NEWS FROM THE COUNTY.

Young's Cove Road.

The post office dept. have placed in position, the Rural mail boxes to those who signed for them, they add a very different appearance to the country and besides they will be a great convenience.

Mr C H Mott, our merchant was very ill for a few days with a severe cold and at the same time his wife was sick in bed, but we are glad to say, they are both recovering.

Your correspondent had a fine view of the comet last evening, its tail could be seen with the naked eye. Heavy fog clouds were running at the time, which made it more difficult to see the comet plainly.

H Earle Wiggins and his Bro Victor, while going to the Grand Lake to fish, found a white goose on the shore of their father's farm. It had not been used to being caught but it was captured and taken to the barn where it awaits an owner. It has been around the shore all Spring and it is strange where it could have come from.

Rev Marshall E Mott, returned to his home in Webster, Mass. on Monday.

Those who raise strawberries for the market, report that there is every appearance of a good crop this year.

The wood-boat "Harvest Home" Captain Slocum, which has been under repairs here in Wiggins's Cove, sailed for St John with a load of hoops and cord-wood.

The farmers in this section are making good progress with seeding, they have nearly finished planting potatoes, oats and corn.

Rev H H Watkins, of the parish of New castle, will exchange with, Rev Geo E Tobin on Sunday morning and there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion.

Chester.

"Halley's Comet" was seen by many on Saturday, at 10.30 p m. The tail, as well as the nucleus, was distinctly visible.

Owing to the heavy rains of last week, the water in the river has risen considerably.

One of the most severe thunder storms of the season, as yet, occurred Saturday afternoon.

The grass crop promises to be excellent. wheat, early oats and other grains are very thrifty.

Four, of the seven rafts owned by the Peel Lumber Company, which slipped their moorings on Salmon River, were secured here on Saturday morning and floated down to the company's mill.

Lettuce and radishes are being used from the hot-bed of "Sunny-side Farm."

Mr and Mrs Gideon Holmes spent a day here last week.

Miss Agnes M. White was a caller on "Cherry Hill" last Thursday.

Mrs George F Squires left on Monday for a month's visit in St John and at Carter's Point, King's Co. Mrs Squires is a delegate to the "Annual Convention of Ladies Auxiliaries", which convenes in St John, June 1st.

Drs. B R Field and F W White, Centreville, were in Chester last week on professional work.

Mr and Mrs H D Thompson and Miss Annie Wetmore, Florenceville, spent Victoria Day fishing in the White Marsh. Toward evening they drove up to Mrs Scott McCain's, where they were hospitably entertained to tea.

Jacksonville

An entertainment of a high order was held in the Village Hall on Monday, May 23rd. An essay on "Jacksonville" by Christina Tilley was well written and expressively read. The interesting accounts of past happenings and comparative experiences of past and present were very amusing and also very encouraging to this generation with its privileges and advantages. Robert Wilson of Hartford, gave a practical essay on King Edward and his good reign. Other exercises and recitations were well received and Rev's Johnson and Turner gave addresses suitable to the occasion. Misses Harmon and Helen Harper, the teachers of this school are to be commended for the patriotic spirit they are developing in their school and great interest they manifest in keeping the school grounds and building in fine order.

Robert Wilson, of Hartford, attended the Empire Day concert here where his son read a fine essay. Several others from Hartford were present.

Benj. Kilburn and son, Fred, of Kilburn, were guests of Miss Bessie Harper this week. Miss Velma Tilley was guest of her parents recently. Miss Tilley and her sister, Miss Hazel spent Sunday with Mrs Jewett, Bloomfield.

Mrs Mary Burt celebrated her ninetieth birthday on May 25th. Remembrances came from far and near and many called to congratulate the aged lady upon her health and vigor at such an advanced age.

It was a great pleasure to the many friends of Mrs Mary Burt to be able to congratulate her on Wednesday last upon the attainment of 90 years of age. Mrs Burt is bright and comparatively well with good eyesight and perfect hearing. She was the recipient of nearly 100 cards from relatives in many parts of Canada and the United States.

Mrs Burt was Mary Jones of Keswick and was married to Benjamin Burt when quite young. Their large family of eight were a great help to them and now in her declining years Mrs Burt makes her home under the same roof with her son Fraser, still maintaining, however, her own apartments and caring for herself in every way. Her husband passed away nearly seven years ago.

