Death at Rome of J. Pierpont Morgan

ROME, March, 31.—J. Pierpont Morgan, the financier, died at five minutes past twelve o'clock noon today.

When his death was seen to be approaching rapidly, Prof Bastianelli and Dr. George A. Dixon forced Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Satterlee, his son-in-law and daughter, and Miss Helen Hamilton Morgan, who had been in constant attendance, to leave the room. Mr. Morgan toward the end showed that he was suffering internally only by a movement of his right hand. Otherwise he displayed no sign of vitality except by continuous heavy breathing.

Frequent bulletins were issued during the morning, showing that his condition was gradually becoming worse and by 11 o'clock the physicians had given up all hope. Mr. Morgan was unable to assimilate the artificial nourishment administered during the morning, and his physical weakness was extreme. Heart tonics were injected, but these had no effect and for several hours before his death he was in a state of coma, unable to respond to any questions or to recognize any of those at his bedside.

Dr. M. Allen Starr, of New York, called into consultation in connection with J. Pierpont Morgan's illness, attributed the financier's breakdown to emotion caused by the investigation carried out by Pujo committee at Washington in the operations of the money trust.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Mr. Morgan sailed from New York, an ailing man, for Egypt on January 7, within three weeks after he had testified before the Pujo committee, investigating the money trust. For weeks there had been reports that he was far from well, but these were somewhat allayed by the announcement that no physician would be taken with him.

Although news of Mr. Morgan's death was not a surprise in view of his recent illness, Wall street was kept in doubt until almost the last hour as to his actual condition. The governors of the stock exchange announced that they would meet at noon to take appropriate action on Mr. Morgan's death.

PUBLICITY FOR TOWN

Board of Trade Will Spend $1500 for Publicity and Has Chosen S. L. Lynott as Publicity Agent

The board of trade held its usual monthly meeting on Friday evening. President Dibblee in chair and Secretary Holyoke also present.

The following were proposed and elected members of the board; Dr. T. F. Sprague, A. Page, C. W. Manzer and J. B. Cluff.

President Dibblee spoke of the proposed increase in telephone rates. This matter would be taken up by the Utilities Commission in St. John in the near future, and it was absolutely necessary for Woodstock to take an interest in the matter. Of course, we have a rival telephone company which would be generally patronized if the rates of the N. B. Company goes up.

A bill from Com. Wm. Balmain, $6.10 for attendance at Good Roads meeting in Fredericton, was ordered paid, also a bill from Jas. Carr, $5.35, for the same purpose.

J. D. Carey spoke of the bad condition of the streets at present and hoped that the Council would see that the necessary improvements be made.

Com. Jas. W. Gallagher, chairman of the street committee, admitted that the streets and sidewalks were not as they should be. Many improvements would be made next summer. A permanent street will be laid from the Meduxnekeag bridge to the post office. Crushed stone will be used on Chapel street, Connell street and other principal streets of the town. The sidewalks also will be put in good shape.

Dr. T. F. Sprague said he had been in this town about 30 years. By the census it seems Woodstock has increased in that time some hundreds, when it should have gained by thousands. He hoped the town would grow more rapidly, and increase its industries to a greater extent than at present.

A. Page, manager of the Imperial Packing Co., said this was his fourth year in Woodstock and he regretted that the town was not growing as it should. It was surrounded by a great agricultural country, but for some reason or other the farmer is not marketing much of his produce. His (Page's) company this spring can get but little pork or beef, and it is paying 12 cents a pound for the former. The freight of course was one drawback against our manufactures.

A. D. Holyoke said that Messrs Mair Sutton, Jarvis and himself were members of the publicity committee. The following is the estimated receipts and expenditures. The town will give $500 the county it is hoped $500, and subscriptions at least $200. There will be expended $200 for 100 framed pictures; for advertising in trade journals in United States and Great Britain $500; and for a small booklet $100; postage $50; and $150 for publicity agent. Some discussion had taken place about the selection of a publicity agent. It meant a lot of work and the salary was small, but the committee finally selected as the best man in sight, Mr. S. L. Lynott editor of the Sentinel, as publicity agent. This country was, among other things, a great country for hardwood. A big hardwood concern would likely start a factory here for the manufacture of hardwood and its by-products, wood alcohol, charcoal, etc. A large firm in St. George, Ont., have been in correspondence with the board and may establish a branch in Woodstock.

The report was accepted and the recommendations ordered to be carried out. E. W. Jarvis said that Woodstock had gone ahead as rapidly as had the province. The county, also, had made some progress, as it was a county in which much money had been made by good farmers. For 25 years the cry had gone forth that more money could be made in the west for less work, and some of the farmers here do not attempt to work very hard, and the county and town to progress must get rid of men who make business failures. The farmers here have too much land, many of them attempting to farm 400 acres. We could have three times the number of farmers on that amount of land and each would make more money than the one at present occupying the land.

By publicity we may interest English farmers who are used to and now make a living on small pieces of land. These men would farm more successfully. Another thing our farmers do not take enough pride in local institution and in their own chief town. Heknew of a farmer owing money to a town merchant who recently requested to have the note renewed so that he would have ready money to send to Eatons for goods. That is not the right way for the farmers to use the town merchants. by the late John Connell, and the Memorial Park was purchased with his money. The right place for the agricultural society to have grounds was the Connell Memorial Park, and we must not let it slip out of our hands. Geo. E. Phillips did not think there was any valid reason for refusing to let the Agricultural Society have part of the Connell Memorial Park for exhibitions and races.

