Base-Ball

The Fredericton Tartars, lately re-organized played two games of ball with our own collection of Base-ball fiends here on Friday last, and had little difficulty in losing both games failing in either court publicity by decorating the run column.

Brogan in the afternoon game heaved for the Tartars and though he battled hard at intervals tightened up when our demon athletes loomed upon the corners, and no less than nine, hark ye, gentle readers, nine Woodstock pathmen pished ignominiously on the cushions. It will be seen from this that this Hon Brogan is some sort of a man when it comes to obliterating ambitious athletes on the road to fame. Had the aforesaid Bro been accorded the whole souled support granted by our above named demon athletes to Hon Peasley, our long, lank, port side flinger by his own fellow sufferers, the combat would not have assumed such large dimensions, in other words the Woodstock run column would have been depleted by some two score.

Mr Peasley, the honorable gentleman, mentored at great expense in all the leading sheets of our fair country, heaved for the locals, opposing the aforesaid Hon Brogan, as a slab artist. He had the would be victors from our fair capital at his mercy at all stages of the matinee and allowed but one gent to secure a safe wallop.

Hughes, our gifted Irish second baser was seen in both games, making a series of catches, assists and double plays worthy of Evers, Lajoie or other major leaguers, and though laboring under the painful handicap of a spiked toe, grabbed everything that was lying loose, tpoing over the diamond with the agility and gracefulness of a dancing master.

Following is a detailed account of the combat.

EVENING GAME

Neptune, the unassuming but talented ballplayer brought here at great expense by the highly intellectual management heaved a classy game of ball in the evening. He permitted but four scattered hits and not a Tartar got as far as the third pillow. His crow aforementioned in recent issues at great length sat upon a sprig cut from the bough of a butternut bush, by the Woodstock bench, and was ably and scientifically cared for by that arm of the law, Chief Kelly, throughout the performance.

Tom Boone essayed to hurl for the visitors and our talented athletes at once proceeded to assassinate him, for no less than eleven safe bows, six of which were good for extra cushions, were collected from his offering, in addition to this he gave four free tickets to bag, no 1, and when the sun slowly dipped its rim behind the western hills and the shadows deepened into shade, the scorer proclaimed those awful figures 11—0. Such a holocaust without precedent since Moses shut out the Egyptians at the Red Sea.

REBUILDING AT CAMPBELLTON HAS ALREADY BEEN BEGUN.

Campbellton, N. B., Aug. 1.—Work on the building of the new post office was commenced this morning.

The plans for the rebuilding of the I. C. R works have also been received in town. They show that extensive improvements are to be made.

That the outside world is gradually being aroused to the seriousness of Campbellton's situation was evident by the increased number of subscriptions received here on Saturday more than $3 000 being added to the relief fund. A pleasing feature in connection with it was the fact that the larger part of it came from upper Canadian cities which up to a few days ago sent in little or no assistance. Fredericton Daily Mail

RESULTS TO BE PUBLISHED.

The marks made by the candidates who wrote the University Matriculation Examination and the Teachers' License Examinations are now ready at the Education Office. They will be made public when the Chief Superintendent of Education returns to the city. He is expected today or tomorrow. It is understood that students from the Fredericton High School have done remarkably well in the matriculation examination. Miss Mildred Wallace, daughter of Mr R B Wallace is said to have led the province.—Fredericton Daily Mail.

MRS MOSES HALL.

The death occurred Monday, Aug 1st, at her residence on Brunswick street of Mrs Hall, merchant, of this city and St John. She had spent the winter in Florida and returned only on the 20th of July. About a week ago she suffered an attack of pneumonia to which she succumbed on Monday. The late Mrs Hall, who was upwards of 65 years old, was a native of South Carolina, where one sister who survives, resides. The remains will be taken to St John on Wednesday morning for interment with the remains of her late husband. On Monday, C W Hall merchant, of this city, a nephew of deceased will go to St John to complete funeral arrangements.—Fredericton Gleaner.

RHODES SCHOLARS

Fredericton, N. B. Aug 2nd—Chancellor Jones, of the University of New Brunswick has been notified by Dr George B Parkin, commissioner for the Rhodes scholarships, that the U N B is to choose the next Rhodes scholar from New Brunswick. Dr Parkin has also asked that the selection be made previous to January 1st, as an early selection will insure a position for the successful candidate in one of the best colleges at Oxford University.

