IMPURE BLOOD

Clogs the Kidneys
Slows the Heart
Fags the Brain
Weakens Every Part of the Body.
Causes Organic Diseases.

Just as strength is the natural outcome of pure blood, so is debility and sickness the result of impure blood. To know how quickly, how surely, Ferrozone cures, to see how it rebuilds and restores, you have only to read the following letters—read them carefully—see if the symptoms resemble yours.
Miss Evelyn M. Gaetz, of Kingston, writes: "I have had an attack of blood disorder which broke out in horrid looking pimples. They were ugly, red, disfiguring blotches that ruined the appearance of my face. I tried all sorts of medicine, but the pimples didn't leave. I was recommended Ferrozone, and gave it a trial. I noticed an improvement after the second box, and kept up the treatment, which finally cleared my skin. As the result of Ferrozone I have a clear, healthy complexion, and can recommend it to all other young women similarly affected."
No blood remedy exists that has the power to cure, to heal, to restore like Ferrozone, try it, 50c per box, six for $2.50, all dealers, or The Catarrhzone Co., Kingston, Ont.

CHICAGO MERCHANT MAKES STATEMENT.

After Spending Thousands of Dollars and Consulting the Most Eminent Physicians, He Was Desperate.
CHICAGO, ILLS.—Mr. J. G. Becker, of 134 Van Buren St., a well-known wholesale dry goods dealer, states as follows:
"I have had catarrh for more than thirty years. Have tried everything on earth and spent thousands of dollars for other medicines and with physicians, without getting any lasting relief, and can say to you that I have found Peruna the only remedy that has cured me permanently.
"Peruna has also cured my wife of catarrh. She always keeps it in the house for an attack of cold, which it invariably cures in a very short time."

The Passing of the Old Bachelor.
(From the Atlantic Monthly)

The typical old bachelor—crusty, irritable, solitary—seems to be passing away, if indeed he is not already extinct. Nowadays there is every encouragement for bachelorhood, until it has developed from a single state to a united kingdom with royal palaces in all great cities. There was a time when the typical bachelor was pictured seated alone in a sadly neglected room, pushing a reluctant needle through unyielding cloth, as he strove awkwardly to sew a button on his coat, using the side wall of his room for a thimble.
That is all done away with now, when the Universal Valet Company, Unlimited, sends its motor to the door of the Bachelor apartments of Benedick, returning them at nightfall, every button re-enforced, every spot and stain effaced. And in what careless comfort does Benedick live! Unhindered by feminine niceties, he sets down his pipe where he will, and swings about his room in easy half dress, shouting the Stein Song at the top of his voice without let or hindrance

For Cancer Cure.
Rome, Italy, March 15.—Prof. Rampoldi, of the University of Pavia, asserts that he has discovered a cure for cancer and other malignant skin diseases and growths.
His remedy consists of local applications with a special ointment made from the juice of a pod-bearing Indian plant, the native name of which is jiquerry, resembling liquorice. In serious cases, where the surface treatment is insufficient, subcutaneous injections are used.
The discoverer says he has experimented successfully on hundreds of patients, but if unwilling to give the cure wide publicity until experiments on a large scale are completed.
Mrs. Lee, an American resident of Rome, who is a friend of J. Pierpont Morgan and also of Dr. Rampoldi, arranged a private meeting between the professor and the financier at the latter's hotel. The visit led to a report that Mr. Morgan was ill, but this was denied by his secretary, who adduced as proof the fact that Mr. had dined at Mrs. Lee's house.
It is said that the American is interested and is likely to contribute financial aid toward the continuation of the experiments.

