Lemon Flavoring Extract

I have the honor to present herewith a report upon (75) samples, purchased throughout Canada in December last, as Lemon Flavoring Extract.

Lemon Extract is probably more largely used in the household than any other kindred preparation for the flavouring of pastry &c. It is, of course, valued proportionately to its strength as a flavoring material, and to the quality of the flavour which gives it its name. No legalized standard for Lemon Extracts exists in Canada; and in view of the large consumption of the article, it is of importance that it should be defined and legally recognized.

The results now placed in your hands, together with those published in Bulletin No. 114, will suffice to show the character of Lemon Extract as sold in Canada.

The United States standard for Lemon Extracts is as follows:—"Lemon Extract is the flavouring extract prepared from oil of Lemon, or from lemon peel, or both, and contains not less than five (5) per cent by volume of oil of lemon."

Of the 75 samples covered by the present report, only 13 contain above 1 per cent of lemon oil.

62 samples contain less than 1 per cent of lemon oil and 60 samples contain less than 0.5 per cent lemon oil.

Below is a tabulated report the extracts being arranged in order of their lemon oil content.

This should be of interest to every user of Flavoring Extracts.

Improvement Association.

An interesting discussion on Woodstock's needs—More public spirit wanted—Burn all refuse—Crude Sewage in the river a menace to public health.

A number of men and a few women met last Monday afternoon in the Town Hall and discussed ways and means of organizing a local branch of the Improvement Association. After a general discussion on local conditions it was decided to proceed with organizing. A committee was appointed to nominate officers, to draft a set of by-laws and report at a meeting to be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the same place. Keen interest was shown in the project, and each speaker was followed with close attention. At the outset, it was said by several speakers, that Woodstock was unhappily lacking in a Town-Spirit. Compared with other places, the people of this community were lamentably indifferent to town affairs and unwilling to accept any part of public responsibilities. One speaker was afraid that grumbling and condemning everything in general about town was too much of a prevailing temper. While other places were talking up bigger and better cities, it would be timely for the town-folk to get into harmony with that progressive spirit. Why shouldn't Woodstock have a portion of the coming prosperity? Nature has dealt generously with this locality, let art develop and perfect the natural beauties of this portion of the Valley. It was desirable all agree, that we should become public spirited. It was said whatever created enthusiasm would help. Last year a baseball league was organized and that helped. A brass band is maintained and that too helped. If this Association only planted trees that would help. But there is much more to be done, requiring painstaking effort and self-sacrifice. If only a few would go ahead and do something the people would cheerfully follow in a good work. It is only necessary to have faith in the possibilities of our citizens, and presently the bigger and better Woodstock will become a reality. There were many possible improvements suggested. Chief among these was the proposed solution of dump heaps on the River banks. These were unsightly and unquestionably a source of disease. Something would have to be done with the town's refuse. It had been suggested in a local paper that tin cans should be attached to telegraph poles and what accumulated round public buildings and on the streets could be placed in these and subsequently carted away. Telegraph poles were unsightly enough already without tin cans attached to them. It was suggested that the Council should purchase an incinerator, as was done at camp In Sussex and have the Town-team remove all refuse from public places and burn it there. That should commend itself to the proper authorities, as being an inexpensive and sanitary method of dealing with the problem.

Gutters and crossings came in for discussion. In the past, many gutters were left till late in summer, before the accumulations of the previous fall were removed, and street crossings have never been clean in wet weather. For the last few weeks they have been shamefully neglected.

It was said that at crossings, instead of their being an elevation, there was actually a hollow into which the mud gathered deeper and dirtier than elsewhere on the streets. These should be built up this year. There is a town official paid to clean these places as often as necessary and that this association should call attention of the chairman of the streets to a constant neglect of his duty.

Attention was also directed to the emptying of crude sewage into a point of the town, from which in summer it was carried far above the head of the Island dangerously near the intake of water supply. It was suggested that very little dredging at the lower part of the Island would carry the sewage down on this side of the new park.

Woodstock Building Badly Damaged

A fire occurred in the old Grant Carriage Company's building at 12.30 on Thursday last. There was a high wind blowing and the fire got a good start, but the prompt arrival of the fire men was the means of preventing what might have been a serious conflagration. The building was occupied by R. S. Ogden, carriage painter, and Chesley Estey, carriage builder and blacksmith. The building and contents were badly damaged.

Electric vs Chinese Laundry

The DISPATCH has just received from an esteemed subscriber a letter vigorously condemning the article which appeared in last week's Sentinel on "The Electric vs. the Chinese Laundry." We refrain from continuing a controversy, that, in a manner, resembles washing soiled linen in public. The DISPATCH agrees with our correspondent when he says that the charges against the Laundry men on Queen st. are, from first to last, unwarranted. moreover we are heartily glad to give publicity to what he says concerning the Chinamen, viz "that they are British Subjects and well behaved, honest and industrious and that they neither smoke, drink nor chew tobacco and they do not use opium in any form whatever," and for the rest, we do not think the article in question will injure the trade of our neighbors in the slightest degree.
