CURRENT EVENT 2
 An Imperial Edict issued in Peking on May 9 abolishes the Chinese Grand Council and substitutes therefor a constitutional cabinet of ten members, made up of the present grand councillors with the addition of Liang Tun Yen, the former President of the Foreign Board. Prince Ching becomes Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Na Tung and Hsu Shih Chang are made vice prime ministers. Liang Tun Yen is named second foreign minister. Otherwise, the presidents of the various boards become the ministers respectively of their departments. The change is in line with the demands of the National Assembly for a constitutional cabinet responsible to that body instead of to the throne, but in what respect the new ministry is made responsible to the Assembly has not been promulgated.

The rebellion in Morocco is causing much anxiety in Europe, owing to fear of international complications. The rebels are investing Fez with great vigor and in case of capitulation the position of the Christians is one of extreme peril.

As a result of his gay rope catching in a live wire at Zurich, Lieut. Uiterman's balloon was suddenly enveloped in flames and he fell 120 feet, and was instantly killed. M. Say, the French aviator, who holds the aeroplane speed record of seventy five miles in an hour, collided with a telegraph pole while making an early morning flight at Issy Les Molineux, and was seriously injured. At St Cyr, Lieut Loder was hurled to earth when his bi plane capsized, and is in a critical condition. Rene Vallon, a Paris aviator, was killed when his aeroplane toppled over and fell three hundred feet during an exhibition in the French capital. His wife witnessed the accident.

THE USEFUL SALT.
 Salt might certainly be called the universal stain remover, for there are few accidents of this kind, especially on linen, in which its use, either alone or in conjunction with something else, is not more or less successful; that is to say, for some stains salt constitutes the whole or part of the recognized remedy, while for many others it may advantageously be employed in default of a better. Thus ink stains on carpets, colored tablecloths, or colored stuffs in general, if immediately covered with salt, can generally be extracted without much difficulty; fresh fruit, iodine, tea, coffee or ink stains on linen should at once be spread with relays of dry salt, and as soon as possible boiling water poured through the fabric, held over a basin; iron mold and mildew marks on linen should be treated with salt and lemon juice, or, if very bad, with paste made from two table spoonfuls each of soft soap and powdered starch one teaspoonful of salt and the juice of a lemon.

In the laundry it should be remembered that to plunge delicately tinted cotton fabrics into a hot solution of salt (half a cupful to each gallon of water, as if too powerful it tends to rot the material) leaving them there until cold, is a specific for setting the color. Silk handkerchiefs and ribbons should be washed in salt and water; one teaspoonful of salt and one teaspoonful of scraped white soap to every two cupfuls of starch gives a beautiful gloss to linen, especially if the polishing iron be dipped in pulverized chalk, while rough irons may be rendered smooth by rubbing them when hot on well powdered salt. If new prints are soaked in strong salt water before washing they will keep the color better.

Salt added to starch paste used for mounting photographs or scraps will cause it to keep good for a week or more. A candle may be made to burn all night by scraping away a little of the wax around the wick and filling up the cavity with a little very fine and perfectly dry salt. To clean skins and furs, equal parts of flour and salt heated and rubbed well into the fur is efficacious; shake them well afterwards to rid them of the flour and

and the Guarantee

The arguments that might be advanced, as to the superior quality of the Buckley Hat, are all summed up in the broad, conditionless, all-embracing Buckley guarantee.

For it will be readily seen that no hat manufacturer could afford to attach to his product such a guarantee as this, unless he had fullest confidence in the wearing qualities of his hats.

English quality, in American styles, the Buckley Hats have long been recognized as the highest type of gentlemen's headwear.

If you have yet to learn the "why" of Buckley popularity, you'll be doing yourself a good turn in asking your hatter to let you get acquainted with Buckley comfort, Buckley durability, and Buckley style.

Ask him to show you the many new shapes; and when you've selected the one you like, see that the Buckley guarantee slip appears under the leather sweat-band.

Then you'll have the satisfaction of knowing that—fair weather or foul, easy wear or wrecking travel—that hat has no excuse to offer you—it must last you four full months—if it doesn't, you get a new one free of cost from the hat store at which you purchased the first one.

