Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and paings of this deplorable disease.
In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend Stonewall's Bridge Builder.

"Stonewall Jackson," said a Virginia veteran, "used to tell a story about a bridge builder.
"This bridge builder was called old Miles. He was very necessary to Jackson because the flimsy bridges on the line of march were continually being swept away by the floods or destroyed by the enemy; and in these contingencies Miles was a regular jewel. He could run you up a bridge in the time it would take another man to make the measurements.
"One day the Union troops burned a bridge across the Shenandoah. Stonewall Jackson called old Miles to him and said:
"You must put all your men to work, Miles, and you must keep them at it all night, for I've got to have a bridge across this stream by morning. My engineer will draw up the plans for you."
"Well, early the next morning Jackson, very much worried, met old Miles.
"See here," he said, dubiously how about that bridge? Did the engineer give you the plan?"
"Old Miles took the cigar from his mouth and flicked the ash of with a sneer.
"General," he said, 'the bridge is done. I dunno whether the picture is or not.'"

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by All Dealers.

What the Editor Wanted.

The following instructions are sent to correspondents by the editor of an American paper:—

"Our country correspondents are requested to write briefly and to the point in preparing their accounts of quiet weddings; they may, however, consider themselves at perfect liberty to spread themselves in giving details of any uproarious weddings that may occur to break the monotony in their respective neighborhoods.
"We further wish them to remember that a groom attired in 'the conventional black' is sufficiently covered without any description of his dress but a groom married in tar and feathers is worthy of special rates and a full column with headlines. If the 'happy couple, then depart, they should be permitted to go without saying; but should they begin to pull hair before the minister has gone out of hearing we want all the particulars.
"If the table 'groans,' let it groan; but if any of the guests choke to death on the 'collation' it will be a serious matter with our special correspondent if we don't get complete and early returns. What we want is news that is news.

Pain can be easily and quickly stopped. Pink Pain Tablets—Dr. Shoop's—stop Headache, womanly pains, any pain, anywhere, in 20 minutes sure. Formula on the 25c. box. Ask your druggist or doctor about this formula—it's fine. Sold by All Dealers.

Edison's Storage Battery.

That great scientist Edison is still busy in his workshop thinking out many things which will have great value to the people generally. The most important matter now under consideration is that of the portable electrical storage battery. The problem is to make a battery light enough to be carried in a car and easily movable for recharging, and at the same time capable of storing enough electricity to move the vehicle on which the battery is carried for, say, a whole day. For a long time the inventor has been engaged in perfecting such a device for automobiles. The new battery is for use on street car systems, and will be put on trial shortly by Mr. Whitridge, the Federal Receiver of the Third Avenue Street Railway, New York. The statement of the inventor, explaining the new battery, says that the elements are the same as in the battery which he practically perfected years ago—namely, nickel with an alkali reaction, but with some improvements suggested by continued experimenting, until, he is now convinced, he has the battery needed. He is satisfied he can put a car in service that will run a whole day without recharging. He expressed the opinion that the use of the new battery would revolutionise surface car traffic. He predicts that street car lines will employ none but cars equipped with the new batteries when he has demonstrated their commercial value; the tracks will be without either overhead or underground wires, or rails for the transmission of current, and comparatively cheap stations only will be necessary where the storage batteries may be charged after they have exhausted their store of current.

In speaking of this battery, Edison referred to Canada and pointed out that this country has almost unlimited water power, and that electricity manufactured by this means will be the power of the future. He believes that steam railway locomotives are practically doomed, and that electric power will soon take their place.
If Edison is right, and there is reason to believe it, we are on the eve of a revolution in manufacturing and transportation that will place the Dominion in the very fore front of industrial nations.

Cost Versus Beauty.
The proud owner says "this is a high grade Canadian, and this is a pure bred Holstein." The admiring visitor to the cow stable remarks "what beautiful cows!" The thoughtful student asks "what yield of milk and fat do they give?" The practical man enquires "what does their milk cost?" And the hard business sense of the dairyman leads him to determine cost of production and of milk and fat through the medium of cow testing associations. The high grade may give but a poor weight of milk, the pure bred may test low, while the common grade may possibly be producing milk at the lowest cost. No one knows definitely just what the cost is until some record is kept: milk may cost 92 cents per 100 lb., 8 fat 25 cent's per lb, these cost prices may be up to $2.00 per 100 lbs. milk and 50 cents per pound of fat with some poor cows; or they be reduced by good economical feeders to 35 cents per 100, and 10 cents per lb.

This all goes to prove that the careful dairyman, and particularly the average and possibly careless farmer, should take immediate steps to find out what profit each cow brings in. Enormous improvement, and largely increased profits have been made by the men who are sufficiently alive to their own interests to weigh and sample each cow's milk regularly and keep a record of feed consumed. Blank forms for milk and feed records are supplied free on application to the Dairy Commissioner, Ottawa.
