On Sunday eight trains passed through Hartland. One hundred loaded cars went south and 101 empties passed northward. All the trains were drawn by the largest type locomotives and two of them were double-headed. Just ten years ago this week the freight that passed through Hartland averaged 18 cars a day. At that time the capacity of the average car was 20 tons. Now the average carries 40 tons. From this anyone can figure out what the development of the country has been.

TOWN COUNCIL

The town fathers met Monday night with all the members present except Councillor Jones, who was out of town. The Mayor in opening was very happy in his remarks concerning the library and said the attitude of the executors of the L. P. Fisher estate deserved the commendation of all the citizens. These gentlemen were moving in the matter and as a first step invited the council to send two representatives, with the executors, to Calais, Me., to look over the library in that town, which was considered a building of much artistic design and furnishing facilities to meet the demands of the citizens of the place. Mayor Ketchum and Councillor Jones were appointed.

The report of the town treasurer was read and after some comment was placed on file.

John S. Leighton, Jr., was appointed auditor and was also appointed to write up the property books.

On the suggestion of Councillor Gallagher the Clerk was instructed to request the assessors to get the assessment ready as soon as possible.

Councillor Mair said the chairman of the board of health reported the town free from epidemics. There were four cases of typhoid being treated in the hospital which is not unusual.

The Clerk had a communication from the railway commission saying that the matter of the railway crossings in town would receive the attention of the board.

The Clerk was instructed to give the necessary notice and prepare the bill asking for legislation to assess for the upkeep of the library.

On motion the whole council will act with the Fisher Estate executors in selecting a site for the library.

Tenders will be asked for supplying a 25 h. p. motor for street purposes.

Councillor Balmain spoke on the necessity of some restriction being placed on putting unsightly buildings in desirable residential sections of the town, such buildings having a tendency to depreciate the value of property.
