

A Nervous Wreck Now in Robust Health.

Mrs. M. E. Harron, of Newton, Ont., writes: "I must say our son would have been in a consumptive's grave long ago had it not been for PSYCHINE. He was taken down with La Grippe and a severe cold. His whole system was weak, including his lungs, which were seriously affected, as is always the case after La Grippe."

"After taking several remedies and treatments we procured PSYCHINE, and tongue cannot tell the marvellous results brought about in two months. He gained over twenty pounds in weight, and strength and appetite returned."

Mr. Harron himself is most emphatic as to the beneficial result of using PSYCHINE. He declares, "To-day I am in splendid health and have never been sick a day since I took PSYCHINE."

PSYCHINE is the greatest tonic known to medical science. It builds up the system and tones up every organ of the body, enabling it to resist and throw off disease. Weak nerves cannot exist where PSYCHINE is used consistently. Send for a trial bottle and prove the truth of these statements.

PSYCHINE is sold by all druggists and dealers, 50 cents and $1.00 a bottle.

March.

Four singers bless this weary world,
And with their voices all bewitch.
Earth thrills when j. y. ou s. u. m. m. e. r. s. i. n. g. s.
Contraalto rich.

Another then takes up the strain
And, blending with the carol glad,
Fall sings a mournful melody—
A tenor sad.

Then Winter lifts his mighty voice
And, filling every lonely place,
Throughout the wood and vale resounds
His booming bass.

Before his echo dies away
Another joins with blues repete,
And rapturous breaks forth young Spring,
Soprano sweet.

In march we hear strange notes of each,
While in the air harsh discords ring;
And we can but surmise the choir
Is quarrelling.

How to Teach a Moral.

It is always well, whenever possible, to pick a moral lesson off the bushes around you and hand it to your neighbour. The receiver is enriched and the giver wins fame as a public benefactor. Therefore, it is well for you to read the following story:

As the flashily dressed young man came out of the club, puffing vigorously at a cigarette, he was met by a venerable looking old gentleman who thought it his duty to give the young dude a bit of indirect advice. He consequently asked the young man how many of those horrid injurious things (meaning cigarettes) he smoked each day.

"Oh, about three boxes," was the smoker's reply.

"And how much do they cost a box?" asked the old gentleman.

"Fifteen cents."

"That is forty-five cents a day?" he continued.

"Yes, sir."

"Let me see, now is over three dollars a week and more than a hundred and sixty dollars a year?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, my good young friend, did you ever stop to think that you would discontinue smoking and save your money until you are six y. e. a. r. s. o. l. d. y. o. u. c. o. u. l. d. o. w. n. t. h. a. t. f. i. n. e. r. o. w. o. f. a. p. a. r. t. m. e. n. t. h. o. u. s. e. s. o. v. e. r. t. h. e. r. e."

"No, I never thought of that," replied the young man, and turning to the old man he asked.

"Say, sir, do you smoke?"

"My gracious sakes, no!"

"Do you own those fine apartment houses?"

"No, I don't," responded the aged one.

"Well, sir, I do," and the young man walked away.

Fashion Fancies.

Flesh-colored slips are worn under the new transparent blouses.

The jumper frock is back again among the ready-to-wear models.

Much of the braiding now seen is in distinctly medieval pattern.

Some of the really handsome evening coats have linings of cretonne.

The suede glove, because it clings so closely, is having a great run.

Soft, pliable yedda braids will probably be used again for summer hats.

A useful and becoming gown for all occasions is of black meteor crepe.

Foulard silks promise to dominate among the fabrics of the early spring.

The line is everything in fashion now; the curve has not a single devotee.

The separate skirt and blouse are out of fashion except with a shirtwaist.

There is a well-defined effort under way to bring back pannier draperies.

Tosca nets, when embroidered in pastel colors, are rich for entire waists.

Great quantities of linen and cotton suitings are beginning to flood the counters.

Senators Shocked Hammerstein.

