IT is sufficient for some people that they drink anything called tea. Others prefer a standard brand like "Salada," which has a reputation for being good. The latter get more enjoyment out of life. In buying tea for the satisfaction you expect to get from its use, it will pay to purchase "Salada." Avoid anything "just as good." Imitations are invariably of poor quality.

Hay--Johnston.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's uncle, Mr. Daniel E. Russel, of Richmond avenue, when Miss Mary Russell Johnston, of St. George, New Brunswick, was married to Mr. Arthur McKenzie Hay, of Belmont, Ont., the Reverend Robert Freeman, of the Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian church officiating. The house was decorated in pink and white, peonies and lilies being used on mantles and tables and similar draping the doorways and chandeliers. The bride, who was given in marriage by another uncle, Dr. H. L. Russell, wore a robe of baby Irish crochet. Her veil was fastened with lilies of the valley and her shower bouquet of lilies of the valley was in the new combination of gros-grain ribbon with tiny bunches of the blossom fastened to the wide ribbon. The bridegroom's brother, Mr. Carey Hay, of Los Angeles, Cal., was the best man and the bridesmaids were Miss Edith Russell and Miss Ruth Russell, cousins of the bride. Miss Edith Russell wore a white crepe de chine and Miss Ruth Russell was gowned in blue messaline, both carrying Killarney roses. The bride's twin cousins, Miss Anna Russell and Miss Jean Russell, wore pink gowns and carried baskets of white sweet peas and yellow marguerites. The dining room was in green and white, the center-table having ten covers for the bridal party and the other guests being seated at smaller tables. A large mound of bride roses and lilies of the valley were used on the bride's table. Mrs. E. G. Russell's gown was of gray embroidered silk, Mrs. David E. Russell wore old rose over pongee silk with lace and Mrs. H. L. Russell's costume was of brown chiffon over silk. Mrs. Samuel Johnston, of St. George, New Brunswick, mother of the bride wore black silk with jet trimming.—Buffalo Express Friday June 4th.
