Sketch of a Veteran Rifle-Man.

As there is considerable interest manifested in rifle shooting in this County at the present time it brings to my mind the career of an old friend, Peter Appleby, who is living at Ardendale, N. B., at the present time.

He was born on the 23rd of June, 1835, and began to shoot in the matches of the County with the old muzzle-loading rifle and is a veteran of the Home Guard which was organized and drilled at rifle shooting before the breech loading rifles were in use. He was a prize winner with the old muzzle loading rifle. He was the winner of the first prize given for the best shooting in the 67th battalion and this was the first shooting match ever held in Carleton County with a breech loading rifle (the old Snyder Enfield rifle). He was the winner of the Bridges Silver Medal given by Mr Bridges for the best marksman in the 67th battalion, as early as 1880. He was the winner of the Irvine Cup two years in succession and the third year was unavoidably absent in the northern part of Maine and could not attend the County Shoot so forfeited his claim to the Cup. He has won the Irvine Cup more often than any one marksman and although now he is totally blind he is just as enthusiastic over the news of the County Association Matches as anyone in the County.

Mr. Appleby was a sergeant in the 67th regiment and has won prizes and trophies all along the way. He led his brigade in marksmanship at Sussex and St. Andrews at different times; he is a connecting tie between the old rifle and the new, having won the prize in the Home Guard with the muzzle loading Snider; the Irvine Cup with the Snyder Enfield breech loading rifle, having made as high as ten consecutive bulls-eyes with that rifle at five hundred yards. He has won prizes with the Martini-Henry, Le-Enfield and the new Rose rifles.

Sergeant Appleby is always pleased to meet any of his old friends, and when talking rifle beams a boy again despite his 76 years.

THE "NO SURRENDER MOVEMENT DEAD"

LONDON, July 29—The solution of the Veto Bill crisis without the creation of peers may be predicted with tolerable certainty. Premier Asquith had a final interview yesterday with King George, who goes with Queen Mary, to Cowes for the week end. The "No Surrender movement is dying of ridicule, its leaders not daring to publish the names of its alleged adherents.

Lord Lansdowne, on the other hand, had received written pledges of support from over three hundred peers in his efforts to save the bill.

The following is expected to be the course of events in connection with the Veto Bill. The House of Commons Wednesday will reject the House of Lords amendments to the bill and meantime the intimation will be conveyed to Premier Asquith that Viscount St Aldwyn will take sufficient Unionist peers into the government lobby, if the Houseburyites challenge division to outvote them. It is believed, however, that even this procedure will not be necessary, as it is very doubtful whether Lord Hilsburys following is equal in numbers to the Liberal peers in the House of Lords.

SARDINES WHOLESOME FOOD.

(From the London Lancet.)

"Eat sardines is our best advice," says the Lancet. "Even the homely herring and the sprightly sprat piping in oil and tin as the real thing are just as good for you.

Dietetic authorities may well praise the sardine, since for one thing it encourages the intake of oil, which for a reason difficult to find is very commonly excluded from the diet nowadays. A bland fat affords such an excellent physiological balance to nitrogenous foods that its reasonable use is calculated to avoid many ills, and especially those associated with wasting diseases and gouty dispositions. The sardine supplies also an excellent proportion (25 per cent.) of nitrogenous material, and so it becomes a real and economical food.

Physiologically it counts for very little if the sardine proves to be not a 'scientific' sardine and the oil is not the oil of the olive. We have a suspicion that a preference would be exhibited for the genuine sardines and 'hull d'olive; but the fishes substituted for the Sardinia pilchards are generally speaking of the herring family and the cheaper oil used is wholesome consisting of olive or peanut or sesame or cotton seed oil which contain to a large extent the same fatty principles as the olive oil."

tea, is the result of care and experience in blending—must be the combination of fine flavor, smooth strength and richness. Because all these elements are so generously included in Red Rose Tea it well merits the term "good tea."