The University will open September 29th and announcement will be made at an early date as to the time when applications for selection of the Rhodes scholar must be made.

The University of New Brunswick has already selected three Rhodes scholars, Chester Martin, Ralph Freezes and Ralph Sherman, and Dr Parkin in his letter to Chancellor Jones, referred to the success with which Mr Sherman was meeting at Oxford. Dr Jones says that everything points to a large attendance at the U N B next year.

Bright and Beautiful

Was the Brief Life of Little John Darkis

The funeral of John Joslin, the son of Mr and Mrs H A Darkis, took place at the home Thursday afternoon and was the largest ever held in that part of the town.

His class in the public schools in which he was a remarkably faithful pupil, never missing a day the past year, attended almost in full. The coffin was almost buried in flowers. Among the offerings were a cross from the little boy's own sisters; a wreath bearing the word "Classmate," from his class; wreath from Mrs Edmund Burke; beautiful flowers from Mrs Miles Everett, Mrs Geo Fisher, Capt Poole, and many neighbors and children too numerous to mention.

The little fellow's last bed was a pretty white easel, and he lay there lifelike and apparently calm and happy, as he doubtless was, but seemingly unaware of the depth of grief around him.

Rev W A Richmond of the Congregational church officiated, saying tender and comforting words. The choir was Mrs F M Whitehouse, Miss Blanche Hall, E M Weller and C S Orborne. Mr Weller at the organ. The hymns sung were; "There's a Home for Little children," "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" and "Thy Will be Done." The pall was borne by six little schoolmates—John and Chester Johnston, Eldie Tapley, Leo Fisher, Frank Segee, and Asa Gallupe. The procession contained 40 to 50 teams. Burial was made in Riverside Cemetery, the cruel rife, which had so suddenly cut the cord of life, finding a resting-place with its innocent victim.

The little boy so quickly snatched away was born in Fort Fairfield, February, 20th, 1899. He was the eldest son of the family, warm-hearted, generous to a fault, the idol of his grown up sisters and of his parents, particularly his mother. She understood him, he understood her, the bond of love between having a strength, exceeded only by its beauty. Few boys are so loved by all who know them. Industrious, careful, truthful, unselfish and affectionate, he had the foundation for real friendship. He had been known to take off his coat on a cold day put it on a poor ragged little boy suffering from the cold, and come home himself coatless. He many, many times took with him to school double the dinner he wanted, on purpose to be able to give some to a hungry and ill fed little boy playmate, and had even been known to give the whole dinner away, going without any himself. Such little things are mentioned as an index to his general character.

A home almost ideally happy was his before that fatal shot turned all to blackness and mourning. The last words between him and his mother before starting on his last walk were those of perfect sympathy and love. Could a boy leave behind a memory more fresh and beautiful? God apparently needs such many and noble little souls in Heaven, but lovingly leaves their memory behind with those who mourn.—Fort Fairfield Review.

Married in St John

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Herbert A Reynolds, St John, when his youngest daughter, Eva G, was married to Wm L Kennelly of Debec Jet, Car Co.

The ceremony was performed by Rev H D Mar in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom. The bride was given away by her father and wore a beautiful dress of white mull with lace trimmings. The presents were numerous. Among which was a handsome piece of cut glass from the teachers and officers of the Portland Methodist Sunday School of which the bride was a teacher. After refreshments were served to the guests, the happy couple left on the evening express for a trip to Boston and other American cities.

THOMAS DENT

The death of Thomas Dent, a well known and much respected resident of this town, occurred Wednesday afternoon at the residence of his daughter in law Mrs Nevers. Mr Dent had been in poor health for some time and Tuesday afternoon his illness took a turn for the worse resulting in his death as above. Mr Dent who was in the 70th year of his age came to this country from England 44 years ago and has made his home in Woodstock since that time.

He leaves one son, Alfred, in Gardener, Me. and three daughters, Mrs Shultz, of Tomahawk, Mrs Rober son, of Brocton, and Mrs Bulmer of this town.

The funeral took place from his late residence on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mrs W B Wiggins, of Moncton arrived in town on Friday last and is the guest of Dr. J. E. and Mrs. Jewett.
