The Culture Booster.

"Now that you have taken up your residence in our beautiful suburb, my dear Mrs. Newcomb," said the lady caller, "you ought to join our literary society."
 "Do you think so?" queried the other.
 "Yes, indeed. It's just too awfully interesting for anything. At our last meeting we took up Carlyle's quarrels with his wife."
 "It must have been very entertaining."
 "Sure. At our next meeting we are going to investigate the private life of Goethe and his love affairs."
 "Indeed."
 "Yes; and we have found out all about Poe's dissipation and disreputable conduct, and by and by we are going to thoroughly investigate the immoral doings of Voltaire."
 "Are you?"
 "That's what. Oh, there's nothing like a literary society to boost one's culture! You really ought to join."—Chicago News.

Bull and Bulls.

T. P. O'Connor, the witty Irish parliamentarian, discussed at a dinner in New York the bull.
 "The bull," said he, "isn't confined to Ireland. It was an Englishman, you know, an English judge, who, being told by a tramp that he was unmarried, replied: 'Well, that's a good thing for your wife.'
 "And it was a French soldier who, sleeping in his tent, with a stone jar for a pillow, repined, on being asked if the jar wasn't hard, 'O, no; I've stuffed it, you see, with hay.'
 "And it was an American politician here in New York who cried the other night from the tailboard of a dray: 'If we remain silent the people will not hear our heart-rending cries!'"

Address and Presentation at Debec N. B.

A goodly number of the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dickinson gathered at their home last Friday evening, May 6th, and spent a few hours with them before their departure for St. John where they will reside.

About 9.30 p. m. the company was called to order and the following address read by Rev. E. Ramsay:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson.—It is with profound regret that your many friends of Debec learn of your approaching departure from our midst. Although the event has been anticipated yet as the hour approaches it is with sorrow that we view the severance of the ties which bind us together. We cannot permit you to depart without expressing our hearty appreciation both of your present worth and valuable services you have rendered to the branches of our church life and work. Permit us to say that during the many years you have been associated with the Richmond congregations we have found in you earnest and diligent workers in every place where help was most needed, ever ready to assist in a good cause and foremost in every good work.

At the regular services in the Sanctuary your pew has been seldom vacant. In the social service your voices have been heard with rare constancy in praise and prayer. In the Sabbath school your faithful and untiring labor through a goodly number of years in behalf of the young will linger in their memories and produce fruit in their lives, while your generous support of all church interests at home and abroad will be an example for others. Specially shall we hold in loving remembrance the noble service rendered by Mrs. Dickinson in behalf of the Women's Missionary Society and choir of our church.

On the eve of your departure we ask you to accept this small token of our heartfelt appreciation of the services rendered in our midst and the esteem in which you are held. We assure you of our earnest prayers for the happiness and prosperity of yourself and family. You will be much missed in the places you have filled with such zeal and fidelity and we shall be sensible of our loss, but our loss will be a gain to others.

We trust God's blessing may rest upon you abundantly in the community in which your lot may be cast and that you may enjoy health and strength for many years to labor in the Master's service.

Sleepless?

Nerves Are Racked
Vitality is Lowered

Opiates, Sedatives, Narcotics, Worse Than Useless. Produce No Permanent Good.

Healthy, natural sleep can't be produced by drugs.

First, the blood circulation must be improved. Congestion of blood in the head must be removed. Irritation in the brain must be relieved.

It's because Ferrozone equalizes circulation, because it soothes the irritation, because it removes congestion, that it does cure insomnia.

For building blood and nerve, for instilling force and life into over-worked organs, for establishing strength and vitality, where can you find anything so sure as Ferrozone?

Remember, sleep is just as important as food. You must sleep, or break down.

You can if you'll use Ferrozone and thereby remove the conditions which now keep you from sleep.

Ferrozone is not a narcotic, not a dope; it is a health-giving tonic that any child or delicate woman can use.

Absolutely safe is Ferrozone. Take it for a month, take it for a year—no harm, but immeasurable good will result.

To sleep well, look well, feel well, to be free from depression, nervousness, or blues—use Ferrozone. It's a food tonic, a healer to the weak and wretched, a boon to the sleepless. Sold everywhere in 50c boxes, six for $2.50, by mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

Mr. Dickinson was presented with a gold-headed cane, and Mrs. Dickinson with a brooch with diamond setting.

Mrs. Dickinson in a few words thanked the friends for their kind remembrance.

