

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES.

Kidney Diseases Cause Half the Common Aches and Pains of Woodstock People.

As one weak link weakens a chain, so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking-down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric poison circulated in the blood.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Booth's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ill. Woodstock cures are the proof.

H. V. Moores of Chapel St., Woodstock, N. B., says:

"For over three years our little son, Douglas, who is now in his tenth year has suffered with a most annoying and distressing weakness of the kidneys and bladder, and although we have tried every means and manner we could not find a cure or even relief for him. He would have no control whatever over the muscles of the bladder and bed-wetting became more and more constant until he would unconsciously wet the bed each night. This not only caused an abundance of work and worry but as well the child became so weak and pallid we had despaired of his ever getting strong and well again. Booth's Kidney Pills were recommended by our druggist, Mr. Mair, and we treated him with them. One fifty cent box of Booth's Kidney Pills brought about a complete and lasting cure. The sallow color has left his face, his appetite is good, has gained in weight and is well and strong again. I am glad to recommend such a reliable and worthy remedy as Booth's Kidney Pills." Charles Hughson

Bloomfield, N. B., Oct 18.—The news of the sudden death on the 7th inst. of Charles I. Hughson, of Baltimore, Md., in his 69th year, came as a great shock to his relatives and friends in this county of which he was a native.

He had been in his usual good health up to the day of his death when, not feeling very well, he left off work earlier than usual, but died in a car on his way home. His wife and three children all died before him, but two brothers and one sister survive—James, of Bloomfield; William, of Boston and Mrs W. S. Masters, of Hampton.

Deceased was born in the parish of Springfield, where three of his cousins still live, James Picple, Mrs Isaiah Keirstead and Mrs Wm Burnet, but he left the province in 1866, just after the close of the war, and has been a resident of Baltimore ever since.

The excellent results obtained this year from the spraying of apple trees and the old-storage transportation of peaches make a very impressive object lesson for Canadian fruit-growers. Twenty-five cents each is a paying price in Liverpool for Canadian peaches.—Toronto Globe

MRS. ANDERSON

Tells How After Giving up Hope, She Was Cured of Dandruff

After reading this straightforward statement of Mrs Elizabeth E. Anderson, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., go to EWMair, get a large bottle of Parisian Sage for only 50 cents, and if it don't do for you, what it did for Mrs Anderson, Mr Mair will give you your money back. Just read this letter, it's worth your while:

"I had given up hope of ever being cured of dandruff, when I purchased a bottle of Parisian Sage. It has entirely removed the dandruff, and has started a growth of new hair, and all this after having been troubled for 15 years. I cheerfully recommend Parisian Sage."

Parisian Sage cures dandruff, because it gets right down into the roots of the hair and kills the thousands of pernicious dandruff germs.

Since the introduction of Parisian Sage into Canada, it has been in demand by thousands of up-to-date society women. Parisian Sage will turn harsh, lusterless, ill looking hair into bright, luxuriant hair in a few days. It is a delightful and invigorating dressing, contains no dye or harmful ingredients and is not sticky or greasy. The girl with the Adonis hair on every package

OCTOBER ROD AND GUN.

Big game hunting is to the fore in the October issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W J Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont., and sportsmen intending to try their fortunes in the woods this season will find the number particularly attractive. Moose, deer, grizzlies, mountain lions and wolves are all told about and both stories and illustrations are bound to find responsive echoes with all hunters. In each case the experiences related are personal and therefore far more interesting than any imaginary tales. In addition to big game stories there are numerous attractive papers dealing with other phases of outdoor life and both the east and west of Canada receive attention in this way. A finely illustrated account of the Dominion trap shooting meet at Montreal is included. Canadian sportsmen may take up this issue, confident of finding within its pages something to interest them what ever may be their particular inclination in matters of sport. The variety of ground covered is remarkable and probably accounts for the continued and wide interest aroused by the Magazine in the sporting advantages and possibilities of Canada.

OCTOBER ATHLETIC WORLD.

