Mahogany Furniture.

I am prepared to restore old pieces of Mahogany Furniture, no matter how badly broken up. These old pieces when repaired are quite valuable and far superior to anything of modern make. Being a Cabinet Maker and "French Polisher" of many years experience in the city of St. John, I think I understand my business. Also general repairing. Write to

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.
In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend Clang, clatter, bang! Down the street came the fire engines.

Driving along ahead, oblivious of any danger, was a farmer in a ramshackle old buggy. A police called at him: "Hi, there, look out! The fire department's coming."

Turning in by the curb the farmer watched the hose cart, salvage wagon and engine whizz past. Then he turned out into the street again and drove on. Barely had he started when the hook and ladder came along. The rear wheel of the big truck slewed into the farmer's buggy, smashing it to smithereens and sending the farmer sprawling into the gutter. The policeman ran to his assistance.

"Didn't I tell ye to keep out of the way?" he demanded crossly. "Didn't I tell ye the fire department was coming?"

"Wall, consarn ye," said the peeved farmer. "I did git outter the way for th' fire department. But what in tarnation was them drunken painters in sech an all-fired hurry fer."

Drive Rheumatism out of the blood with Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy and see how quickly pain will depart. Rub-ons never did reach the real disease. Rheumatism isn't in the skin. It's deep down—it's constitutional. Getting rid of the pain, is after all, what counts. That is why Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy goes, by word of mouth from one to another. And herein lies the popularity of this Remedy. It is winning defenders everywhere. Tablets or Liquid. Sold by all dealers.

A Near Anthem.

My country, beautiful land! I'll sing, if you will stand, a song to thee! My harp is rather coarse, my voice is somewhat hoarse, yet will I try to force some melody. Fair land that saw my birth, gem of the whole blamed earth, hark to my screeds! Tell me, O tell me why prices have soared so high that man can scarcely buy things that he needs. Things that a man must eat—lemons and prunes and meat—cost like Sam Hill; carpets and rugs and mats, neckties and shoes and hats, snirting to hide his slats, empty his till. All through the week I work, like an unlaundersed Turk, for a few bucks; no odds how hard I try, of wealth I'm always shy, and when I travel I ride on the trucks. They say that halt a plunk bought more and better junk, in the old days, than will two bones or more, in the big modern store, since prices learned to soar, five hundred ways. My country, hear my word! You are a humming bird, also a peach! Splendid in peace and war, thou most effulgent star—tell me why prices are clear out of reach—Walt Mason.

Pink Pain Tablets—Dr. Shoop's—stop Headache, womanly pains, any pain, anywhere, in 20 minutes sure. Formula on the 25c box. Ask your druggist or doctor about this formula—it's fine. All dealers.

A Philosopher's Fable

Arthur Aull is responsible for this one: "Folly, Genius and Common Sense once went walking and came to a stream. Genius, having his head in the clouds, naturally started to wade across, paying no attention to the depth. The waters soon went over his head, and he was drowned. Common Sense hunted for a safe way to get across, and finally he found a foot log. As he got out about the center of the stream the log swayed, and he fell into the water and sank to rise no more. Folly stopped at the bank of the stream to amuse himself by throwing pebbles into the water and watching the waves. He sat upon the moist, cold bank until he caught a cold which developed into pneumonia, of which he soon died. Moral.—It doesn't make much difference, after all, whether you are a genius, a sage or a fool. You'll get it sooner or later anyway."

Scientific Treatment.
(Punch.)

A lady afflicted with cross-eyes presented herself at a hospital and complained that her eyes were so much at cross purposes that when she wept the tears ran down her back. After a consultation, the chief surgeon operated, with gratifying success. When asked what procedure he had employed, he explained: "Oh, it wasn't so difficult! I just treated her for bacteria."

My Choice.
It ain't no use to grumble and complain;
It's just as cheap and easy to rejoice;
When God sorts out the weather and sends rain,
W'y rain's my choice.