Even accident doesn't invalidate the guarantee, for there's a clause in it that says:

"We also agree to exchange this hat, if same is damaged by accident during the said four months."

The Buckley is UNION MADE—and sells for $2.50.

BUCKLEY HATS

If new potatoes are soaked in salt water before scraping the skin will come off more easily. Butter which is not quite sweet may be rendered entirely so by boiling in a jar with a salt little and a tiny piece of baking soda when cool, the impurities will have sunk to the bottom and the butter will not be too salt to use. A little salt on the fingers when handling fowl, meat or fish will prevent the meat slipping from the hands.

In the toilet department finely powdered salt will be found to be an excellent dentifrice for use, say, once or twice a week; a though a wonderful preventive of decay; its too frequent application tends to destroy the enamel of the teeth. A salt and water mouth wash keeps the breath sweet, and salt rubbed on the hands after washing closes the pores, keeps the skin soft helps to banish any disagreeable odor that may be left on them by some recent occupation. And salt and hot water employed for shampooing the hair greatly benefits the roots.

Salt is good for the stings of bees and wasps, and a thick plaster of wet salt put on a sting will take the pain out of it. We all know more or less, the agency of toothache and other pains and how comforting a bag of hot salt is often giving immediate relief while a weak solution used as a gargle is good for sore throats. Salt may be used to strengthen a sprained limb and for those who cannot enjoy sea bathing, a bath of salt water occasionally is very refreshing. It is recommended as a cure for dyspepsia, taken in hot water early in the morning. It is one of the most readily available emetics in case of poisoning. Insects, beetles, flies and flies have a dislike to it, and a little sprinkled about will help to keep these down.

POWDERED BORAX WITH VEGETABLES.
 When boiling greens, cabbage, cauliflower, beans and peas, add to the water in which they are to be boiled a teaspoonful of powdered borax to the gallon of water, immediately before the vegetables are put in the water, and they will be found much more crisp and tender; will retain their natural color without the aid of soda, and the disagreeable odor so many vegetables give off while cooking will not be noticeable.

SPRING DISHES
 With many, this is the between season as the cellar and storage are empty, and the new vegetables have not yet grown.

Serve spinach and greens as fast as you can get them, and as often. Dan delions, beet tops, radish tops, all the tender green things that may be gathered by the roadside or thinned from the garden beds, are used for greens, and relished as spring dishes. Roubarb is really a spring medicine and should be used lavishly. Wash cut in to lengths, put in a dish, cover with sugar and set in the oven to bake; use no water the plant will supply that and when it is done, it will be a delicious mass to serve in pretty dishes with macaronis.

While cornmeal is not, in large quantities, to be recommended as a summer food, it is a good, nourishing easily digested food for the changeable days of spring.

FEEDING BRAINS
Why Studious Children Always Crave Oatmeal
 Nature gives oats more organic phosphorus than to any other grain she grows. And phosphorus is the brain's main constituent. Brains can't grow, brains can't work without it.
 Oats also contain more lecithin—the nerve food—than any other grain. They form our greatest energy food.
 That's why growing children love oatmeal. Some instinct within them calls for these elements, and woe to the child who doesn't get all it wants.
 The right oats for food are the rich, plump grains. In the choicest oats there are but ten pounds to the bushel. In making Quaker Oats these choice grains are selected by 62 separate sittings.
 Quaker Oats—just the cream of the oats—costs but one-half cent per dish. One dish is worth two dishes of common oatmeal. Don't you think it would pay to serve your children such oats?

RECIPROCIITY STILL DELAYED IN SENATE.
 Washington, May 13.—All hope of the Senate finance committee concluding this week its hearings on the Canadian reciprocity bill was abandoned today. So prolonged have been the arguments of the objecting farmers representative that Chairman Penrose was planning when the session of the committee began today, to extend the hearings a few days. He intends, however, to finish at the earliest moment possible without cutting off any who may desire to be heard.

ANTI-JEWISH FEELING RAMPANT IN RUSSIA
 MOSCOW, Russia, May 13.—To-day's papers report that an agitation for a massacre of the Jews is probable at Kiev, where many Jews, alarmed, are pawning their property in preparation for flight. The paper states that the massacre appears to have been set for to-morrow, and that the agitation followed a rumor alleging the ritualistic killing of a boy last March.
