The Kaiser A Teetotaler,

Emperor William has joined the ranks of teetotalers. He has forsworn the fatherland's famous beer and cut out his choicest wines. His favorite drink is now lemonade with a dash of orange juice, but he does not force this "Bryanade" on his guests, to whom the usual wines are served.

Persons who are in close contact with him say that this is the result of the Emperor's conviction that alcohol lessens the working capacity of a man. He often expresses the opinion to members of his entourage that immoderate drinking is one of the greatest factors in retarding the development of nations.

Some time ago the Kaiser demanded the latest alcoholic statistics as to suicides, accidents and crimes which resulted from immoderate drinking. After a study of these statistics he experimented on himself and found that even small quantities of liquor lessened his energy and capacity for work, whereupon with characteristic impulsiveness he cut out alcohol entirely.

He never misses an opportunity to descant on the value of temperance and there are some members of his suite who take their wine lightly when dining in his presence. While he was swearing in the naval recruits at Wilhelmshaven recently, the Emperor took occasion to deliver a lecture on temperance and drank a toast in water. He also recently told army officers who asked if there would be any objection if his health was drunk in water that on the contrary he would be well pleased.

Lawyers Busy on Harry Thaw's Case

Sherbrooke, Que., Sept. 3.—Lawyers working for and against the deportation of Thaw were on the alert to-day mindful of the fact that Judge Hutchinson might at any time hand down his decision on the habeas corpus writ. Although the court did not say definitely when he would render judgement, there were those who believed that he would announce his findings to-day.

The court's ruling will be rendered in writing, and he agreed to summon counsel to the chambers in ample time before its delivery. If the writ is sustained, Thaw will be ejected from the Sherbrooke jail, and arrested by immigration officers for deportation. His counsel may then seek to secure another writ of habeas corpus demanding his release from the Immigration Department.

N. K. Laflamme, of Montreal, one of the most eminent criminal lawyers in the Dominion, was due here to-day to reinforce the Thaw lawyers.

There were current to-day reports that Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, mother of the fugitive, would soon arrive in Sherbrooke, to insure counsel of their fees and expenses.

Some of the Thaw lawyers, it is said, have again expressed dissatisfaction over the fact that no responsible head of the family has remained on the scene and that while money was talked of no large amounts have been in evidence. A great deal of money will be needed to carry on a protracted legal fight, particularly in Vermont, in the matter of extradition proceedings, or in case of an appeal from the ruling of the immigration authorities. The New York interests have made elaborate plans for getting Thaw from Vermont to New York, while Thaw's counsel, handicapped by lack of funds, have so far confined their efforts to keeping him in jail.

A by-product of Thaw's escape, as it were the case of "Gentleman Roger," Thompson, chauffeur of the car that whirled Thaw away from Matteawan, was set for trial before Magistrate Mulvna to-day, but by consent was postponed for a week.

How To Salt Meat

All meat to be salted should be cut up when the animal heat has left the carcass, rubbed well with salt, and allowed to drain for about 24 hours. The barrel in which the meat is to be salted must be perfectly clean, says Irene Wilson in The Weekly Witness. A barrel if properly packed will hold about 200 lbs meat, and require from six to eight gallons of pickle. Pack the meat carefully in the barrel, sprinkling salt in the bottom of the barrel and between layers. When the following pickle has been allowed to cool, pour it on the meat through a cheesecloth. Pickle—Eight gallons water (soft preferred), sixteen lbs. salt, six ounces saltpetre, six lbs. brown sugar. Bring to a boil with gentle heat, removing the scum as it rises or, if preferred, hams, shoulders and bacons may be dry salted:

First rub over the dessert spoon saltpetre dissolved in half cup warm water then rub with 2 cups dry sugar, then rub in as much salt as the pork will take. In ten days rub again with salt being careful to rub well into the ends of the bones. Hang up, and in six weeks the pork will be cured.

If desired, the pork can be smoked under a barrel or box. The process is slow, and the fire must not be allowed to burn, just smoulder. If smoked quickly, the smoke does not penetrate to the inside of the ham.

