All the family were with him when he passed quietly away. The brother Fred reached home on Monday, having made a flying trip from Vancouver in five days, and saw Russell just before he became unconscious.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. H. Johnson assisted by Rev. Jos Cahill and F. Todd.

The teachers, officers and scholars of the Sunday School, wearing white badges, walked in procession in front of the hearse from the house to the Church at the Church all three Clergymen spoke, Rev. W. H. Johnson preaching from the text;—"What is your life?" Among the floral tributes was a spray from the Sunday School.

Board of Trade Meeting to Consider Site of Valley Railway Station.

A large meeting of the Board of Trade was held in the Council Chamber on Monday Evening, May 13. President J. T. A. Dibblee occupied the chair. Mr. S. L. Lynott and Rev. A. S. Hazel were proposed and elected members of the Board, and addressed the meeting briefly.

President Dibblee explained that the chief business before the meeting was to consider the location of the station proposed by the Valley Railway Company, that the proposed plan would be laid before them and the members were at liberty to discuss it. Mr. Lincoln one of the company's engineers was present and presented the plan.

The plan showed the railway as skirting the south of the Trotting Park and the station located on land of the Chas. Bull estate, west of Charles Street., and south of the Houlton Road.

After the plan had been considered it was explained by the president and Mayor Ketchum in reply to an interpolation that there was a hitch in the matter of locating shops and a divisional point here. That the town had taken steps to expropriate land and give it to the company on the condition that these should be located here, and that if they were not so located or were removed, the land would revert to the town. As Mr. Gould claimed he had nothing to do with the locating of the divisional points and shops, the deal was off for present, as the town did not propose to give away anything without adequate return.

In reply to a question Mr. Lincoln said the plan presented was considered by the company to be the best one for entering the Town of Woodstock, but the plan had not yet been filed and was subject to change.

President Dibblee urged the members to give expression to their opinions of location now, and not leave it until a few of them had gathered in the stores or back offices. He said Mr. Ross Thompson intimated that a union station might be adopted.

Mr. Geo. E. Balmain expressed his approval of the action of the Town Council in not giving any land without something substantial in return. He favored a union station which would at once solve the grade crossing problem, and save heavy expense in truckage. But if a union station could not be obtained he would not be willing to go farther west than a point close to the junction of Houlton Road and Broadway.

Secty A. D. Holyoke thought that instead of getting a union station, we were more likely to get an international station, as the proposed location would be about as convenient for the people of Houlton as for the people of Woodstock. He said that these routes had been considered, and in order to have shops and divisional point it was necessary to go to the park. As there did not seem any possibility of the divisional point being located here he would oppose giving any land unless something definite was guaranteed in return.

Mr. Thos. Nodden thought the members who had spoken were too pessimistic. Because of its geographical location Woodstock must become a divisional point, and we should be satisfied with nothing less, and should not give up hope of getting what we want.

Donald Munro, M. P. P. said he had visited the park with Engineer Maxwell and had gone over the ground with him and Mr. Maxwell saw no reason why the station could not be located on the east side of the park. In regard to a Union Station, Mr. Munro said that would involve crossing the main thoroughfare of the town, and he feared this would cause opposition. Besides this would be embarrassing if in a year or two Woodstock should become a divisional point, of which he had not given up hope. With the question of a divisional point the company had nothing to do, but it would be decided by the Dominion government.

James W. Gallagher said that when the committee interviewed Mr. Ross Thomson the last time he was here, that gentleman said neither he nor Mr. Gould could give them any information but they would use their influence with the government. The following committee was appointed to interview Mr. Thompson on his next visit here, which would be in a few days: Jas. W. Gallagher, Geo. E. Balmain, E. W. Mair, C. Allan Smith, A. D. Holyoke.

President Dibblee said the first sod would be turned on Wednesday 22 inst., and he thought the Board of Trade should be represented. Arrangements are in the hands of the Quebec Construction Company.

The Old Home Week Committee was asked to report at next meeting.

A communication was read from the Secretary of the St. John Exhibition in reference to space for a "Made in Woodstock" exhibit at the next exhibition. Referred to the Manufacturing Committee.

Meeting adjourned to Friday night.

Richeson Executed Early This Morning

Boston, Mass., May 21--Clarence Virgil Tompson Richeson, the former minister, walked calmly to the electric chair in the Massachusetts state prison, where he was electrocuted at 12.17 o'clock this morning for the murder of his former sweetheart, Avis Linnell, the pretty young music student, of Hyannis.

The current was turned on an 12.10.02. One application of 1,900 volts, eight amperes, was sufficient. He was pronounced officially dead at 12.17.

Accompanying the condemned man on his death march was Rev. S. Johnson, a prominent Baptist clergyman, of this city, who has been with Richeson almost constantly during the past few days of his life.

Richeson walked unassisted, and as the party, composed of the condemned man, his spiritual adviser and the guards paced slowly the last few steps, Rev. Mr. Johnson quoted in a low clear voice passages from the scripture.

Richeson entered the death room without a glance towards the legal witnesses who were seated within plain view. At a word from the guards he stepped into the chair promptly.

Rev Mr. Johnson asked: "Are you willing to die for Jesus' sake?"

Richeson answered calmly, not a tremor in his well-modulated tone: "I am. God will take care of my soul and I pray for all. I forgive everybody."

These were his last words. He shut his eyes. As he exhaled his breath, 1,900 volts of electricity shot through him. The attending physicians bent over him. There was no sign of life and within seven minutes Richeson was pronounced officially dead.

The list of those appointed to witness the execution of Richeson given out by the warden this evening included, besides the physicians who were official witnesses, the Rev. Herbert S. Johnson the prisoner's spiritual adviser; Edmund C. Kelly, first deputy sheriff, representing Sheriff Quinn, and one representative for each of three press associations. The three medical witnesses were Dr. George B. McGrath, medical examiner of Suffolk county; Dr. Joseph I. McLaughlin, the prison physician and Dr. J. P. Butler, surgeon-major of the Ninth Regiment, Massachusetts National Guard; Rev. Herbert W. Stebbins, the prison chaplain; the warden, General Benjamin F. Bridges, and assistants made up the rest of those admitted to the death chamber.

Richeson had no supper, saying that he desired none. After eating a little fruit he lighted a cigar, and he was sitting on the edge of his cot, apparently enjoying his smoke when Deputy Ward, en Allen entered his cell with the black suit of clothes to be worn during the execution. Richeson nodded calmly to the deputy but said nothing.

Yesterday and during the forenoon to-day the prisoner lay on his cot, but this afternoon and this evening he sat up most of the time.

Boston, Mass., May 21st.--It was nearly daylight before the last of the curious who had hung about the prison gate throughout the night, departed.

In pouring rain, more than a thousand people stood outside the prison walls for hours, awaiting the word that the execution had taken place.

The officials and witnesses were obliged to walk through the prison yard in a pelting rain, as they walked they heard sounding through the walls the strains of songs.

It was Richeson and his spiritual advisers, Rev Mr Johnson and Chaplain Stebbins, singing, distinctly audible as they closed, were the words:

"For I know whate'er befall me, Jesus doeth all things well"

Richeson left no public statement, but his counsel, William A Morse, gave out an interview immediate after the execution in which he told of the last hours spent with the prisoner.

"For two hours," said his attorney, "I was in close conversation with Richeson, and he talked very confidentially over all matters. He expressed to me all that he wanted done, and I shall carry out all his wishes. He was ready to go, brave and reconciled. He asked me to go with him to the death chair, and I did. He wanted me to say to the world that he had paid his debt and felt that he was going home to God,