Colonel F. H. J. Dibblee pointed out that on the farm help is hard to get. Everything costs more than formerly. The boys leave the farms and make their way to the towns and cities expecting to make a fortune. They are not now satisfied with a living and putting a little money away for a rainy day. The board should not be too hard on the farmers who are now trying to cultivate large farms without the necessary help.

President Dibblee said something definite should be done to assist the Agricultural Society to get a site for their new buildings. They were having some difficulty in getting suitable land, as it was necessary to have not only land for the buildings but sufficient land for a trotting park.

A. D. Holyoke suggested that the committee already appointed be continued to act with the committee from the board of trade. These committees had already waited upon Mr. A. B. Connell and the mayor of the town of Woodstock. The former pointed out how impossible it would be under the terms of the John Connell will to let the society have the desired land on Elm Street. It seems also from remarks by the same gentleman that land cannot be got from the John Connell Memorial Park. The other sites looked over were the Bull and Smith land near Sucker Flat, and the Upham land in Wellington ward. The latter was too small, and the other could not be had at present, owing to a suit at law by the Bull estate against the C. P. R., which had been before the local court, the Supreme Courts in N. B. and Canada, and which would likely be carried to the Privy Council in Great Britain.

Wm. Balmain said that the Rifle Range would have to be changed as it was condemned last fall because the Valley Railway would run over it. He thought it would be a good site and it would be no further away than was the old Agricultural grounds.

James W. Gallagher said he had a conversation with Premier Flemming the other day. He told that gentleman that we proposed having an exhibition this fall, and the premier guaranteed that the government would give 15 per cent of the cost of Agricultural buildings. The speaker said that it was pretty tough that there were 150 acres of land, supposed to be owned by the town, from which no taxes or rent has been secured, and the people of the town cannot get 18 acres for agricultural purposes.

Colonel Dibblee said that the subject was an important one in which he always took much interest. The trotting park and agricultural grounds were originally owned by a private company; finally the lands fell into the hands of the Carleton County Agricultural Society. The track did a lot of good to the town; carnivals, firemen's day and race day brought much money to the merchants. It is necessary to have agricultural grounds and track—call it driving park if you do not like the word "trotting"—and we must not lose the present opportunity. We need the track grounds, as well as the agricultural grounds, to illustrate to the people what can be produced in this country. Exhibitions must have trotting races to become successful. We must have these grounds and buildings at once. It is a shame to allow these properties referred to by Mr. Gallagher to go to waste. Everybody knew that the late John Connell, left his property for educational purposes; the executors, after free schools had been established by law, had the Legislature change the terms of the will, so that the properties could go for a public park. The golf property was owned

Colonel F. H. J. Dibblee moved and E. W. Mair seconded the following resolution which carried unanimously:—

Whereas—In the opinion of this board it is necessary that a suitable site be selected at the earliest possible date for Agricultural Society purposes; and

Whereas—The committee appointed by the Agricultural Society, and by this board, have been unable to secure a suitable site; therefore

Resolved—That the trustees, Mr. A. B. Connell, and the mayor of the town of Woodstock, be urgently requested to donate or sell at a reasonable price to the Agricultural Society 20 acres of the lower end of the property known as the John M. Connell Park.

E. W. Jarvis had no objection to the resolution but he would like to know if the Agricultural Society had sufficient money to carry out the object of the resolution, in making ready for, erecting buildings and grading a track for the purposes spoken of.

A. D. Holyoke replied that the society had $7000 in cash and could get all the money it wanted because, the members were among the leading merchants in town and among the progressive farming of the country. The society was organized many years ago, made a success of the business and did not need any business advice from any person in this room. They could get any extra money without going to the bank for it, either. The society would not have parted with the old grounds only that it was necessary in the interests of the town to have the railway buildings in the park, and the members were led to believe that the could easily get the Elm street land or the Island Park land, supposed to be owned by the town, for Agricultural purposes, and now they found for some reason or another they could get neither.

H. E. Burt asked if anything had been done since last meeting toward having the C. P. R. officials here in an effort to adjust the freight rates.

The president said that the officials promised to come here shortly, but so far none of the members had filed their grievances with the secretary of the board.

Thomas Noddin said that every man in the room had grievances. He had been a farmer and worked in the west and on the frontier among thieves and murderers. There was but one corporation that ever held him up on the streets and took money out of his pocket.

Geo. E. Phillips showed from the records that every merchant and manufacturer in town had to pay tribute to the C. P. R.

Thomas Noddin, produce buyer; E. W. Jarvis, banker; H. E. Burt, and J. T. A. Dibblee, hardware merchants; W. S. Sutton; Geo. E. Phillips and James W. Gallagher, manufactures, gave instance of excessive freight charges by the C. P. R.

The following transportation committee was appointed: President Dibblee, H. E. Burt, W. S. Sutton, Geo. E. Phillips and Thomas Noddin.

Adjourned until the evening of April 4th.