The October number of the Athletic World, which has just reached us, is a pronounced improvement in every department over past issues, its coast to coast treatment of the big things in the sphere of Canadian and universal sports is exhaustive and timely, its illustrations must be seen to be appreciated.

The Judgment of The Asp

The expressive art of hissing down a play, now permitted by the French authorities, was strictly forbidden in France in the middle of the seventeenth century, and in every theater there were a number of "Car des Francaises" under strict orders to arrest any person who infringed the law.

But the French are not put down by silly regulations, and whenever they see opportunity they attack the authorities with that fearful weapon—ridicule. In this case such an opportunity came at the Comedie Francaise during the performances of "Cleopatra" a play by the insipid Marmontel.

It was a badly written, dull work, and the people were waiting for a chance to give vent to their opinion. At last the chance came. The management had ordered a mechanical asp for the great scene in the final act, when Cleopatra puts an end to her life.

The actress raised the asp, which started hissing, whereupon a spectator rose to his feet, and cried: "The asp is quite right. We all share his opinion!"

Roars of laughter greeted the joke, as it was foreseen that a similar situation would take place every night, the piece was withdrawn from the repertory.—The Youths Companion

One Cent Postage

(From the N Y Times)

According to the report of an interview with Postmaster General Hitchcock in the Chicago Record Herald, we are to have one cent letter postage before long. The postmaster general believes that the post office department will be placed on a self sustaining basis before the close of another fiscal year. The deficit of the department last year was comparatively small and by an effective reorganization at Washington and the introduction of many labor saving devices, there and at other points, the postmaster general hopes to make the mail business actually profitable.

When this happy stage is reached and what was considered for many years an impossibility is accomplished, the postage on letters can safely be reduced to one cent. Cheap postage is a powerful medium in the advancement of civilization. It is a great aid to free education, and we must all hope that Mr Hitchcock's plans will be carried out successfully.

Important Discovery.

Baltimore, Oct 19.—Dr Alefius Carrol, working along lines conceived by himself and assisted by Johns Hopkins men at the head of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, has made one of the most important medical discoveries of the age. This discovery in effect involves a method for removal from the human body of portions of the stomach, blood vessels, skin, bone, and practically every other tissue, and making them grow at as lively a rate as they did in the human form to which they belonged.

In crushing Finland, Russia is making impossible the creation of an effective Russian navy. The Finns are the only real sailors at Russia's disposal, and they will not be very willing to serve in the navy of a tyrant power that has destroyed their national liberties.—Toronto Globe

The Tyranny of Golf

(London Daily Mail)

To the returning traveller who has spent some weeks under foreign skies, England appears at the first sight as the country where they play golf. Everywhere the tyranny of the game is visible. The railway stations are packed with golfers—men who would not journey ten miles from their home unencumbered with the necessary clubs. As you look out from the window of the train which carries you to London you see with out pause or intermission the same sight. The pursuit of the white ball is universal. It is undertaken in a spirit of solemn sacrifice. The laughter of gaiety must not approach the green. There is no sign of light hearted joy in this serious profession. The first rule of golf etiquette is that "no player, caddy or onlooker should move or talk during a stroke." And though I believe that after stroke the worst blasphemies are excused, a studied alteration of silence and self reproach is not the best encouragement of hilarity. However it is not the grimness of golf that I would condemn, but its tyranny. None can escape it. It leaves no corner of the land in violate. The whole of Great Britain is now mapped out into golf links, from north to south, from east to west.