Mr. Dickinson spoke of how much he appreciated this surprise, the memory of which would remain with him as long as he had memory. And not only this but very many kind acts of the people when he was laid aside, and he had found them friends indeed.

Discharged for Entering a Store.

A business man tells me that he saw one of his employees come out of a certain store and when he reached his office he promptly discharged him. Have you business men any doubt what the store was? It was probably a book store, and he feared his clerk was becoming too intelligent; or it was a restaurant and he feared the young man was getting too much to eat; or it was a furnishing store, and he was about to wear clothes too good for him. If we were half-witted, we might miss the kind of store out from which he came. There is one kind of store which you will not allow your trusted employee to frequent and that is the liquor store, the saloon.

A railroad company was much disturbed about the habits of its employees. It held no brief for their morals, and had no foolish notions about its right to restrict their personal liberty, but, felt that certain habits made them inefficient, that they were not likely to be reliable if they went to certain places. The company did not say that they might get a limited number of times each day, with that beautiful spirit of true temperance which some men urge, did not trust the men who kept these stores to watch that these men kept truly temperate. That would have been a sweet thing to say and also idiotic. It said to them: "You enter those places, or use their products, and you will be summarily dismissed from the service." Now, it is significant that the forbidden places were not bookstores, nor grocery stores, nor restaurants, nor library buildings, but saloons, and any places where liquor is sold. You may claim the right to be a user of liquor yourself, but you will not willingly ride in a train behind an engine whose cab is occupied by a man to whom the saloon is an institution of common personal experience. You may be willing to live next a grocery store, but you neither live nor raise your children any nearer a saloon than you have to be.

Sixty Passengers Quarantined.

North Bay, Ont.; May 16—A special train with about 600 passengers from the steamship Empress of Ireland, bound for the west; arrived here Saturday afternoon; Two cars for Minneapolis were taken off and while being coupled on the Soo: express Sunday morning two cases of diphtheria were found in one of the cars—a girl of twenty-two and her baby sister three years of age. The cars contained over sixty passengers and it was immediately side-tracked. After waiting all day cooped up in a stuffy car with diphtheria as a grim companion, the patients were removed to a building near the stock yards, while the rest of the passengers were placed under quarantine in the car. It is reported that the mother of the two patients and another sister were detained in Quebec on account of illness. The passengers in the car are Sweds.

The Fly Menace

A formidable list of diseases constitutes the menace of the household fly.

Every fly killed now may mean 1,728,000 fewer flies in June, and the following list of diseases which the fly is instrumental in spreading should make readers quick to act on the hint.

Flies, according to an eminent public health expert, are responsible for enteric fever, consumption, cholera, diphtheria.

A recent experiment has shown that a bowl of milk exposed to flies for twenty-four hours contained 700,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter, as against 70,000 bacteria found in protected milk. That gives some idea of the menace of the fly.

A number of flies known to have been externally infected with the typhoid bacilli were, after being sterilized, found to contain more living bacilli in their systems. This proves, of course, that flies carry the germs of disease internally as well as externally.

Examined under the microscope, one small fly was found to contain on its body 1,522,570 different bacteria; and, after serving as a bath for another fly, previously pure water was found to contain no fewer than 5,000,000 germs.

SETTLEMENT OF CLAIMS IN SIGHT

Washington, May 14.—A treaty for the settlement of claims between Great Britain and the United States, some dating back to 1776, has been approved by Secretary of State Knox, and will be put up to the Senate for ratification. After that it will go to the British Foreign office. The treaty provides for four arbiters and an umpire.

A postage stamp with a Philatelic value of $500 has been received by the Postmaster General from the International Postal Union headquarters at Berne, Switzerland. The stamp bears the profile of the late King Edward VII. It was issued for the Straits Settlement and has the highest face value of any postage stamp ever issued. It is beautifully printed in two colors, light orange and lilac. The stamp has been turned over to Stanley I. Slack, curator of the Postal Museum, to be placed on exhibition.

The province of New Brunswick received last year $1,750 from fees paid by Chinese for the privilege of migrating to this country. The price collected by the federal government is $500 per head, and the money is equally divided between the province and the Dominion. It would, therefore, appear that New Brunswick shared the head money of seven Chinese settlers. Nova Scotia got only $250, Alberta the same. Ontario $1,500, Quebec, share was $22,500. But British Columbia is the province which finds the Chinese import tax a substantial source of revenue. No less than $356,000 was paid to the Pacific province on this account.
