A BIT OF ENGLISH HUMOR

The night train was approaching Blackheath, outside of London, and two Americans unacquainted with the locality, were in doubt as to the station. One peered out through the window into the unresponsive darkness and sank back to his place. The other did precisely the same.

"Is it Blackheath?" inquired the first.

"The Lord only knows," replied the other in hopeless fashion.

A small, apologetic, shrinking sort of Englishman, sitting next, spoke up.

"I beg your pardon," he said softly, "for intruding upon your personal and private conversation, but as I happen to share that knowledge with the Almighty, permit me to say that it is Blackheath"—August Lippincotts

CHURCH UNION IS IN THE AIR

Toronto, Ont, Aug 2—The general trend of the religious bodies towards church union or at least towards a working agreement is shown by the following motion, which Judge Ermatinger of St Thomas, will put before the general synod of the Anglican church in London next month, resolving that a standing committee of both houses be appointed to cooperate with similar committees or other Christian churches in formulating a plan for defining territorially or otherwise the fields of operations of the respective churches and taking the necessary steps to carry the same into effect

"HOE CROPS" AND WEEDS

The more one travels through the country, the more one is convinced that some other plan than growing corn and roots is required to keep in check. In many sections it has become proverbial that "hoed crops" form a breeding place for weeds. If the farmer could get the help to work the hoe properly, the situation would be different. But a corn crop that has a hoe, is a rarity, while roots do not see it as often as they should. This does not mean that the farmer should discontinue growing roots and corn, but that these crops should not be grown on a dirty field with the hope of cleaning it of weeds. Unless he has the time and the help, the farmer should select the cleanest field on the farm for his corn and roots. Outside of a few districts, the bulk of the corn is grown for ensilage purposes, and in such a way that only the cultivator or scuffler can be used. No matter how closely the corn may be cultivated up to the rows, if weeds are present they cannot be got at in the drills. To keep weeds in check or to clean a field of weeds some other plan must be adopted. To our way of thinking, there is nothing like the old time summer fallow, though a lot can be accomplished by after harvest cultivation if the farmer has the time and help to do it properly. And there is economy in the summer fallow too though we are going counter to many so called teachers of higher agriculture in saying so. A crop on a dirty field is hardly worth the harvesting. Better is it to grow no crop give it the summer fallow treatment to combat the weeds and the next season there will be enough extra crop to make up for the crop full of weeds which the farmer did not grow. We know of farmers who have tried this thing out and who can verify our statement.—Canadian Farm.

SOIL MOISTURE AND WEEDS

Moisture is the limiting factor in crop production—that being the case it is important to make good use of the rain. It is not how much rain that counts, but how much of it gets into the soil and is held there till the crop need it. When wheat crop can have 15 inches of rainfall in the soil it can produce 40 bushels per acre, and corn can make 50 bushels. A half pound of dried weeds on each square yard will take up enough moisture to reduce the wheat 20 bushels per acre and corn 24 bushels. There is only one way to make sure of the amount of weeds in a field, and that is to cut them on a square yard and weigh them. If this is done at harvest time, the weeds dried and then weighed a very accurate measure will be secured of the damage done by the weeds. The moisture that the weeds take is just where the crop can get it.—North Dakota College

Another Case in which Dr. Hamilton's Pills Saved a Life that Physicians Despaired Of.

What a pitiful sight it is to see a handsome, able man being gradually robbed of good looks, health, and ability to work. Such cases are frequent—the one here described being that of E. P. Lascelles, a well-known Printer's Supply man, residing in Hamilton. "About six months ago I began to notice a worn, tired feeling coming over me. I was unable to shake it off. It was not the fatigue that follows hard work—it was sort of an unaccountable laziness that assailed me. I was anxious to work, but didn't have the energy. Something was dragging me down, robbing me of my health and my spirits. I got tired of taking medicine and thought that did me no good and used soon proved my pills. Their action from the moment I took them was sufficient to give me a terribly congested liver and indigestion. Dr. Hamilton's Pills brought back my appetite, cured the heavy pain in my side and back, gave me a new grip on life. I gained in weight and now I am stronger, look better, work better than ever before I was taken sick."

If you want to get back the vigor and spirit of youth, if you want the sparkle of robust health on your cheeks—use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly. They cleanse, purify, tone, strengthen—make the sick well. Give this grand medicine a faithful trial. 25c per box, or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers, or The Catarrhose Company, Kingston, Ont.

FEEDING YOUNG HEIFERS

Good breeding will not make well developed heifers unless they are well fed. It is absolutely folly to expect that heifer calves will develop into first class cows if they are starved when they are young. It is perfectly legitimate to get a good ration at as low a cost as possible, but nothing but failure can come from trying to save money by feeding a poor or insufficient ration.

The average daily ration fed two year old heifers as follows:—Hay, 8 pounds; silage, 20 pounds; grain, 1 1/2 pounds. The grain mixture made up of 300 pounds of bran, 100 pounds of cornmeal, and 100 pounds of linseed meal.—St. Ras Experiment Station.

