts and 500 cycles. It is of interest to note that the price charged for water, about one cent for 44 gallons, has not been increased since the installation of the ozonizing plant.

Big Leper Colony.

(Worcester Telegram.)
Massachusetts has developed the largest leper colony in the United States since it established a colony for lepers on Penikese island, off the Atlantic coast, a few years ago. There are 11 lepers on the island and two waiting for places there. The doctor in charge expects that the number will be a good deal larger within ten years, and he has asked, with the assent of the state board of charities, that the plan of the island be changed from cottage habitations for lepers to one large building constructed to take care of all those who may come under the state control.
The six cottages built a few years ago are placed on the retired list, and the state is asked for at least $15,000 to put up a new building. It is claimed that the lepers can do much of the work, and that some of the material may be secured on the island, which has a large crop of stone always in sight.
Cape Cod appears to be the leper locality of Massachusetts. Five years ago there were no lepers in the commonwealth. Now there are 13, and most of them were discovered down the cape.

Tit For Tat.

An Irishman was sitting in a depot smoking when a woman came, and, sitting down beside him, remarked:
"Sir, if you were a gentleman you would not smoke here."
"Mum," he said, "if ye wuz a lady, ye'd sit farther away."
Pretty soon the woman burst out again:
"If you were my husband I'd give you a dose of poison."
"Well, mum," returned the Irishman, as he puffed away at his pipe, "if ye wuz me wife I'd take it."—Harper's Magazine.

Joys of the Permanent Camp.

(Recreation.)
When a man is back at work, and the wheels of the business machine are grinding busily and the telephone bell is buzzing most of the day—well, it's a good thing when the day's pressure lets up, to remember the camp, and the vacation—just a quiet, ordinary vacation he had there. It refreshes him to recall the mist and sunlight of the early morning on the river; the fragrance of balsams and spruces; the glimpse he caught, two or three times, of deer (they knew it was the closed season and they were safe); the great luck he had some days at trolling; yet, even the porcupines that roused him up occasionally at night; the camp fires in the evening and finally, how he held up a limited train with a pocket electric tube at the little flag station at the way out. All through the year he has pleasant memories to recall. He decides that that camp was the best investment he ever made.

Kinship.

The source of all pleasure and delight is the feeling of kinship. Even with the sense of beauty it is unquestionably our own species in the animal world, and then again our own race, that appears to us the fairest. So, too, in intercourse with others, every man shows a decided preference for those who resemble him, and a blockhead will find the society of another blockhead incomparably more pleasant than that of any number of great minds put together.—Schopenhauer.