To store hams, etc., coat them with flour paste, prepared by rubbing up two teaspoonfuls flour in a little cold water, bringing to a boil, and stirring in a tea spoonful of cayenne pepper. Cover the ham quickly with this paste, and hang in the direct sunlight until dry. Wrap tightly in wrapping paper, and hang out.

FOSTERVILLE

Harvesting is now at hand. Report fair, but if the weather had not been so dry would have been better.

Playing ball is the order of the day. The Canterbury ball team played the Forest City team last week much to the disappointment of the Canterbury team. The Forest City team won the honors and was cheered by a larger part of the crowd.

Hanged For Murder

Vancouver, Aug. 28.—Henry Wagner, nicknamed the "Flying Dutchman" maintained his reputation for nerve and coolness this morning when he walked unaided to the scaffold and without an apparent tremor was swung into eternity. Hangman Ellis had arrangements so complete that only thirty seconds elapsed from the time Wagner stepped resolutely into the jail yard until the trap was sprung. The condemned man was attired only in an undershirt and overalls. His face, unshaven for several weeks, and his long hair, gave him a very wild appearance. Captain Green of the Salvation Army, accompanied Wagner to the scaffold, Wagner made no confession, but left a letter to his wife, who lives in a cabin on Marquette Island. The murderer passed a very uneasy night. A week ago, Wagner attempted to batter his brains out against the cell walls. He had boasted that he would never be executed.

6 Year Old Girl Is Cured of Kidney Trouble

Mrs. Alex. Moore, of James St., Oxford N. S., says. Booth's Kidney Pills cured our little daughter, Christian, age six years, of many symptoms of kidney weakness. She complained of sore back, the kidney secretions were frequent and uncontrollable, especially at night. Her stomach was weak and her appetite poor. This caused her to have frequent headaches, and she would tire her

We had tried many remedies but she did not improve. Finally we learned of Booth's Kidney Pills and procured a box. Adrianople Remains

With Turkey

Adrianople, which Bulgaria and Serbia, while acting as allies, spent thousands of lives in capturing, is, after all, to go back to Turkey. When Bulgaria quarrelled with her allies Turkey took advantage of the situation to retake the city. At first the great European powers talked of compelling the evacuation of the stronghold by Turkey, but they have evidently thought better of this and the Turk will remain where he is. Thus the crescent, which had been almost driven out of Europe by the Christian states when in alliance, has recovered a good deal of lost ground because of the quarrels of the Christian allies over the spoils of war.

The Art of Living.

Many people never learn the art of living, says a writer in the Outlook, because they never see the relative importance of duties, opportunities, and interests, and never discriminate between the things on which they ought to throw the full weight of their energy and those which they ought to touch lightly in passing. In an age of intense activity and of many devices for the distribution of work, those who have discovered that living may be either a half-mastered business or an art soon learn to concentrate interest and work in a few lines, and to deal with the interests to which they commit themselves, not as servants, but as masters of their own and strength.

Canada's Oldest Protestant Church.

St Paul's Church in Halifax, the first Church of England in the Dominion and the oldest Protestant church in Canada, was opened for divine service 163 years ago, Sept 2nd, 1750. The foundation of the sacred edifice was laid in 1749, shortly after the founding of Halifax. Under the patronage of King George II. as royal founder, St Paul's was formally inaugurated in 1750. Rev William Tutty, a missionary who had accompanied the Cornwallis expedition to Halifax, was the first to occupy the pulpit. In 1753 he was succeeded by the Rev John Breynton, who became the first rector of the congregation.

St Paul's parish was constituted in 1758 and in 1783 St Paul's Sunday school was organized. Dr Breynton occupied the pulpit of St Paul's for 38 years and was succeeded in 1791 by the Rev Dr Robert Stanser. He continued in that capacity until 1816, when he became bishop of the diocese of Nova Scotia, succeeding the Rt. Rev Charles Inglis, the first bishop who had served from the creation of the bishopric in 1787. The Rev Dr John Inglis became the third rector of St Paul's, serving from 1816 to 1825, when he was elevated to the bishopric, which he held for a quarter of a century. Dr Robert Willis, the fourth rector, occupied the pulpit of the ancient church for 36 years. Since then four other rectors have served the congregation of the Dominion's oldest Anglican church.

