The man who puts up your medicine is the man who guards your health.

The result of medical treatment depends largely upon the quality of the medicaments, and the manner in which they are prepared. It is the man who puts up your medicine that guards your health. On his knowledge of drugs, his care in the selection of them, and his skill in compounding, your health depends.

Bring every prescription direct to us and be safe in that it will be compounded with the right ingredients and as the doctor wishes. The results that follow its use are those to be expected by the doctor.

A LAND MYSTERY

The building of a railroad by the British from Persia to Karachi across Mekran may not of itself, as the New York Sun says, be a project of importance. Europe has offered little opposition, and engineers say the route presents few serious obstacles; but it brings the rest of the world into contact with some of the earliest scenes of Eastern history and opens a land of mystery of which there have been only glimpses about every thousand years.

Mekran is the coastal region of Baluchistan and extends from India to the Persian Gulf. Sailors before and since the voyage of Alexander's Admiral, Nearchus, have coasted along its white shores and found themselves surrounded by spouting whales such as the first map makers delighted to picture. High pooped native crafts like ancient galleys carrying pirate slave traders and gun runners dodge into its shallow harbors. British steamships sometimes stop at one of its ports for a cargo of dates or rice for the Indian trade. But sailors never penetrate into the range of yellow hills or cross the sterile plain, "the hottest land of all Asia," where the sand rolls in waves and floats in stifling clouds. Oases are rare along the streams that flow from these ridges; the country is dry, weather worn, desolate, shunned by man.

The few inhabitants are the Notsam and jetsam of the civilization that have passed over it. They are the wreckage that drifted into this obscure world from the earliest movements into and from India to the first search of Europe for Eastern empires. The Portuguese that conquered Muscat and captured the islands of Ormuz and Kishm and founded colonies at Bander Abbas and Gwadur left their tribute of adventures, as did the Dutch, French and English that came after them. These found here older people of whose origin all trace was lost, colonies of half bred Arabs left by the decline of the Arab dynasty at Sind, Mongols from the time of Genghis Khan, negroes, descended from mediaeval slaves, and stragglers from every central Asian tribe.

Yet Mekran cannot always have been such a dry, desolate land. Buried in the sands beneath some of the little towns are the ruins of cities. At one place an explorer found the walls of six towns that must at some time have been places of some importance. In the hills above Gwadur are the remains of a great reservoir. Tombs with fragments of pottery that no one seems able to identify are often uncovered; many of the hills are closely covered with stone houses with dome shaped interiors. There are remains of works of masonry that were great dams for catching the waters of the river at flood time. In arid deserts explorers have found forests of dead trees that have stood stark for centuries, and on some of the hills terraces that must some time have been in a high state of cultivation. No one apparently is able to tell who built these cities and reservoirs, cultivated the terraced hills, or were buried in the tombs. The very reason why this land to-day is only a region of great heat, thirst and death is one of the secrets of nature.

McFarland--Bowser

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bowser, Victoria, was the scene of a pretty wedding at 1 o'clock on Wednesday, Sept. 27th, when their daughter, Helen Gertrude, was united in marriage to Arnold Gray McFarland of Saskatoon, son of L. E. McFarland of Hartland.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of friends and relatives by the Rev. Dr. McLeod, who had married the bride's parents, assisted by Rev. J. H. Copeland. The bride, who was given away by her father, was attended by her cousin, Miss Alice Boyer. Harold K. Bowser, brother of the bride, acted as groomsmen.

The bride wore a handsome gown of white satin, with overdress of net and pearl trimmings and fringe. The bridal veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of roses and lily-of-the-valley. The bridesmaid's dress was lavender silk with pearl trimmings and her bouquet was a shower of pink carnations.

Miss Nellie Miles of St. John, played the wedding march and Miss Bessie London, violinist, accompanied her, both being classmates of the bride at Mount Allison.

At the conclusion of the ceremony luncheon was served. The parlors were prettily decorated with ferns and potted plants and the dining room in cut flowers.

A large number of very handsome presents were received by the young couple. The bridegroom's present to the bride being a piano, to the bridesmaid a necklace of pearls, and to the groomsmen gold cuff links.

Mr. and Mrs. McFarland left on the afternoon express for their home in Saskatoon, where Mr. McFarland is travelling auditor for the C. P. R.

The bride's travelling suit was of navy blue broadcloth with hat to match.

The bride, who was organist in the United Baptist Church will be much missed as well as in social circles.

Mrs. John Thomson, of St. John paid an official visit to the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society which met with Mrs. Geo. Phillips Sen. on Friday last. Mrs. Thomson who has been visiting the different Missionary Societies in the County was sent by the St. John-Presbyterian. She returned home on Saturday.
