The Centreville Fair.

The Centreville fair which was held on the fair grounds on Wednesday last was a most successful affair. There was a large attendance from different sections of the county.

There were over 500 entries in the different classes and the exhibits in the main building were numerous and nicely arranged. The display of roots and vegetables was particularly good, and the fancy work, paintings etc., were as usual up to the standard.

The exhibit of horses, cattle and poultry, could not fail to give the visitor an idea of the interest taken by the farmers in that section of the county in this branch of the farming industry.

The newspaper men of Woodstock were taken to the fair by A. W. Hay in his motor car, and the trip was thoroughly enjoyed by them.

Clothes are only covering after all, but gracious what a difference the style of them makes! The modern man is fastidious and must be in the fashion. The style of his Coat is of even more importance than the material of which it is made. We are specialists in "styling," and present more ideas in dress to our patrons than any other tailoring establishment in town. And our suit creations are universally admired.

NICHOLSON,

Cor. King and Main Sts.

York-Davis.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season took place at Waterville on the sixth, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Davis, when their youngest daughter, Ella Blanche, became the wife of Mr. Rex Lemont York, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends.

Promptly at the hour of one, the wedding party descended the stairway to the lawn where they took their places beneath a beautiful floral ball of green and white. The impressive marriage service was read by the Rev. J. H. Copeland.

The wedding march from Mendelssohn was rendered by Miss Helen Bowser, of Victoria.

The bride's dress was most exquisite, being of white net over batiste silk and elaborately trimmed with insertion and Irish baby lace. Her bridal veil was of mechlin net and she carried a shower bouquet of roses and maiden-fair fern.

Little Miss Mildred Hannah, niece of the bride, was flower girl and looked sweet in a white dress made over blue and carried a beautiful arrangement of flowers.

Immediately after the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served. The decorations were very artistically arranged; the color scheme in the dining room being heliotrope and white and the parlor green and white. The collection of wedding gifts was equally remarkable for extent and value. It included a beautiful silver tea service from the bride's girl friends in Boston, two large oil paintings and many pieces of silver and cut glass from far and near. The groom's present to the bride was a cheque for $25.00, and to the little flower girl a pretty gold locket and chain. Mr. and Mrs. York accompanied by a number of friends drove to Hartland where they took the train for Montreal. They will also visit Quebec and other points of interest before returning.

The bride's going away gown was a handsome tailor made suit of canard blue broad cloth with hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. York has many friends who wish them every happiness.
