er benefits to the country and people than from the stated lines of action promulgated by the leaders of the Conservative party, but he never hesitated to take an attitude of opposition to his own party when propositions were made which he believed to be pointing towards injustice or calamity, and on several memorable occasions showed his independence by his votes on questions before the Parliament of Canada. Notably, Mr. Ellis's last vote in the Dominion Senate was in favor of the Naval Policy of the government.

Mr. Ellis first ran for Parliament for St. John County in 1871, in opposition to an alliance between Messrs. Burpee and Palmer that was intended to avoid an election, but was defeated. He was elected to Provincial Assembly in 1882, and again in 1886, but did not take his seat on the latter occasion, being nominated and elected to a seat in the Dominion Parliament at Ottawa for St. John City before the Local House met. He sat in Parliament from 1886 to 1890, when he was defeated, with his colleague, largely as the result of the trouble that arose over the appointment of the Police Magistrate of St. John. He was again elected in 1896, and in 1900 was appointed to the Senate, where he often took part in the debates especially when questions of great general interest were under consideration by the House. It was, however, in committee that Mr. Ellis's work told best, for there his extensive knowledge his intimate acquaintance with trade and labor conditions, as well as with banking and financial operation, backed by a sound judgement, gave to his expressed views a force and influence which always carried conviction of their soundness to those who earnestly considered them.

He was deeply interested in the young especially in those who, graduating from our Advanced and High Schools, are about to enter upon the greater School of Life and Duty. To these he not only gave words of encouragement, but offered prizes by which their energies were stimulated, and their ambitions aroused to win success. As a member of the Board of School Trustees of St. John from the inception of the law, for over twenty years Mr. Ellis gave his best powers to the carrying forward of the ever increasing responsibilities of those stirring times, and his opinions, when expressed, carried weight with his co-trustees. In sundry schools he offered medals and prizes—both books and gold—as incentives to diligence, and at all times was a welcome visitor in school or assembly hall. Indeed he was generous in his offers not only to the public schools, but to private institutions where he was satisfied that good work was being done. At the University of New Brunswick he had greatly helped struggling students with cash prizes. The honorary degree of LL.D. was conferred by the Senate on Mr. Ellis at the Convocation in 1897. He was for several years a member of the Senate.

In Masonic and other fraternal societies Mr. Ellis was always very active, and rose to the highest offices in the gift of the several orders to which he belonged. As chief officer in several of these, he visited, from time to time, gatherings all over the Dominion, and was heartily welcomed wherever he went. He was also a frequent delegate to gatherings of the Order in the United States. He was one of the oldest members of Carleton Union Lodge, and had been Grand Master of New Brunswick. A 33rd degree Mason, he had filled the important post of Sovereign Grand Commander of the Scottish Rite in Canada and Illustrious Commander of the Order of the Temple and had attended important conferences of the Order in Belgium and London, representing the Craft in Canada.

He was a charter member of Pioneer Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows; President of the Natural History Society for many years; President of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty, and only retired this spring. He was Treasurer for the Home for Incurables, and was more or less identified with many moral and physical organizations having for their object the development of the minds and bodies of the young, and thus golf, cricket, baseball, tennis, rowing and other clubs drew support from his helpful hands, and were benefited by his aid and support.

He was, indeed, a hearty worker in all that pertained to the welfare of the city and province, and public institutions, public charities, and religious orders, have nothing but grateful memories of his bounty and open-handed helpfulness.

The Fourth Estate will not easily fill the gap caused by the removal of its dean in this city. Mr. Ellis was a man to whom difference of opinion was no bar to friendship; and as between him and the public, the latter has always regarded him as what they called a square man, who was always known where to be found, on every public question of the day, a conscientious writer, even when expressing views not in the line of those held by the successful voting brigade.

Mr. Ellis has left a record clean and honorable in every respect. In every relation of life he stood four-square to every wind that blows, ever steadfast, ever true.

Mr. Ellis married, in 1864, Mary Caroline, daughter of the late Mr. S. W. Babbitt, of Fredericton and they have 7 children: Mrs. H. Lawrence, Mr. F. B. Ellis, Dr. W. L. Ellis, Mrs. E. R. Taylor and Mr. G. D. Ellis, all in St. John, and Mr. J. V. Ellis, jr., engaged in newspaper work in North Yfkima, Washington, and Mr. Joseph N. Ellis, barrister, of Vancouver, who has been at home for some days. Two sisters, Mrs. John J. Kline and Miss Mary Ellis, reside in Halifax. There are fourteen grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The funeral was held last Saturday afternoon from Trinity church at half past two, after a private service at the late residence for the immediate family. At the residence the service was conducted by Ven. Archdeacon Raymond, assisted by Rev. G. F. Scovil, rector of St. Jude's church, and Rev. Percy Colthurst, curate of Trinity.
