Though concessions have been granted to some of the British seamen who went on strike, ships are being held up. The movement undoubtedly is extending, though as yet, compared with the general strike leaders' hopes, it has not reached its fullest pitch. The leaders desire to call out the men so that ships as yet not due to sail will be without crews. They believe that they will succeed. Several big Atlantic liners have failed to get crews. The dockmen at London are inclined to join the strike. It is reported that the carmen are likely to follow. Holland and Belgium continue to be partly affected by the strike and German seamen are being imported. The Shipping Federation officials declare that they have not yielded a single point, that the question of wages was not an issue, and that members of the federation will pay what wages they like.

LIVER AND STOMACH WRONG

Indigestion, Bad Color, Pale, Fatigued.

Those Oppressed by Palpitation and Heart Pains will find interesting facts in this Article.

The following letter is printed with the hope that it will show a clear road to health to those who suffer the pangs of indigestion and weak stomach. "I am anxious to send the message of hope far and wide to all who are in poor health as I was a year ago," writes Mrs. Ernest P. Gomez, from Meriden. "For years I have had a weak stomach, and have experienced all the distress caused by indigestion. I may say that the heart pains, watery risings, pressure of gas from fermentation at times almost drove me wild. For a time I could scarcely eat a mouthful without causing myself endless misery; I could not sleep well, my color was fearful, dark circles under my eyes, bad dreams, etc. "As a last hope, I was persuaded to try Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Bitternut. As I persevered with this treatment my appetite gradually returned, and I began to relish my meals. My strength slowly returned, the headache and chest pains grew less severe, and at last I began to look my old self again. Dr. Hamilton's Pills cured me, and I use them occasionally still, because I find as a system regulator and health-supporter no medicine is equal to them. "The same medicine that so wonderfully restored Mrs. Gomez will also cure you. 25c per box or five boxes for $1.00. Beware of substitutes. By mail from The Catarhizone Company, Kingston, Ont.

and covers 182 acres of ground. The station will be formally opened on July 1.

The coronation parade of suffragettes through the streets of London on June 17 rivalled any pageant that has yet been seen in England. Many American women participated. Fully 50,000 women marched to stirring music, with flags and banners flying. Most of the women were dressed in white and were decorated with the colors of their various societies. Many carried bouquets, wreaths and festoons of flowers. Mrs J. Annan Bryce, sister-in-law of the British Ambassador at Washington, headed the procession. She was dressed as Joan of Arc. Behind her marched 100 women representing queens and other notable women in history. Their costumes were wonderfully effective. Boadicea on a large white horse and Queen Elizabeth in full royal dress were cheered enthusiastically by the crowd along the line of march. There were contingents from various cities in England, from the colonies and from Russia, Germany and France. There were representative actresses, writers, doctors, lawyers and musicians as well as many women who had served prison terms for the cause in the long parade, and they were warmly greeted by the friendly crowds.

A great storm in Trieste on June 15 wrecked many ships and killed nearly a hundred people. Trieste, Austria's most important seaport, is almost directly across the head of the Adriatic Sea from Venice, of which it is a commercial rival. Two years ago its population was 225,000. Travellers praise its beauty.

CORONATION STAMP.

London, June 28.—The new postage stamps which have been in circulation since Coronation Day are not meeting with popular favor. The poverty of the design and the mediocrity of the engraving are criticised, and the Post master General will be asked in Parliament if he will consider the advisability of withdrawing the stamps and having a fresh issue designed with a portrait of King George that shall be an actual miniature likeness of His Majesty.

COLORED HAILSTONES FALL.

New Milford, Conn., June 21.—A record hail storm, which swept across the State last night, worked great damage to the tobacco farms, where thousands of young plants were cut to pieces.

At Gaylordsville every tree in an apple orchard was uprooted by the wind. At Long Mountain the hail broke windows in every house in the village. In Milford the hail stones were strangely colored. Fifteen picked up weighed more than an ounce apiece.

GAS DISTENDED HIS STOMACH

Caused Palpitation, and Prevented Sleep—When Health Was Gone, Cure Followed Use of "Nerviline."

"My last wish will be," writes Harry P. Pollard, a well-known boot and shoe traveler of Hartford, "that everyone with a bad stomach may learn as I did, before it's too late, that Nerviline is the one remedy to cure. Why I was in mighty bad shape, my digestion was all wrong, and every night I would awaken with a start and find my heart jumping like a threshing machine. This was caused by gas on my stomach pressing against my heart. When I started to use Nerviline I got better mighty fast. It is certainly a grand remedy for the traveling man; keeps your stomach in order, cures cramps, prevents lumbago or rheumatism, breaks up chest colds and sore throat—In fact there hasn't been an ache or pain inside or outside for the past two years that I haven't cured with Nerviline. Do you wonder I recommend it?"

