Permanent Streets.

Report of Superintendent to July 15th 1912

To the Mayor and Council:
Thinking it would be of interest to the residents of Woodstock, I beg to submit the following report of the road and its cost up to the 15th of the present month. I might say that the cost of this piece of road under operation is greater than any other pieces of road will be, as we had a good deal to contend with in excavating the old railway, on one side, and the old sidewalk on the other, and then owing to a misunderstanding, surface pipes and gate boxes, etc. had to be installed for houses, and vacant lots through Mill St., which of course had to be done before permanent streets could be made. The work being done is on the Telford Macadam road principally with a good rock foundation, length 360 ft by 30 to 32 ft wide. The sub grade is excavated 10 inches deep, 16 ft wide. Of course I could have excavated wider but for the quantity of traffic of Woodstock it is useless and of course a good deal less expensive to make it only the 16 ft, which is a standard double track. As stated above owing to the old railway ties this excavation had to be done by pick and shovel, which otherwise could have been done by the plough. The ditches also had to be excavated and built up by rock so that they will correspond with the road in wear and tear. When finished the road will have a crown of 10 1-2 inches in 30 ft. and will consist of the following:—A good rolled foundation with all spongy places filled up, then 5 inches of picked rock, rolled till there is no give whatever, 3 in. layer from 1 in. to 2 inches in size, when all voids are thoroughly filled this then is rolled solid, after that a light layer of smaller grade, then screening for a top finish. To the interest of those who do not know why the excavation was done, I would like to explain the reason; when any heavy load passes over it will not force the rock toward the ditch, which otherwise would happen. I think that is all I can report on at present, so will close with the approximate cost of the piece of road operated on up to the 15th, outside of the cost of crushing the pile of stone which is being placed in separate dumps according to its size.