In this existence, dry and wet
Will overtake the best of men—
Some little shift o' clouds'll shet
The sun off now and then;
They ain't no sense as I can see,
Immortals such as you and me,
A-faultin' Nature's wise intents,
And lockin' horns with Providence.

It ain't no use to grumble and complain;
It's just as cheap and easy to rejoice;
When God sorts out the weather and sends rain,
W'y rain's my choice—
—James Whitcomb Riley.

Their Happy Home.

BY BILL BLACK.

This sounds like a fish story from East Africa, but it is true. In a western poorhouse a man well stricken in years is spending the sunset of life. His father died, a few years ago, in the same establishment. The other day his son arrived to keep him company. Three generations in the poorhouse!

These men were all of superior intelligence; they might have sawed a great deal of wood in the world, had their ambition run in the direction of the woodpile. The grandfather built up a majestic thirst that could be seen for miles, and passed it along to his son, who nourished and cherished it, and kept the flies off it, until it landed him at the county farm, and then the grandson fell heir to it, and he was True to his Trust. The way he coddled that old thirst would have brought tears to your eyes. The grandson is being abused a good deal in the neighborhood, for he is a young man, and might be of some use; but most of the blame belongs to the grandfather, who established the family fad.

An inherited thirst is a bad handicap to any man. If you are building up a stately, towering thirst, passed along to future generations, may be putting people in jail, or in the poorhouse, or sending decent fellows to the bad, long after the county authorities have paid your funeral expenses. If you are establishing such a thirst, drop it, and do something useful. It would be better to contract a few painful but respectable diseases, and pass them along to the folks who are to come after you.

Avoid Sloppy Food.

Dr. Cole Newton, a London surgeon, says that square jaws and determined minds in men are no capricious gifts of nature, but simply the result of proper feeding and a consequently healthy set of teeth.

"If you wish your children to grow up men and women of determined jaw and strong character, teach them to use their teeth on tough, solid food, and to avoid slops," the doctor says.

Steady mastication permits the teeth to develop the jaw. When you have the jaw, the rest follows. It must be understood that the teeth must be looked to in the more or less early youth if they are to bring about anything in the nature of a square jaw and all the strength of mind it implies. In support of Dr. Newton's theory it may be remarked that ill fed boys who are taken off the London streets and sent to a training ship to prepare them for the navy usually emerge with a well developed jaw, a change that may very well have been brought about by the hard beef that constitutes the chief item of their bill of fare aboard.

Camera Keener Than the Eye

"Often the eye of the camera will decipher documents of which the writing had been substantially obliterated by age," says a writer in Van Norden's Magazine. I have successfully copied with the camera the utterly faded photograph of a classmate of forty years previous. Changes in the pigment of the skin, undiscovered by the eye, appear with distinctness on the sensitive plate, and it is said that ample warning of approaching disease has been thereby given. The camera takes pictures of subjects which cannot be made to appear on the ground glass, and of those which the eye of man has never seen. The human eye can penetrate space no further in an hour than in a single instant. Yet the eye of the camera will gaze into the sky for hours, looking deeper and seeing more with each second that passes. Through this attribute of the camera a great chart of the heavens is now being made. In this work distinguished astronomers and photographers throughout the world are co-operating. Yet not one in a hundred of the stars already plainly pictured by them was ever seen by the unaided eye of scientists."

A STANDARD.—"To prepare us for COMPLETE LIVING is the function which education has to discharge, and the only rational mode of judging of any educational course is to judge in what degree it discharges such a function." Herbert Spencer.

AN OPINION.—"What impressed the writer (in the Educational Review) was the admirable system that prevails in the management and in every department of work; that kindly personality and tact, the influence of which is so grateful to young people; the genial sympathy in the relations between teacher and pupil, and the interest which each one seemed to feel in the work of the day. AN EDUCATION UNDER SUCH CONDITIONS IS INDEED A GREAT ASSET."