The aged lady exhibits wonderful vigor and energy and is highly respected in this community where he has lived so many years. All her family are living but two and she has numerous grand children and is a great grandmother. Her faithful christian life has borne fruit in the lives of her children whom she says with joy "all belong to Christ"

Florenceville.

At Lower Greenfield Presbyterian church, on the evening of the 25th inst, the Ordination and Induction of Rev M H Manuel, took place. Rev. F. W. Murray presided, asked the minister elect the questions of the formula, offered the ordination prayer, inducted Mr Manuel into the charge the rights and privileges of the congregation. Isa 6-1 was read and prayer offered by Rev D Fiske. Rev G C Pringle delivered the address to the minister. His theme was "I love the Lord." He enjoined upon Mr Manuel "love your work." There was a freshness, a thoughtfulness, a breadth, a sagacity, a vion of humour, a warmth of spirituality that gripped. The Bible was not only the sacred Book, in the charm and variety of surrounding nature, and in the beautiful sky above was the Bible. In God's works he had revealed Himself, allied with His revelation in the Book.

Mr Pringle had been disappointed that there had not been a more brilliant display by the Comet in response to the eager anticipation for such would have been a very wholesome influence for the young men in the line of reverence for the Creator.

There needed to be discrimination and fair distribution of ministry in pastoral visitation. One's horse would show where one was visiting too often. There was fairness about the judgment of one's parishoners as to pastoral attention. Evangelistic workers were apt to attach undue importance to the getting of people to secure religion, working all at the one end. It was of great importance to help people hold the religion they already had.

People talked of companionship with God. It was preferable to keep company with the thought of God. The inscrutability of God was one of His greatest commendations. The largeness and complexity of God's plans were beyond the ken of the finite mind of the minister. It was for him to learn from the mason who was found busy chiselling a stone, a prominent man addressed him "still chiselling?" "Still chiselling was the condensed reply. Wishing to continue the conversation, the visitor asked, "to what part of the building does that stone belong?" "I don't know, I've not seen the places," was the laconic answer. So it is for the minister to keep on working even though he may not know where his work will fit in.

Rev G D Ireland, Moderator of Presbytery gave the address to the people. There was a dignity, precision, deliberation, wisdom and tact distinctly noticeable in his message. The people of Greenfield were worthy of the good fortune that had come to them. Mr Manuel carried his credentials in his face. Brief acquaintances with him revealed his worthiness. He had just arrived from College where the latest findings in theology and approved methods were discussed. It would be the part of wisdom for the people to give him a free hand. It had been but recently that Mr. Manuel's immediate predecessor, Rev J H A Anderson had gone. Any shortcomings or mistakes he may have manifested were forgotten. His excellencies were remembered. It was natural to make comparisons. Don't do it. Comparisons were always odious. Natural to wish to go on in the old way. Rather leave the new minister free to introduce whatever methods might to him seem advisable, and his people heartily enter in enthusiastic co-operation with him. Mr Ireland referred to the work and place of the choir. Greenfield's choir furnished good music, there was much of drudgery in the work of a choir. It's workers needed more appreciation than it received. The prayer-meeting came in for its recognition. When the people got to think of the minister as a paid worker, the one man who was to do the preaching, the visiting, etc. and the prayer-meeting was a something that devolved upon him another sermon, then congregational religion lost its vitality. There needed to be a rallying round the minister in support and promotion of a live prayer-meeting those who were out in contact with the varied interests and problems and were able to speak there-after.

As to finances systematic giving was strongly enjoined. Not simply by monthly givings, but weekly. The duplex envelope was commended, with its one pouch for giving for current expenses and its other for giving for the other enterprises of the church. In his capacity as Convener of the Augmentation Committee he purposed visiting the congregation at an early date. Relative to this matter of giving, the people of Greenfield had done well. He, however, had an idea they could do better.

At the close of the service, Jas McCain and Rev D Fiske were asked by Rev M Murray to conduct the newly ordained minister to the door of the church there to be introduced to his people. Mr Manuel's father from Hawkshaw, had the happy privilege of being present to witness the proceedings of his son's entering upon the duties, responsibilities and joys of his pastorate. After the close of the meeting, a business meeting was held. The weather was un-favorable, rain had abundantly fallen during the afternoon. Nevertheless, the congregation was large. There were enthusiasm, joy and expectation. Mr Manuel enters upon his work with bright promise.
