SPRING BLOOD IS WATERY BLOOD

How to Get New Health and New Strength at This Season

Spring ailments are not imaginary. Even the most robust find the winter months most trying to their health. Confinement indoors, often in overheated and nearly always badly ventilated rooms—in the home, the office, the shop and the school, taxes the vitality of even the strongest. The blood becomes thin and watery and is clogged with impurities. Some people have headaches and a feeling of languor. Others are low-spirited and nervous. Still others are troubled with disfiguring pimples and skin eruptions, while some get up in the morning feeling just as tired as when they went to bed. These are all spring symptoms that the blood is out of order and that a medicine is needed. Many people take purgative medicines in the spring. This is a serious mistake. You cannot cure yourself with a medicine that gallops through your system and leaves you weaker still. This is all that a purgative does. What you need to give you health and strength in the spring is a tonic medicine that will enrich the blood and soothe the jangled nerves. And the one always reliable tonic and blood builder is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills not only banish spring weakness but guard you against the more serious ailments that follow, such as anaemia, nervous debility, indigestion, rheumatism, and other diseases due to bad blood. In proof of this Mrs. Emma Duck, Carleton Place, Ont., says: "I was greatly troubled with weak spells, dizziness and extreme nervousness, and did not find anything to help me until acting on the advice of an aunt I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After using five boxes I found my health fully restored, and cheerfully recommend the pills to others."

If you are ailing this spring you cannot afford, in your own interest to overlook so valuable a medicine as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WATERVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Stokoe paid a short visit to their daughter Mrs. Willie Wiley, at Monticello, Me., on Saturday last, returning the same day.

A few of Waterville's citizens took advantage of the Easter rates on the C. P. R. to visit relatives and friends. Miss Edna Culbertson, and her brother George, spent Easter with their cousin Mrs. Roy McCain at Florenceville. Also Mrs. Albert Palmer, of this place, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. William Hamilton of Jacksontown, spent Easter with relatives in Fort Fairfield.

Our popular teacher, Miss Black went to spend the holidays with her parents in Bloomfield.

Edwin Lipsett made a trip to Embden, Me., the last of March, to visit an old friend, Gilbert Palmer formerly of this place. Mr. Palmer's old friends here will be pleased to learn that he is well-pleased with his surroundings.

We expect our new Baptist minister, Rev. Mr. Jenkins, to be here to take his regular appointments next Sunday April 14th. He has been away for the past three weeks staying with his mother, who is ill.

The many friends of Albert Plummer are glad to see him out again, after his confinement to the house from La Grippe.

Linus Seeley and Mrs. Palmer who have been ill for a long time, are slowly declining.

A shade of sadness passed over the village Sunday when the news was flashed over the wires that Kenneth D. DeWitt Gray, the little son of Charles Gray, of this place, was dead. Kenneth was a bright little boy of four and a half years, whom the sternest could not help loving. He had been apparently as well as usual until about three o'clock Saturday afternoon, when he had a slight convulsion, and revived again but shortly before midnight he again went into convulsions, which followed one after the other until he passed away, about half past three Sunday morning. The Doctor did not know what had caused the convulsions. The funeral was held at the home Monday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. Mr. Sheuman of Hartland, officiating. Interment was made in the Gray lot, in the United Baptist Graveyard here.

New Danger From Big Steamships

SOUTHAMPTON, April 11.—The Titanic experienced an exciting moment as she was proceeding down Southampton water on Wednesday. As the big vessel was passing the White Star liner Oceanic and the American Line steamer New York, which are berthed alongside each other, the terrific suction of the Titanic triple screws dragged the New York from her moorings, and seven of that vessel's stern ropes parted. The stern of the American liner swung into midstream and narrowly missed striking the passing Titanic, which was obliged to stop while the New York was towed off to a safer berth.

AERONAUTIC INVENTIONS

Many Patents Have Been Granted for Aerial Improvements.

Aerial and marine navigation, while in most respects totally unlike, are yet in certain particulars closely analogous, and this is perhaps most clearly observed in considering the smaller auxiliary devices relating to these arts. Although aerial navigation, so far as heavier than air machines is concerned, has only recently been accomplished, the art in a broad sense has been, nevertheless, the subject of patent applications for many years, and a consideration of these patents indicates that not only has inventive genius been active along broad lines of development, but that it has been busily engaged in the perfection of details of construction which now that so great interest has been aroused in the practical side of the art, may be found of great value.

While the first marine anchors were probably crude affairs, consisting of a rock or crooked branch, the art of aerial navigation did not arise until long after marine anchors had reached a fairly high state of development, and aeronautical inventors were thus able to confine their attention largely to the adaptation of these marine anchors to aerial use. Among the first patents granted in America, for an aeronautical device is that to Mr. Bell, dated March 26th, 1850, which among other details shows a water anchor or drag, clearly adapted from marine use, and which consists of an umbrella-like structure supported upon a rod, the rod being provided with ropes at its opposite ends. It is evident from the construction that, if the device be immersed in water and attached to the flying machine by the rope being slack, the umbrella structure will remain closed and offer little resistance to travel through the water, while if one rope be pulled taut and rope be slackened, the pressure of the water will open out the umbrella device, thus presenting a large surface to the water and acting as a very effective drag or water anchor. Similar in type, but adapted for land use, is the device shown in the British patent to Alexander of 1853, in which a supporting rod similar to that of Bell's device is provided, but instead of the umbrella structure of the latter, the rod carries a series of backwardly projecting prongs or claws, which, when the rod is towed by one or the other of its ropes, respectively, slide easily over the surface of the ground, or engage with the same and act as a positive anchoring means.