Saved by the King.
There happened an affair in England which might have been fatal to Holbein if the King had not protected him. On the report of his character a nobleman of the first quality wanted one day to see him when he was drawing a figure after the life. Holbein in answer begged the honor of his visit to another day, which the nobleman took for an affront.
He broke open the door and very rudely went up stairs. Holbein, hearing the noise left his chamber and meeting the lord at the door, fell into a violent passion and pushed him backward from the top of the stairs to the bottom.
Considering, however, immediately what he had done, he escaped from the tumult he had raised and made the best of his way to the king. The nobleman though much hurt, though not so much as he pretended, was there soon after him, and upon opening his grievance the King ordered Holbein to ask pardon for his offense. But this only irritated the nobleman the more, who would not be satisfied with less than his life, upon which the king sternly replied.
"My lord, you have not to do with Holbein, but with me. Whatever punishment you may contrive by way of revenge against him shall assuredly be inflicted upon yourself. Remember, pray, my lord, that I can whenever I please make seven lords of seven plowmen, but I cannot make one Holbein even of seven lords.—Life of Holbein.

The Curious Origin of Some Everyday Signs.
(T. P. Weekly.)

Every day we use remarkable signs in our writing without being aware that there is anything peculiar about them. Thus we use various punctuation marks, abbreviations, figures, and what not, without a knowledge of what they really mean. For instance, there is the familiar note of exclamation (!). Why do we use this sign? The reason is that it represents the Latin exclamation "IO," which was used to signify a cry of joy. Therefore, to signify joy, or an exclamation, instead of writing the word, the Roman writers began to put the letters on top of one another. This, being rapidly written, gradually became so slurred that it took the form of "!", which we use now.
In a similar way we arrived at that common sign the note of interrogation (?). This stands for the latin word "Quaestio." This word was abbreviated, much in the same way as the other word, by putting the initial letter over the final letter, which gradually took the familiar form of "?". In a similar way at this day we make many abbreviations.
The familiar contraction of ounce, "oz." is the survival of a very old order of things. Of course, there is no "z" in an old-fashioned way of expressing a semi-colon (;) In the early days of handwriting, the semi-colon (;) was generally used as a note of abbreviation, signifying the omission of any final syllable. So the word ounce would be written in a kind of shorthand, as "o;". In handwriting, the semi-colon was written in a rapid and slurred way, and printers, for their own convenience, used the letter "z" instead. Hence we arrive at the contraction "oz."
Quite similar was the origin of the curious contraction "viz.," meaning "namely." Very few people would say how we get at that abbreviation, for the Latin word for namely is "videlicet." The reason is that, as in the case of ounce, this was abbreviated to "vi;"; then the "z" came in to represent the rapid form of writing the semi-colon, and we use the abbreviation without referring at all to the Latin word. It is really surprising the number of Latin words which we still use, especially in the form of contractions. For instance, we use "etc.," which is a contraction of et cetera, the Latin for "and so forth." One of the earliest signs of omission ever invented was use of the horizontal line (—). Accordingly we use it in the contraction lb. for pounds (librae), and we use it in the sign "£," which denotes a double omission.
"People who are unable to write, in place of their signature make the mark "X." This form has been in use from very early days, and was formerly used by people who were able to write. Really it is a sacred symbol for the cross, and the Emperor Justinian decreed that the symbol attached to a legal document should have the effect of an oath. We still use the curious expression "Sign your name," instead of saying "Write your name," this being a survival of those days when even cultured men had to make a sign, as they could not write their names.

Cold on the Chest

Had Suffered for Weeks—Used Fourteen Different Remedies Without Effect.
CURED QUICKLY BY "NERVILLE"
No stronger proof of the wonderful merit of Nerville could be produced, than the letter of Miss Lucy Mosher, who for years has been a well-known resident of Windsor, N.S.
"I want to add my unsolicited testimonial to the efficacy of your wonderful liniment, 'Nerville.' I consider it the best remedy for a cold, sore throat, wheezing, tightness in the chest, etc., and can state that for years our home has never been without Nerville. I had a dreadful attack of cold, that settled on my chest, that fourteen different remedies couldn't break up. I rubbed on Nerville three times a day, and was completely restored. I have induced dozens of my friends to use Nerville, and they are all delighted with its wonderful power over pain and sickness. You are at liberty to publish this signed letter, which I hope will show the way to health to many that need to use Nerville.
(Signed) "LUCY MOSHER."