For general household use Nerviline has no equal; it will cure the aches and ailments of the entire family—refuse anything but Nerviline, 25c. per bottle, five for $1.00, all dealers or the Catarhizone Co., Kingston, Ont.

JUNE SNOWFALL.

Duluth, Minn., June 28.—Steamers down the lake are sending in wireless messages stating that they are late because they have been held up by a snowstorm this side of the Canadian Soo. Snow fell in abundance, according to the reports, all last night. During the storm, most of the freighters anchored and rode safe until the snow fall ceased. Forty one degrees with a stiff east wind blowing thru the city streets brought out winter wraps in Duluth to day, despite a brilliant sun.

SEWING ON BUTTONS.

When sewing on buttons, before you lay the button on the garment, put the thread through so that the knot will be on the right side. That leaves it under the button, and prevents it from being ironed or worn away thus beginning the loosening process. Before you begin sewing, lay a large pin across the button so that the threads go over the pin. After you have finished filling the holes, draw out the pin and wind the thread around and around beneath the button, making a stem to sustain the pulling and wear of the buttonhole.

BUTTONHOLE HOOKS ON.

In sewing on hooks and eyes, especially down the front of the bodice, they should be buttonholed on; they will thus be firm with half the number of stitches otherwise required, and will not become loosened nearly so easily.

CONNAUGHT'S CLEVER SON

(WTS read in Review of Reviews)
Prince Arthur of Connaught is becoming one of our National assets. He is affable, capable and presentable. He performed his recent mission to Italy with great success, and deepened still further the impression that always prevails in Italy that the British nation is their warm friend. The enthusiasm of his reception was very remarkable and the Prince's report was as modest as it was in good taste.

Loveliest of lovely things are they
On earth that soonest pass away.
The rose that lives its life in hour
Is prized beyond the sculptured flower.

A NARROW ESCAPE

When Mr. C. B. Beaman returned from the post office one evening he was in an unusually cheerful frame of mind; he even seemed inclined to be gay, to whistle and to sing. "Oh, nothing," said his wife, good humoredly. "Let's know what 'tis' that makes you feel so good. Has the price of sugar gone down?"

"Not that I know of," said Mr. Beaman, "but I've been hearing about a new magazine that's been started by responsible parties and its going to have a page every month called 'Every Woman her own Dressmaker.' I understand there are to be patterns and all come with it, and directions so clear you can't mistake 'em."

"As Jed Harmon said to me, 'If by paying one dollar a year we can save the price of Lyddy Simonds for a week, spring and fall, why 'twould be a good investment for all us men—good for everybody but Lyddy.'"

"Don't you worry a mite about 'er," said Mrs. Beaman, smoothly. "What she loses in customers she'll make up by her brother William. And for every customer, she loses, the plumber over to the sawby, and the tailor down to the Corner, and Pol Saunders, cobbler, right in town, will lose one too.

"I guess you didn't look far enough in that prospectus. If you'd turned over a page or two you'd have seen that there's to be a helpful article for men every month, too. There's going to be 'Every Man his own Tailor,' telling how an industrious man can make a pair o' trousers in two evenings and a coat in three. There'll be 'Helps for the Home Plumber,' and a number of others.

Lyddy spoke to me about it day before yesterday. She said if she subscribed she should put William right down to those articles, and expect him to save her a sight of money on repairs of all sorts. And as for you, Why I can see you now—"

"See here, Jennie," said Mr. Beaman, "we have got more'n enough literature knocking around the house already. You can lay that dollar out to good advantage in Mincepie fixings. I know. Here tis."—Youth's Companion.

The jewelled insignia of the Order of the Garter consist of a garter made of Royal blue enamel with the motto Honi Soit Qui Mal Y Pense (which is officially translated in Burk's Peerage as "Shamed be he who thinks there's evil in it") in diamonds, the star formed of fine rubies and diamonds, as so a necklace, brooch and buckles all set with diamonds. When Queen Victoria came to the throne and became Sovereign of the Order of the Garter there was a great question as to where the principal part of the insignia—the garter itself—should be worn. It was decided after some discussion that the arm would be the correct place and the precedent will be followed by Queen Mary.

CZARINA IN POOR HEALTH.

The Czarina of Russia's health is said to have failed completely, while her mental faculties are but little better. The fact that she could not witness the coronation of her royal relative, King George V., is said to have caused new periods of melancholy which are most disquieting.
