83 Tons of Paper

This enormous quantity of paper was used in printing the 1913 Edition of the Na-Dru Co Almanac, just off the press. Each Almanac weighs a little less than two ounces, this means that 700,000 Copies were printed--- one copy for every 11 individuals, or for every two families in Canada.

Stronger evidence could scarcely be given of the wonderful popularity which has already been won by the Na-Dru-Co Almanac now only in its fourth Edition.

This is due to the rich fund of useful information which it contains, and to its valuable hints on health and physical comfort.

Your Druggist has a copy for you. See that you get it.