Bank Notes

Made Of Silk

It is possible that before long all bank notes will be printed, not on paper, but on silk of a particular shade. It is by means of photography that most clever bank note forgeries are effected. A company held a private demonstration recently when Mrs Ernest Hart explained a new process which she has invented for waterproofing fabrics without rubber and dyeing them in the same operation. By utilizing this process linen, cotton or other material can be put into one end of a machine white and brought out a few minutes later colored, waterproofed, and dry. Each machine treats 480 yards in a day, and the materials produced are useful in hundreds of trades, from building aeroplanes to bank note making. As regards the latter, the material produced is of such a color that it cannot be photographed.

Problems Of The Large Employer

In the small factory, frequently managed by a resident owner, the continuance of a system of direct contact between employer and worker has generally operated to maintain and perpetuate harmonious relations. The problem before the large corporation-owned plant is to provide that ready touch which, by emphasizing the essential community of interests, establishes a sense of unity and fellowship. It can be done only by making this oneness of aim and interest a reality, and not merely the occasion for pleasant speech-making. It cannot be done by reducing wages; it may be done by dividing profits. Success depends principally on an unflinching insight into the needs and problems of the body of employees, and that insight can only be obtained by sharing the problems of management with the men. The degree to which employers are prepared to go in this direction is a sound indication of their earnestness in desiring the removal of the prevailing mood of discontent.—Engineering Magazine.

Parcel Post as A Collector

Until an enterprising Kansas merchant found it out, nobody supposed that the parcel post might be used as a collector of bad debts. On his books he had a number of accounts that had been standing for months, or even years. Dunning letters had failed to cause a settlement, so he hit upon the scheme of sending a large parcel to each of his creditors. The parcel was stuffed with excelsior or waste paper, and lying on top of it was the receipted bill for the amount owing. The parcels were sent C O D, the expense of each parcel being 15c. to the merchant. He counted rightly on the result. Each creditor, when he could open the parcel, was required to pay the bill, for in nearly every case the parcel was accepted, and the money forwarded by the postal authorities to the merchant. Now some of the dead beats are complaining that the ruse of the merchant was illegal, but the district attorney, to whom the matter was referred, gave it as his opinion that the scheme was perfectly legal, there being no fraud or imposition, that the recipients of the parcel were not obliged to take it, but that once having accepted the parcel, they were not entitled to a refund.

The Fires Of London

The Great Fire of London commenced 247 years ago, Sept. 2, 1666. It raged with fury for several days and left 200,000 people homeless.

The monument of London, long the loftiest structure of its kind in the world, was built in 1671 to commemorate the "Great Fire," which came as a blessing in disguise. For years the second of September was celebrated in London as the day of deliverance from the "Great Plague," which had threatened the extermination of the whole population of the city until the cleansing flames put an end to its ravages.

"This is the last of London!" the horrified people cried as they fled before the great waves of fire which spread on the wings of a fierce wind over a city already stricken to death. The plague, beginning late in 1664, claimed nearly a hundred thousand victims before the infection was destroyed by fire.

The fire began in a baker's house in Pudding Lane, and in the course of four days it destroyed 13,200 houses, eighty-nine churches, the city gates, the Royal Exchange, Guildhall and the Custom House. About 200,000 homeless people camped in Islington and Highgate fields. Coming after the desolation from the plague, the distress was extreme.

A year passed before London recovered from the shock, and realized that the conflagration had been a blessing. The city was much improved in rebuilding, particularly by the use of stone and brick in place of wood as building materials.

Seismic Disturbance

Messina, Sicily, Aug. 29.—The seismic instruments here have recorded during the past 24 hours continued earth disturbances, and their constancy has caused considerably alarm owing to the number of sharp shocks recently felt. A strong hurricane also has been blowing, which has caused the virtual destruction of a number of houses in the American quarter. The populace fears that these conditions foretell a fresh disaster.

The new rule on the Boston & Maine, that the passenger must travel on the same train with his baggage to be entitled to have his baggage checked, naturally causing a good protest.