Oscar Hammerstein, the producer of operas, had a shock recently when he tried to discuss music with our American statesman. In the April DELINEATOR, he tells how he was misunderstood. He says:

I met a number of prominent people in Washington recently, a few of them occupying high governmental positions, I remember especially a talk I had with some United States senators; there were four of them in all, and at different times I talked with each of them about grand opera, only to find that not one had any knowledge or definite ideas about it. Not one had ever seen a representation, and I am not exaggerating when I say that as I talked about "Pelleas and Melisande" they all believed that I was referring to a new canal for which I was down there to get an appropriation. No, one of them thought they were two Bulgarian provinces in revolt!

REPEAT it:—"Shiloh's" Cure will always cure my coughs and colds."

A Certain Buyer.

The poet sat in the sanctum of the editor of "V. O. S." awaiting an audience with that august personage. At length the editor looked up.

"The poem I submitted last week—" said the poet.

The editor took the manuscript from a pigeonhole in his desk, and handed it to its author, saying: "I am very sorry, my dear sir, that your contribution is not exactly suited to the needs of 'V. O. S.' Its declination," he continued, unconsciously adopting the language of his rejection slip, "must not be understood as implying any lack of merit. In fact"—and here the editor again became the man—"while the poem is not available for our use, I know a man who would accept it. He wouldn't pay much, to be sure, but—"

"Anything will be acceptable," said the poet. Unfortunately my muse is dying of starvation, and needs bread. What is the name of the man?"

"I do not know his name," said the editor.

"All I know is that he comes here once a week to take away our waste-paper."

MOTHER

This happy mother, like thousands of others, believes in nothing so much as Mother Seigel's Syrup. The days when household work was a burden and the least exertion painful, when even her own children irritated her, are a long way behind. So are the headaches, the nasty taste, the heartburn, the dizziness and the constant feeling of fatigue. They vanished like a bad dream the day she first bought Mother Seigel's Syrup, and they will stay away as long as Mother Seigel's Syrup has a place in her cupboard. It is the standard remedy for indigestion and Liver Disorders, and the regular family medicine in thousands of Canadian homes. Good for mother. Good for father. Good for all the family!

TORTUREE BY RHEUMATISM?

Zam-Buk Will Give You Ease.

Just at this season when the cold dry winter is giving way to a milder yet more humid season, the germs of rheumatism, sciatica, and allied ailments come upon their victims with renewed force.

As soon as you feel any deep-seated pain in the joints, back, wrists, or elsewhere, place a liberal supply of Zam-Buk on the fingers or on the palm of the hand, and rub it well into the part affected. The penetrating power of this "embrocation-balm" is exceedingly great and once having reached the seat of the pain it removes it speedily. It also ends the stiffness which is so unpleasant.

Frequent rubbings of the afflicted parts with Zam-Buk will not only drive out all pain, reduce swelling, etc., but will strengthen the skin and tissues and enable them to resist cold and damp. The following case will show how Zam-Buk brings ease to those tortured by rheumatism.

Mr. P. G. Wells, of 338 Ozden Street, Fort William, Ont., says:—"Following my duties in attending to passenger trains I often get wet through with rain and steam (he later in winter). This with hours of duty in icehouses in summer was no doubt the cause of my contracting rheumatism in both knees, left arm, and shoulder. This got so bad that I could no longer work, and was laid off on three different occasions for several weeks, during which I was under the treatment of my doctor. I seemed to get little if any better, no matter what I tried, and this was my state when Zam-Buk was recommended to me. I laid in a supply, and to my great joy it began to cure me. I rubbed it well in every night, and when a few boxes had been used, found I was free again from the pain and stiffness of rheumatism. I have had no more trouble from the disease and unhesitatingly recommend Zam-Buk to all who suffer from rheumatism, muscular stiffness, etc."

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for eczema, ring-worm, ulcers, abscesses, piles, bad leg, suppurating wounds, cuts, burns, bruises, chapped hands, cold cracks, and all skin injuries and diseases. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. per box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price.

Dolly Wasn't Brave.