THE MAGDALEN ISLANDS

Did you ever hear of a Canadian archipelago? Well, in addition to her various physical features such as mountains, plains, vast lakes and gleaming glaciers, islands, bays and gulfs, Canada has at least one archipelago. She may, and likely, has more than one tucked away somewhere about the coasts of the three oceans which wash her shores. But the particular one I wish to speak of is not a lately discovered one in some far off sea but is one of the earliest visited parts of the country, and lies in the direct path of vessels sailing from our greatest seaport to the Old Land. I refer to the Magdalen Islands lying near the centre of the gulf of St Lawrence. The Magdalens consists of thirteen islands in all including Bird Rock which lies some to the north of the main group. These Islands have an interesting history of their own. For the most part they pertain to the private estate of the late Admiral Coffin. More than a century ago Admiral Sir Isaac Coffin while cruising about the Gulf of St Lawrence visited these, at that time remote islands and seems to have taken a great fancy to them. At all events, when rewarded for his services his request for a patent to these islands was granted, and he was given a title to them by the British crown in 1798. The islands with one exception, I believe, still belong to the heirs of the Coffin estate, who now resides in Paris. From a financial point of view it is said they do not represent a very great financial success. The tenants have the privilege of renting the land for twenty cents per acre, with their privilege now of buying out their holdings at a corresponding capitalization. Coffin's proprietorship accounts for the fact that one of the islands is called Coffin Island, a name which must not, but generally is supposed to refer to some ghastly resemblance to, or association with, a coffin. Dead Man's Island, however, one of the small outlying members of the group, is so called because of its resemblance to a dead man of monstrous proportions, lying in state with folded hands and upturned face. But by some means, Dead Man's Island is often thought by strangers to have received its name in consequence of the many wrecks it has caused, and the dead bodies found upon its shores.

The highest points on the islands are in the vicinity of six hundred feet and are on Amherst and Entry Islands. As the islands are small, the rise must necessarily be abrupt in places, which make these hills appear much higher than they really are. It is erroneous also, to suppose that even these highest points are bare and rocky cliffs or wet wooded heights; they are soft, smooth, green, well rounded cones, of quite regular formation. Having the appearance of miniature mountains, these are these miniature islands. The thought suggests itself that they have been carefully smoothed hillsides one experiences an instinctive desire to play the boy again, and roll down these velvety steep to the gentler slopes beneath. But often the gentle slope beneath is absent, and instead there is a perpendicular wall of natural masonry two hundred feet in height. In the little gades that run between the hills there are considerable growths of trees of the coniferous species, chiefly. Formerly very heavy timber of both hard and soft wood is said to have covered some of these islands, but this has now been entirely cut away.

The population is mixed, though the larger portion is of Acadian French origin. The inhabitants number about six thousand in all, one thousand of whom are English speaking Protestants. The people almost wholly follow the occupation of fishermen, and live in little villages in different sheltered parts of the island. They are also, to all appearance harmonious happy and prosperous and seem to be quite up to date in dress and domestic surroundings. The buildings are neat and comfortable, and some attractive homes are in evidence, especially at Grindstone and Amherst.—Rev T G Wightman, in Canadian Century.

LOGS COMING DOWN RIVER.

Fredericton Mail: Heavy rains on the headquarters of the St John River have caused a marked rise in water. It is reported that on Thursday the water at Grand Falls had risen four feet above midsummer level. Here there has been a slight rise, while at points between this city and Woodstock the water has come up a couple of feet. The increase in depth of water has greatly aided the Corporation drive, which was hung up some weeks ago. The drive is now making far progress and a portion of it should be in the boom in a few days. It is reported from the office of the St John Log Driving Company that the upper Drive which is being handled directly by Aitken Bros., was on Woodstock Bridge on Tuesday night. This section of the drive started between Hatfield and Woodstock. The lower drive on which crews sent from the Douglas boom are working is reported to be at Jaseyn's Flats. A large amount of lumber was running by the city to the Mitchell boom on Thursday and Friday morning. This lumber is being allowed to go through to the lower boom on account of a jam in the Grand Pass, a few miles above Fredericton. Men were working on the jam on Friday.

Cold on the Chest

Had Suffered for Weeks—Used Fourteen Different Remedies Without Effect. CURED QUICKLY BY "NERVILINE"

No stronger proof of the wonderful merit of Nerviline could be produced than the letter of Miss Lucy Mosher, who for years has been a well-known resident of Windsor, N.S.

"I want to add my unsolicited testimonial to the efficacy of your wonderful liniment, 'Nerviline.' I consider it the best remedy for a cold, sore throat, wheezing, tightness in the chest, etc., and can state that for years our home has never been without Nerviline. I had a dreadful attack of cold, that settled on my chest, that fourteen different remedies couldn't break up. I rubbed on Nerviline three times a day, used completely restored. I have induced dozens of my friends to use Nerviline, and they are all delighted with its wonderful power over pain and sickness. You are at liberty to publish this signed letter, which I hope will show the way to health to many that need to use Nerviline."
