For Constipation

A Medicine that Does Not Cost Anything Unless It Cures.

The active medicinal ingredient of Rexall Orderlies which is odorless, tasteless and colorless is a comparatively new discovery. Combined with other extremely valuable ingredients, it forms a perfect bowel regulator, intestinal invigorator and strengthener. Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy and are notable for their agreeableness to the palate and gentleness of action. They do not cause griping or any disagreeable effect or inconvenience.

Unlike other preparations for a like purpose, they do not create a habit, but instead they act to overcome the cause of habit acquired through the use of ordinary laxatives cathartics and harsh physic and permanently remove the cause of constipation or irregular bowel action.

We will refund your money without argument if they do not do as we say they will. Two sizes. 25c. and 10c. Sold only at our store---The Ral Store---E. W. Mair.

They are guaranteed by a government analyst to be free from all injurious drugs and are absolutely safe to give even to the newborn babe. Concerning them Mrs. Oscar Bedard, Manseau, Que., writes:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets and have to thank them that my little one is living to-day. I know of nothing to equal them as a children's medicine." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

G. L. Cronkhite.

Mr. G. Leonard Cronkhite, one of the genial and highly respected citizens of Carleton Co., died at his home, Royalton, near Centreville, this county Sunday night, aged 84 years. Mr. Cronkhite was born in York county in 1829, but as the county was divided in 1832, he became a convert to Carleton. Deceased was a director of the Fisher Memorial Hospital, a former justice of the peace and captain of the Home Militia for over 40 years, revisor of the Parish of Wicklow and chairman of the school board for 30 years, and has been county-councillor for 40 years, four of which he has been warden of the county. He is the owner of a 400 acre farm, which is practically the largest farm in this county under entire cultivation. He has been quite a heavy stock raiser and has had at times over 125 sheep, 40 head of cattle, 13 horses, and has employed on his farm some fifteen men. Of late however he has given up extensive farming and has retired quite wealthy. He was only sick a short time, having been in Centreville on business Wednesday.

No Fighting For Fifteen Days

LONDON, Jan. 27.--The drafting of the note rupturing the peace negotiations to be presented by the delegates of the Balkan nations to the peace plenipotentiaries of Turkey, was begun this morning by the committee appointed by the four allied delegations. The committee consisted of Michael Madjaroff, Bulgarian Minister in London; Professor Georgros Streit, Greek Minister to Austria Hungary; Dr. M. R. Vesnitch, Serbian Minister to France; Count Voinovitch, chief of the cabinet of King Nicholas of Montenegro, with M. Politis, of the Greek delegation, as an adviser on questions of international law. The committee meets again this afternoon, when it expects to complete the note which will then be submitted to a plenary sitting of the Bulgarian, Greek, Montenegrin and Serbian delegates. However, if the Balkan allies were anxious to resume hostilities, which it is currently reported they are not anxious to do, at least fifteen days must elapse before the guns can begin to go off again. Even if the draft of the note is completed to-night, its revision by the delegations will render necessary some corrections and these will postpone the final draft until to-morrow, so that the official document could not be presented to the Turkish delegation and to Sir Edward Grey, as honorary president of the peace conference, before Wednesday.

As it is understood that the note will give the Turkish delegation three days in which to answer, the expiration of that period would occur on Sunday, so that the Turkish reply would not be delivered until Monday night. Then the allied delegations will have to notify their respective governments and ask Sir Edward Grey to convoke a final sitting of the conference for the official rupture of the negotiations and also in order to thank the British Government for its hospitality.

This will take at least three days, making it February 6. Then the governments at Sofia, Belgrade and Cetinje must denounce the armistice.

Even admitting that, working with exceptional celerity this could be done the next day, hostilities could not be resumed until February 11, owing to the four days' notice required to be given at the conclusion of the armistice.

In the meanwhile the fortress of Adrianople may fall, which is expected to become the automatic solution of the trouble.

The Turkish ambassador remarked this morning that the Balkan allies had greatly tempered the original order. They now seem, according to the Turks, to trust to a counter-revolution in Constantinople, forgetting that even should it occur it will be a movement led by the military element and therefore strongly against the cession of Adrianople.