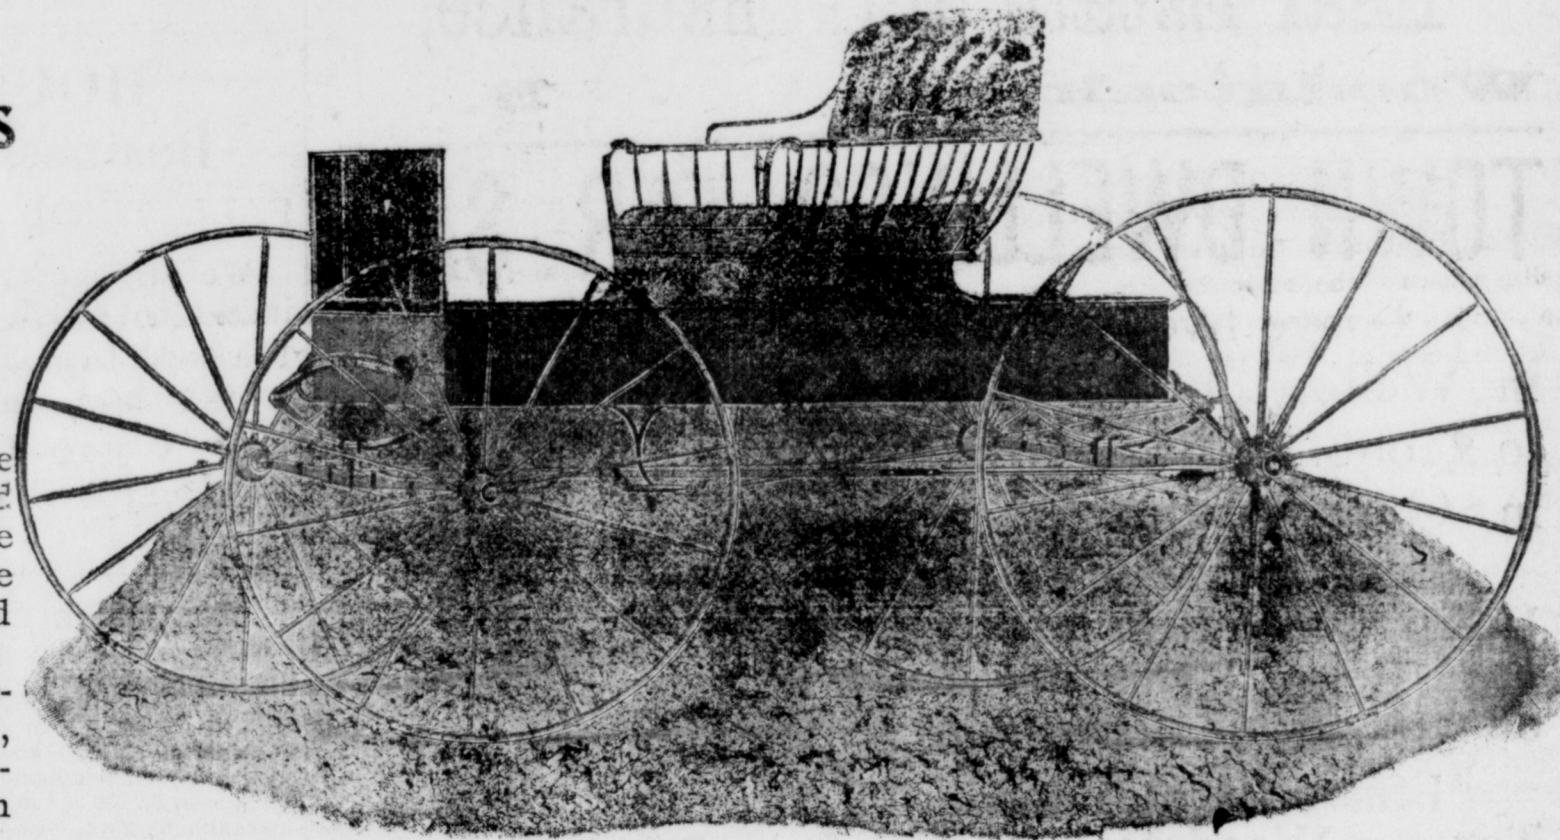

FRENCH TOAST

Two eggs, one quarter teaspoon salt, one cup milk and six or eight slices stale bread. Beat the eggs, add salt and milk and dip the bread in this mixture. Have a hot griddle well buttered; brown the bread on one side, place a small piece of butter on top and then turn and brown the other side.

The statement that a woman who was tripped by her hobble skirt has suffered concussion of the brain seems somewhat contradictory. It is difficult to understand how a woman who will wear one of the sartorial caricatures could have any brain.—Philadelphia Inquirer.
