WOMEN'S CORONATION PROCESSION

The various women's associations in general and the suffrage societies in particular are arranging for a great procession in London on June 17, the Saturday preceding Coronation day. It will probably be the greatest procession of women that has been seen even in London. The object of the procession is to demonstrate the sense of patriotism of the women of the Empire, and their readiness for public service in the interests of their country. Women from all over the Empire will take part and it is calculated that the procession will stretch for miles. In the ranks will be found women of world wide reputation, great scientists, musicians, actresses, writers and scholars in the graduation robes, also many women in positions of social importance and others to whom has fallen drudgery. All difference will be forgotten, says Votes for Women in the realization of the solidarity of womanhood and the bond of union in which women are held by their common destiny, their common service to humanity, their common burden, their common vision and their common hope, faith, and high endeavor.

The procession will be in the nature of a historical pageant with group after group of women of the early Middle ages, of the Reformation period, and of recent history.

It is interesting to note among the groups of historical women summoned to Parliament, women governors, custodians of castles, high sheriffs, and justices of the peace, and then to reflect what a different part modern women are now called upon to play an occasional peep through the grille—or possibly from the height of the peeresses gallery—is all the look in they get into Parliament! But it was not only the women of the aristocracy who were honored by their country, as the groups of free-women of city companies and corporations will testify. Among other privileges, these women enjoyed the right of voting—and in days when the franchise was far more restricted than it is now. To quote from the archives of the Borough of Maidstone to illustrate the status of women in the reign of Queen Elizabeth: Miss Rose Cloke, single woman, was admitted to be one of the Corporation, Body Politic of the same town and Parish from henceforth to enjoy the liberties and franchise of the same in every respect as others the Freemen of the same Town and Parish.

There will be groups with flying banners representatives of those countries in which women have secured the franchise; Australia, New Zealand, Norway, Finland, and several of the United States.

COLD COMFORT.

Douglas Jerrold's wit made it difficult for him to be the "ministering angel" that a man of less humor might have been to friends in trouble. The writer, George Huddle, went to Jerrold one day, to tell him of difficulties into which he had fallen.

"I want your help", he said. "The Morning Gazette has dismissed me." "You don't say, my dear George, they've had a gleam of intelligence at last?"

Dont joke, returned Huddle. I really want your advice. Im thinking of going into the coal trade.

Capital! said Jerrold. You've got the sack to begin with.

BEARING DOWN PAINS

What woman at sometime or other does not experience those dreadful bearing down pains. Mrs E Griffith, of Main street, Hepworth, Ont, says: A heavy bearing down pain had settled across my back and sides. I was often unable to stoop or straighten myself up. Many times each night I would have to leave my bed with the irregular and frequent secretions of the kidneys and just as dawn out in the morning as on retiring. I was languid and would have to let my house-work stand. Nothing I had tried would benefit me. I learned of Booth's Kidney Pills and concluded I would try them which I did, and soon found the long sought relief. My back strengthened and I began to feel better and stronger. I now enjoy my sleep without being disturbed and feel grateful to Booth's Kidney Pills for what they did for me.

Booth's Kidney Pills are a boon to women. She would know less of backaches if she took more of these wonderful pills. They are nature's greatest specific for all diseases of the kidneys and bladder. ## THE BIGGEST BIRD THAT EVER LIVED.

(The 'Technical World Magazine,' New York.)

The moa, a species peculiar to New Zealand, is supposed to have been the biggest bird that ever lived on earth. Probably it was no taller than the giant ostrich of Madagascar (the original of the fabled 'roc'), but it was much heavier, a full-grown specimen weighing as much as 1,000 pounds.

The moa was extremely stupid, and very slow and clumsy in its movements, its legs being enormously heavy and bulky. Not only was it incapable of flight, but it could not run fast.

Apparently, the species was wholly wiped out, about 200 years ago, by an extraordinarily cold winter. The birds gathered about hot springs in flocks, for warmth, but perished in great numbers—the result being, that at the present time, their bones are dug up by the ton in some places, particularly swamps.

A few of the eggs of this remarkable bird—not more than half a-dozen—exist to-day. One of them in the Museum of Natural History in New York, actually contains the bones of an unhatched moa. It is as big as six ostrich eggs, and a silk hat would just about make a suitable egg cup to hold its contents.

EUROPE'S OLDEST MAN.

(The 'Times,' London.)