Osman Nisiami Pasha, the leader of the Turkish delegation, remarked with a peculiar smile: "He laughs best who laughs last."

LONDON, Jan. 27.--The Constantinople correspondent of the London Times gives the following further details of Nazim Pasha's death:

"As Enver, Halil and Djemal Beys, followed by Talaat, Omar, Nadji and Midhat Beys, with the other leaders of the Young Turks Committee, burst in, Nazim Pasha came out of the court chamber and, seeing Enver Bey, cried out: "What is this impetuosity?" "The impertinence is yours," replied ex-Officer Mustafa Nedjib, and fired on the commander-in-chief.

"Three bullets struck Nazim Pasha, who fell dying. His aide, Tewfik Bey, dropped, shot through the head, Nazim Bey, aide to the Grand Vizier, was also shot down. Nazim's assassin then fell himself shot.

"On the outside, the guard; hearing the shooting, wavered for an instant, and a soldier levelled his rifle at Enver Bey, but the order to fire was not given. The commandant's guard came up too late, and was bluffed into silence by a cool-headed officer among the conspirators."

MALTA, Jan. 27.--The battleships King Edward VII and Zealandia sailed from here today for the Levant.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 27--Hakki Pasha has finally refused the portfolio of the Foreign Ministry, and it has been offered to Prince Said Halim, who is expected to accept. Said Halim is an Egyptian Prince. He is president of the Council of State and secretary of the Committee of Union and Congress.

VIENNA, Jan. 27.--The Tiegblatt's Constantinople correspondent asserts that the Sultan and the ex-Sultan affected a reconciliation at the palace the day before the coup d'etat.

LONDON, Dec. 27.--Uncensored Constantinople despatches received in London confirm the previous accounts of the revolt against the government and the shooting of the War Minister, Nazim Pasha.

The despatches add little to the details already known, but state that the autopsy on the officer killed disclosed that the body bore dagger wounds, as well as bullet wounds, thus throwing doubt on the assertion that the killing was unpremeditated.

According to the Daily Mail, the Balkan ultimatum to Turkey will give four days' grace to enable the powers to devise any possible means to bring pressure upon the Porte.

The Mail also says that Colonel Jostoff chief of staff of the third Bulgarian army before Tchatalja, who is now acting as military adviser to the peace mission, will leave London for the front to-morrow, and that all the powers including Russia and Austria, have given assurance that the hostilities shall be limited to the Balkan States and Turkey.

Houghton Watt

One of the most interesting social events that has occurred in Fort Fairfield for a long time was the marriage, in the Congregational church, this Wednesday afternoon, of Thomas Edward Houghton, son of Mrs. Cora Houghton, Aroostook's leading woman farmer, and Miss Cenith Mildred Watt, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Watt of Fort Fairfield village. The church was finely decorated for the occasion, a central figure being a large evergreen arch, with a bell suspended from the centre. The church was otherwise decorated also in green, with white pinks in profusion, all being the work of young friends of the contracting parties. The whole effect being very beautiful.

At 2.00 o'clock the strains of the wedding march, played by Mrs. Roy L. Kinney, were heard, and immediately the ushers came down the aisles. They were: Mrs. Guy Maines, and Misses Gaynell Kimball, Gladys Goodhue, Maria Louise Hacker, Beryl Perry and Olive Stevens. Next came the flower girls, little Misses Mollie Watt, younger sister of the bride, and Mary McIntosh, her cousin, the flower girls appearing very neat and pretty in white silk and scattering pinks as they walked. Then came the maid of honor, Miss Beryl Dalling of Woodstock, a relative of the bride, daintily attired in blue messaline with ninon overdress. Next, upon the arm of her father, came the bride herself, appearing most charming indeed in a dress of white satin with trimmings of pearl and shadow lace, with a hood-shaped veil to match, fronted by very pretty bead work.

Down the other aisle marched the fortunate bridegroom, supported by Thurbor Holt, his groomsmen, both retired in black. At the altar, under the large arch the two parties met, and the bride was given away by the father. There the double-ring ceremony was most impressively performed by the officiating clergyman, Rev. W. A. Richmond pastor of the church.--Ft. Fairfield Review.
