BEWARE OF SELFISHNESS
One of the Dangers of a Happy Life is Want of Thought for Others.

The bachelor girl, especially at the outset of her career, is usually bright, jolly, in love with life and the good times she is having. Everyone likes her because she has such good spirits, because her outlook on life is so cheery. She is welcomed everywhere.
Her social calendar is usually full.

But if she wants to continue popular, if she wants her life to remain interesting, she should, as the years slip by, keep strict watch and ward upon herself. For this gay, care-free life of the bachelor girl is apt to make her self-centred, self-absorbed. She grows selfish. She is apt to be concerned only with herself and her own affairs. And gradually, little by little, loveliness slips out of her character. And before she knows it life still be less full of bloom and fragrance. There will be barren spots. It will begin to take on the use of the desert. And unless she heeds these signs of the times she will come to a rather desolate old age.

Bad Tempers

"A woman who is truly amiable, meek, and sweet-tempered rarely has any cause for resentment," says a doctor.

The woman who governs her temper is the woman who wins in this life. She is certainly the most successful woman in business and society, and where is the person who will deny that she is the best wife, mother, and friend?

Experience teaches one that the average woman with a naturally irritable temper often encourages it, fosters it. But perhaps they wouldn't if they knew that anger curdles the blood, hinders circulation, and, consequently, makes the complexion bad and dulls the eyes. It also weakens a woman's wits, making her less attractive physically and mentally. Bad temper does not destroy the mind, but it renders one unable to work mentally.

H. R. H. THE DUCHESS OF CONNAUGHT.

Since her arrival in Canada the Duchess has ingratiated herself with every one she has come into contact with simply by her sweet and gracious manners. She is delighted with Canadian ladies.

A Beauty Sleep

A grandmother who still possesses the freshness of complexion and youthfulness of eye that a woman of 30 would have, boasts that it is due to the daily siesta which she has taken all her life. She undresses every day after luncheon and sleeps for 20 minutes. She insists that one should put on a nightdress and really go to bed if one is to get the full advantage of the afternoon's sleep, and that it should not exceed 20 minutes.

A prolonged sleep in the afternoon makes one heavy and stupid, and keeps one wakeful when night comes, but 20 minutes' sleep will renew and refresh immensely.

This method is only possible to the woman of leisure, and utterly beyond the woman of business. But she can strive to get a sufficient amount of sleep at night.

Boots and Shoes.

Shoes are one of the expenses of a toilet that may be reduced by care alone. A worn-out shoe cannot be renovated; no amount of skill will make it pass as new. The only possible way to save in shoe leather is to care properly for the shoes while wearing them. When they are taken off they should be wiped at once, and if wet filled with paper and put in a dry place (not near the fire) for some hours. We do not advise putting shoes into a bag, for the sake of neatness. If boot-trees are not convenient the boots or shoes should be stood where the air can get to them, as this will tend to harden the soles.

ARCHBISHOP BRUCHESI

Archbishop Bruchesi's name will always be associated with the Eucharistic Congress of 1910 as it was through this exertions this great display of Roman Catholic zeal and power was held for the first time on the American continent. When the carrying of the Host through the streets of London in connection with the Eucharistic Congress of 1908 was prohibited by the British Authorities, Mgr. Bruchesi asked that the Congress of 1910 be held in Montreal so that

Mgr. PAUL BRUCHESI, Archbishop of Montreal.

the world might see the public exhibition of the central element of Catholicism on British soil. His request was granted and the Archbishop worked with might and main for two years collecting funds and making other necessary preparations for a big demonstration of the loyalty of French-Canadian Catholics to their Church. In this he was successful and the Eucharistic Congress held at Montreal in September 1910 was a gorgeously spectacular affair on which a huge sum was spent.

The Province of Quebec is the most Catholic part of North America and the official church authorities with the many religious orders in the provinces control a vast amount of valuable property. Church building and the establishment of Catholic schools and religious houses has been very active during recent years, but the province has not made anything like the industrial and commercial progress the other parts of Canada have been making. In fact, though the oldest part of Canada, the longest settled, and the nearest to Europe, besides possessing great natural resources, it is regarded as the most backward of all the provinces.

Right Rev. Mgr. Paul Bruchesi, Archbishop of Montreal, is of Italian descent on his father's side and French-Canadian on the maternal side. He was born at Montreal in 1855 and appointed Archbishop in 1897.

Rather Burn Than Pay

Mr. Lindsey Loring, a millionaire Boston sportsman, has just burned his yacht Eelin rather than pay the new annual tonnage tax on foreign-built yachts. Mr. Loring, who is very fond of yachting, bought the Eelin years ago, but as she was built in England, she came under the law passed two years ago providing for an annual tax of seven dollars per gross ton on foreign-built yachts. The tax amounted to 511 dollars per year, and Mr.
Loring declined to pay it. The tonnage tax on American-built yachts is only one dollar, and yachtsmen have been fighting the law as unconstitutional, being in fact nothing less than class legislation. Alternatively they claimed that the Act should not apply to yachts purchased abroad by Americans before the passage of the bill.
The Courts, however, held that the Act was retrospective, and applied to foreign-built yachts regularly used in American waters, and Mr. Loring was one of those who lost their cases. Mr.
Loring ordered his yacht to be burned, after removing the keel, masts, and

FEEDING BRAINS

Why Studious Children Always Crave
Oatmeal

Nature gives oats more organic phosphorus than to any other grain she grows.
And phosphorus is the brain's main constituent. Brains can't grow, brains can't work without it.

Oats also contain more lecithin—the nerve food—than any other grain. They form our greatest energy food.

That's why growing children love oatmeal. Some instinct within them calls for these elements, and woe to the child who doesn't get all it wants.

The right oats for food are the rich, plump grains. In the choicest oats there are but ten pounds to the bushel. In making Quaker Oats these choice grains are selected by 62 separate siftings.

Quaker Oats—just the cream of the oats —costs but one-half cent per dish. One dish is worth two dishes of common oatmeal. Don't you think it would pay to serve your children such oats?