Exploration of a cave in the cliffs at St Brelade's Bay, on the south coast of Jersey, has resulted in the discovery of remains of the very earliest race yet known in Europe—the Neanderthal.

The cave, situated 60ft. above the present beach, was filled and obscured by a surface fall in a long past period, but in more recent times has become exposed by the action of the sea. The exploration, which has been carried out by the Societe Jerseyaise, was suggested by the discovery of a very primitive type of flint implement found in the rubble below the site of the cave.

Operations under the direction of Messrs E T Nicolle and J Sinel were begun in 1910, and when the floor of the cave was reached, after the removal of 25ft. of overlying material, extensive traces of primitive man were found. Old hearths were indicated by the fragments of charcoal and burnt earth, numerous flint implements of a very primitive type were found, and bones and teeth of certain extinct animals.

The teeth, nine in number, have been examined by Professor Keith, Conservator of the Museum, Royal College of Surgeons, who finds that they belonged without doubt to an individual of the Neanderthal race, but are in certain features more primitive than even the teeth of the Heidelberg mandible, usually regarded as the earliest remains of man yet discovered in Europe and assigned to the Glacial period.

This is the first discovery of Neanderthal man outside the limits of the Continent of Europe. He has been found at Gibraltar, and in France, Belgium, Germany, Austria and Croatia, but so far has not yet been found in England. It is probable as Mr Marett suggests, that Jersey was united with the mainland when it was inhabited by the Neanderthal type of man.

WHEN THE HORSE GROWS OLD

Some horses never seem to grow old, but are able to perform much work up to the age twenty-five years, declares a writer in the American Cultivator. With proper care and treatment the old horse is able to stand a great deal of work and for light work is worth just as much as a much younger animal. If offered for sale, of course the old horse will not bring a very large price.

But if horses are to be serviceable until a good old age they must receive the very best of care and treatment at all times. They must not be neglected at any time, whether working or idle.

The old horse does not always get proper attention in regard to feed. He cannot masticate some kinds of food, especially corn, thoroughly, nor can he eat his ration in a short time as can a younger animal whose teeth are sound. So, unless some ground grain is provided for him and he is given sufficient time to eat his meals when being worked, he will not fail to get the full benefit of his food and in a short time will begin to lose flesh and strength.

When the horse begins to grow old give him just as good care as you did when he was young, and he will more than pay for his feed and care by the work which he can perform.

Beware of Ointment for Catarrh that Contains Mercury

Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescription from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F J Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. ## AMERICAN PEERESSES.

Washington, June 21.—Investigation of 'Chronic titleitis,' described as a disease of rich, trust-made American women, is urged in a resolution introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Sabaah, of Illinois, who would have the State Department inquire why only two dozen American peeresses have been granted permission to take part in the Coronation ceremonies in London, and to ascertain the amount this country is sending across the Atlantic annually to maintain the titles.

After demanding that light be thrown on the discriminations shown against the other American peeresses, the resolution calls for information as to the number of unhappy marriages and the amount of American money being spent in the chase after coronets. The information, says the resolution, is desired so that this government may judge to what extent our country is being benefited by this trade.

Family Physician Said Incurable

She was Cured Completely by
Dr. Hamilton's Pills

A Terrible Experience with Indigestion.

Another example of the marvelous merit of Dr. Hamilton's Pills comes from Kingston, where Mrs. E. V. Holton was snatched from the grave and restored to sound health by this wonderful medicine.
"Three weeks ago I was taken suddenly ill. My head throbed and ached and I became so dizzy that I had to go to bed. There was a terrible feeling of weight and fullness in my left side and all the region of my stomach and liver was sore even to touch. I was in a terrible state—had no appetite in fact I was afraid to eat because of the suffering I had to endure after meals. I got so bilious and had such pains across my eyes that I could scarcely see. My doctor said I had incurable indigestion.
"As a last hope I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I saw clearly they were doing me good and continued the treatment. My appetite and strength gradually returned—my color improved and day by day the stomach and liver derangements were less troublesome. All symptoms of biliousness and indigestion have now passed away. I am cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills."
The same medicine that so wonderfully cured Mrs. Holton will cure anyone else of biliousness, constipation, indigestion, headache, poor color, and stomach trouble. Get Dr. Hamilton's Pills 10-day—refuse any substitute. 25c per box, or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from The Catarrhose Company, Kingston, Ont.
